Wise of the Horse Pistol wrote from Bungers Mill, four miles west of Lewisburg, August 1, 1861, that West Virginia was gone so far as the Confederacy was concerned and that the people of the western waters were submitting, debased and subdued in the belief that the Confederacy could never retake the northwestern part of the State, and that he had fallen back from Kanawha not a minute too soon.

The most of the troops who honored this county with their presence that summer were lowlanders from the cotton country and that is why the mountain got them.

Valley Mountain as soon as it crosses the turnpike and commences to tower in the air is called Cheat Mountain and it is as bold a rampart as is to be found in the State. It curves around away from the pass like a horseshoe and the eastern side is Back Alleghany, and the side that looks down on Elkwater and Huttonsville is Cheat. In this horseshoe the main fork of Cheat River heads and by the time it gets to where the Staunton & Parkersburg Road crosses

Up against the outerrim of the horseshoe the Ohio River heads as the Tygarts Valley River. Lee must have felt that summer that he was biting on granite. Sickness in the camp, and nothing going right. He planned to attack the fortification at Elkwater about the middle of September. The army at Bartow was to cross the wilderness and fall in behiud the forces at White's Top on the pike, and while a part of the troops held the army on White's Top, the rest would drop down into Tygarts Valley and march up stream and attack the fortification in the rear, while Lee marched down stream and gave them what-for in their front. Never was a battle better planned and never was one worse executed, but to one who knows what the spruce woods on top of Cheat are like, it is apparent that Lee could not have known the character of the country, or he would not have required it of them.

of Cheat was an unheard of project. The evergreens are as thick as wheat in a field. There are great patches of laurel a bear could hardly penetrate. The dense growth of some thing like a hundred thousand board feet to the acre means that the ground is covered with decaying trunks. There are plants there that are called hobblerod that make a passage painful and difficult. And there are windfalls that cannot be negotiated in the night time.

And realizing that the pike was sealed, the orders were on the night of September 13, to climb the mountain and parallel the pike on both sides and silently pass over the mountains and fall in behind the enemy at White's Top.

You will remember that after topping Back Allegheny Mountain that it is some miles across a boggy, swampy country, so covered with fir that the sun could hardly light it in the daytime, and once across that Cheat Mountain was to be climbed.

feather misplaced now and then."—Yonkers Statesman.

Odd Census Taking

Nopaltzin, chief of the Chicthimecan tribe of Indians that once inhabited the valley of Mexico, devised a simple plan for taking the census of his subjects. Under his system no census-taker trod upon the newly washed front porch of the careful housewife, leaving footprints in sticky clay. Nor did the agent inquire into the private matter of the family head. Instead, each subject placed a small stone for each member of his family. Carriers then collected the stones and hauled them to an open field, where they were counted and placed in heaps. Twelve of these heaps have been discovered by scientists and a count of the stones indicates the Chicthimecan tribe contained 3,200,000 members.

Truthfulness in Child

You will remember that topping Back Allegheny Mountain that it is some miles across a boggy, swampy country, so covered with fir that the sun could hardly light it in the daytime, and once across that Cheat Mountain was to be climbed.

To add to the horrors of those southern boys from a warm climate, the first snow of the winter began to fall that night and when the men got into that dank morass through which Cheat River winds its murky way, they scattered. All sense of direction was lost and the soldiers were cold and freezing, lost and bewildered. Few shots were exchanged with the enemy. It is to be supposed that a few of the soldiers would drift out that way but as it was up hill, not very many. Under circumstances like this men throw away their arms and engage in a mad scramble to get some where, or else sit down under a tree and stay there until they die.

Of course the greater number found their ways back to camp or to

"Haunted" by an Odor

A Monmouthshire farmhouse here is "haunted" by an odor of violets, says the Newport (England) correspondent of the Associated Press.

An overpowering perfume of freshly-gathered violets fills one of the rooms to such an extent that the tenant has had to vacate it, and although the floorboards have been examined and the walls distempered the odor persists. The house is nearly three hundred years old.

A legend has been unearthed of a girl who was stabbed on her wedding morning by a jilted lover, and the story says that she was killed while arranging a bowl of violets.

The farmer discredits the tale, but careful investigation leaves the mystery unsolved.

tree and stay there until they die.

Of course the greater number found their ways back to camp or to the Valley Mountain camp but it was days before the army was in shape to present a warlike front. The attack of September 14 had failed because the mountains took a hand in the business and it was destined that these troops should not make a battlefield out of the smiling meadows near the Elkwater.

To give you some idea of how dense the growth may be in Cheat, some time ago a party of us in that difficult country came on a growth of young fir trees covering a great acreage that we estimated to grow forty-five thousand trees to the acre. The top of this forest looks as closely woven as carpet.

Loring had charge of this flanking movement. Putting one and one together, we find that the army was lost in the wilderness on the night of the 13th of September, and that on the next day that Lee sent down from Washington and that this party approaching the Federal breastworks were fired upon and Major Washington was killed. There can be little doubt but that Lee sent that party down the valley to ascertain if he could whether the army had got acrose Cheat, and was in the valley north of and below the Elkwater fort.

In the meantime Lee was bedevilled with the troubles of two contending rivals, those roosters, General Floyd and General Wise who were quarrelling in the Kanawha Valley as to which was in supreme command, both calling on Lee to support their contentions, as Lee was the highest officer of Virginia, though only a brigadier general of the Confederacy. What is a surprise to most people is to hear that Gen. Robert E. Lee did not become commander in chief of all the Confederate forces until 1865 just before the war closed.

Lee evidently decided not to attack the strongly fortified Federals at either of their impregnable forts. Anyway there was no more fighting that year on the Randolph and Pocahontas line near Mingo Flats not yet at White's Top.

After that Lee evidently decided to remain on the defensive. And the Federals had been on the defensive the whole time.

Now here is a bit of history that will not be found in any of the books or dispatches, but I got it from eye witnesses, most reliable men, and while it was still fresh in their minds. I taught a school at Big Spring on the site of Lee's encamp ment. The old men told me that the wet summer of 1861 terminated in one of the biggest rains that ever fell in these mountains producing one of the greatest flood ever known in these streams, and that the big rain of all rains culminated in a down pour that lasted all night, and that by day light next morning that both armies, Federal and Confederate, had broken camp in the night and the tempest, and that both were in head-long retreat. The Confederates fled south up the Old Field Fork of Elk and cut a timber barricade at Crook-ed Fork at the foot of Elk Mountain. I have seen this barricade myself. The Federal forces retreated down

NEW CHURCH BUILDING

At a well attended congregational meeting of the Marlinton Presbyterian church Sunday morning, it was decided to take immediate steps toward a new church building. An attempt will be made to raise a fund of $10,000 for the purpose. A committee on finances composed of Rev. J. M. Walker, Dr. N. R. Price, J. A. Hoover and Allan P. Edgar was named, and they will report to a meeting of the congregation to be held on the first Sunday in April.

A telegram brought the sad news to Mrs. J. M. Walker that her father, Rev. [illegible]

Tygarts River, and it was the case with both armies that a number of men were drowned in the fordings of the creeks.

The Union forces turned east at Huttonsville and marched towards Staunton and fought the battle of Greenbrier, the battle of the Top of Allegheny, the battle of Monterey, and the Battle of McDowell, all on the Staunton and Parkersburg pike. Stonewall Jackson turned them at McDowell and they went by Franklin.

Lee having extricated his army went to Richmond, and soon after that he was sent to take charge of the coast defences of South Carolina and Georgia and he spent the first winter of the war in the far south.

I can find no evidence of Lee having gone into southern West Virginia that fall. Wise and Floyd fought it out down there with more or less success but their armies marched east across the mountains before winter. And to the north the Confederates fell back to the top of Allegheny practically evacuating all of the Western Waters at the end of the first year's campaign.

Last summer the new highway over Middle Mountain and Valley Mountain was being graded as route 24, or Seneca Trail, and at one place the excavation uncovered a great army dump pile in which all sorts of war trophies were to be found rang-days at his old home before moving to Pennsylvania.

Charles McLaughlin thinks the war will continue.

trophies were to be found ranging from muskets to parts of cannon. This was left by Lee's first command in the civil war.

The only luck that the Federal forces had in 1861 was in West Virginia, and I will always believe that the mountains won that for them.

Ambrose Bierce was a Union soldier in camp at White's Top, at the time of the movement on September 14. He was a seasoned trooper having served his first three months and beginning on his second enlistment. He does not know that an attack was made or contemplated.

He says: "It was a strange country. Nine in ten of us had never seen a mountain, nor a hill, as high as a church spire, until we had crossed the Ohio River. In power upon the emotions nothing, I think, is comparable to a first sight of mountains. To a member of a plains-tribe, born and reared on the flats of Ohio or Indiana, a mountain region was a perpetual miracle. From all reports received there is more plowing being done in this county this spring than has ever been known. Maybe another winter will see enough feed in this county to carry the cattle through. There is no good reason why we should not raise enough feed to do. The land is here and it is rich and all that is needed is a little more elbow grease. The silo is one of the methods that is helping and making one acre winter more than five acres of good hay land. Lime is another thing that is being used more and more and it is giving good results from the very first year that it is put on the ground.

As for Robert E. Lee when he found his summer's work reduced to nothing by this great mishap of the jungle, he was inclined to believe the report that the mountaineer guide had misled his troops and lost them in the fen, and for a time it looked like he was about ready to hang a certain young Pocahontas county man who had undertaken to guide the army. But Lee must have found out that he had been at fault himself in ordering his men to penetrate the Cheat Bottom in the night time, for nobody was executed and the guide lived to be an old man and a respected citizen of this county.

It is the intention in this article to relate how Cheat Mountain got the collective goat of an army in war time and changed the history of the country.

A few years ago as the wilderness of Cheat Mountain was being timbered off the workmen would come upon old muskets, sabres, and bayonets lost in these uplands of Hell, by a lost army of demoralized men who had been sent into those tangled thickets to turn the position of a fortified camp at White's Top. These men suffered peril and privation and no one ever knew how many of them left their bones to whiten in the forest.

SILVER WEDDING

Mr. and Mrs. A. D Williams celebrated the twenty-fifth anniversary of their marriage Sunday, January 23 1927, at the Marlin-Sewell Hotel, Marlinton. The feature of the day was a surprise party composed of their brothers and sisters and their families residing in Marlinton. The rain and road conditions prevented others coming. Mrs Willliams was the recipient of sixty five silver dollars and other silver mementoes.

At 1:30 o'clock the party was invited to the dining room where a bountiful, well prepared dinner was nicely served and much enjoyed by the twenty-five persons seated at the table. Those present were:

Mr and Mrs. A. D. Williams, Mr. and Mrs. E. H. Williams, Mr. and Mrs. Harlow Waugh, Mr. and Mrs. C. Ernest Denison, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur C. One of the interesting features of the occasion was that Mr. Brown had issued marriage licenses to all the married couples at the table, and Miss Lizzie Waugh has been Sunday School teacher to all but two of the young people seated at the table.

Mr. Williams called attention to the fact that twenty-five years ago there was not an automobile in Pocahontas county; the wedding conveyance was a buggy pulled by a white horse. The snow was about eight inches deep in Marlinton, and the lanes from Edray to Marlinton were drifted full of snow.

The twenty-five years just passed has been about one sixth of the life of the United States and approximately one seventy-seventh of the Christian era. It has been the most eventful twenty-five years in history because more has been done to lift the burden of transportation from flesh and blood to physical forces; and through the telephone, radio, radio photography, airoplane and the discovery of various electri-

SPRING

This poem was written by Martha Wilmoth, aged 12, who attends the Top Alleghany School.

The snow is whirling downward,
The winds are rough and wild,
The summer days are over,
That were so warm and mild.

Tomorrow the sun may shine a bit,
The day be warm and clear,
The gay snow birds may hop around
Thinking spring is very near.

But spring will come, dear birdies,
Then you can fly around;
The trees within the orchard,
Or nest upon the ground.

Oh, happy, happy little birds,
When you can fly and sing,
Thruout the bright and happy lands,
And to us gladness bring?

guest. her mother Mrs Flynn of Elkins

Last Saturday was one good day for fox chasing and wild cat hunting. I could not tell the number of messages coming in from various parts of the county about dogs being after deer. Some dogs just can't naturally stick to the business in hand when chasing a fox if a deer breaks out in front of them. The farmers will not stand to have their deer disturbed in any such manner.

THE CORNER OAK

In the first year Community Civics class of E. D. H. S. we have been taking up local history. One of the things we are making a special study of is the Corner Oak which is located near Rexrode's garage. It is the oldest marked tree west of the Alleghany Mountains. It was marked in 1751 by General Andrew Lewis, of Virginia.

Our class has decided as it is such a famous tree, to try to clean the grounds around it and put up a sign telling about its history.

We sent a representative from Our Class to the town council to see about erecting the "No Parking" sign and to see if they approved of our steps toward the cleaning up and beautifying of the Corner Tree.

Our Class was given the privilege of going ahead with this project and the Council was very much pleased with the idea.

We not only want to do this, but other things that would improve our civic beauty.

ductive condition. While ... not relieve the immediate financial problem now confronting the counties in which tney lie, it is believed that in the long run the counties have more to gain from the restoration of the forest to a condition productive of revenue than by allowing the present destructive process to continue.

"It should also be borne in mind in this connection that purchase by the United States of 50 per cent of the land area of a county does not necessarily mean the removal of 50 percent of the taxable property in the county, since the land tax ordinarily represents only a part of the county income and the lands purchased by the United States, which usually comprise the least valuable tracts, represent only a small part of the total land valuation on which taxes are paid.

"While it is the expressed puspose of the Forest Service to acquire these

GREENBANK COMMUNITY

A Community Council has been formed at Greenbank with T. P. Harwood chairman, and nine other persons, each chairman of their respective activities:

Mack Brooks	Recreation
Mrs. Dr. McCutcheon	Health
Mrs. Joe Woodddell	Homes

The Committee on Communite Spirit plans to write and print a history of the community, have a flower show, district fair, and a forestry program. The Committee of Citizenship plans to make people better acquainted with government and to distribute government bulletins, and literature; to improve schools; to go to other communities and to have other communities come in and put on meetings; to have the 4-H Clubs together once during the year. In all things right he'll play his part,
In a loader wreck he got his start.

Judge George W. McClintic, always with the best interests of his native county and state at heart, has been giving consideration to probable effects of the wholesale buying up lands in Pocahontas County for national forests purposes. His is the acute, analizing mind, and he readily sees there are two sides to this question of the federal government buying up lands in the country—that is to say, there are behefits and there also draw backs. In a letter to Congressman Jennings Randolph the Judge says:

"I have seen, in the public prints, that you were very much interested in the subject matter of buying up lands in West Virginia for national forests, and especially lands in the County of Pocahontas.

"I am a farm-land owner in that county, and likewise an actual farmer, and I have been paying up the loss on that farm for some time, and probably will for some time to come.

better acquainted with government and to distribute government bulletins, and literature; to improve schools; to go to other communities and to have other communities come in and put on meetings; to have the 4-H Clubs together once during the year. The Committee on Recreation plans to build some playground equipment; have a community picnic and to have adults play games. The Committee on Health is going to have a sub-committee; health clinic; distribute government bulletins; have wells cased and water tested. The Committee on Homes is going to study home problems and have a Kitchen Scoring contest. The Committee on Schools is going to make the schcol grounds and buildings beautiful, to get pictures and books for schools. The Committee on Business plans to have farmers buy co operatively and use ten cars of lime stone, and five cars of fertilizer. The Committee on Farms plans to standardize potatoes, sheep, poultry, to study farm dairying, improve pastures, and to encourage the use of lime and legumes.

"I am a farm-land owner in that county, and likewise an actual farmer, and I have been paying up the loss on that farm for some time, and probably will for some time to come.

"The public prints say that the Government of the United States may buy possibly one-half the total acreage of land in Pocahontas County I do not know whether you thoroughly appreciate what this would mean for the farmers who were left and who would have to pay the taxes to keep the county running. To withdraw one-half the acreage of the county from taxation is a very serious matter. There is a county in North Carolina by the name of Swain, or Swayne, from which the Government and the Indians have taken sixty per cent of the land, and the authorities of that county have been trying to get Congress to grant some relief, under the peculiar circumstances. The matter will be up at the next session. so I am informed.

"I would most respectfully, yet earnestly, suggest to you that if this

The Greenbank Community has a score of 785 with 1000 as the perfect community. This makes Greenbank rank at the top in the State scoring. The scores run all the way from 444 to 815. It is the purpose of these committees to improve their score by doing things, improving the different phases of their community life. It is home missionary work.

The community has an organization called a Community Council made up of ten members, a chairman and nine members. These nine members are each in charge of a page and topic in the score card. A second phase of the community work is the program given each month by the

THE CANDIDATES

Greenbank District comes to the front this week with a candidate for the Democratic nomination for Clerk of the Circuit Court, in the person of John Uriah Hevener, of Dunmore. He is a fine upstanding young citizen with all the qualifications of a strong candidate and a capable Circuit Clerk. He is a son of John R. Hevener, of Cloverlick, and a grandson of the late Uriah Hevener, of the Greenbank District.

At the entrance of the United States in the World War, Mr. Hevener was just the right age and his country required of him service as a soldier. And he made a good one. Few men saw harder or more honorable service than he.

Mr. Hevener entered the service October 4, 1917; was appointed sergeant December 7, and he held this rank until he was discharged July 26, 1919. He sailed for France February 27, 1918, landing at Brest on

Cross, Irritable Husbands Often Victims of Chronic Fatigue

MANY a wife thinks that because her husband is always cross and irritable, criticizing and complaining, that he does not love her any longer or that he is working too hard—when as a matter of fact the real cause of his "flare-ups" is—chronic fatigue.

Chronic fatigue is entirely different from the ordinary fatigue you feel after hard work. Chronic fatigue comes from within. Your nerves, organs, and muscles have become debilitated due to lack of sufficient organic iron in your blood.

To conquer chronic fatigue you must strengthen your system by restoring this organic iron to your blood. But don't take the older mineral iron medicines which many doctors now say do little good. Take organic iron—Nuxated Iron—which is like the iron in your blood and like that in spinach and lentils. Unlike ordinary mineral iron, it will not injure the teeth or disturb the stomach, but is promptly assimilated.

Take Nuxated Iron for just two weeks and you'll be astonished how much stronger and better you feel. Money back if not improved. At all good druggists.

FIRE AT THORNWOOD

On Monday morning fire destroyed two stores and two homes in the town of Thornwood. The fire started in the store of T. M. Calhoun, and spread to the store and home of J. C. Willey. The buildings were burned up and but little could be saved of the two stocks of goods and the household goods of the two families. The loss is placed at about $15,000, partially covered by insurance.

The house of Andy Rose, of Buckley Mountain, near Buckeye, burned down last Monday night. Mr. Rose, an aged man, was by himself. He had laid down on his bed. When the fire awakened him, the roof was about to fall in. He grabbed a pair of shoes and got out the door just in time. He was painfully burned about the face.

The Civil Works program is getting well under way in Pocahontas County Monday of this week there had been placed under the R. F. C. and were at work no less than 445 men. This is out of an allotment of 627 for the county out of 72,000 for the whole state. This is well over 60 per cent of the allotment, and no other county in the state had over 50 percent of allotment at work. Here are the projects and the number of men at work:

Cass street work 20 men
Thorny Flat-Linwood road 36 men
Back Allegheny road 33 men
Durbin Sewers, 72 men
Hillsboro-Denmar road 35 men
Lobelia-Jacox road 30 men

Cloverlick road 30 men
Browns Creek road 36 men.

Other projects contemplated are: Cass to Greenbank road; Hillsboro to Lobelia road; grading work at Cass and Durbin schools; 25 dug wells on school grounds; painting of 50 school rooms. As I understand it, these projects will come in our quota of 627 men.

There is another project contemplated, that of needed roads and grading at the State Sanitarium for colored people at Denmar. If this can be had, it will mean additional men.

The first checks were issued last Friday. About 130 of them; the ones I saw were for $8.40. This week will see over 400 in circulation in Pocahontas county.

THE VETERANS

Dear Editor:

My mother, Mrs. J. O. Beard. of Arbovale gave me a scrap book of her sister's Mrs. Van Buren Arbogast, sometime ago to read. I find many things of interest in it that are dated many years ago. I have not read it entirely, and so many of the items mentioned in it I do not know the people, although have heard father and mother mention them.

I am enclosing a copy taken from the Pocahontas Times in 1894 that might be of interest to many to read. If you would like to publish it in the Times, would be glad to have you do so. From time to time I could send you many items from the book if you would like to have them.

Yours very truly,
Mrs. Wilma Beard Harper

THE VETERANS

(From Pocahontas County, 1894)

Old Confederate Soldiers Meet and Organize a Camp.

On last Wednesday the Confederate veterans of Pocahontas county met and formed a camp. Wm. M. McCallister, Commander of the Bath County Camp, called the meeting to order, and throughout the whole proceedings was most active and efficient in aiding by his advice organization.

Dr. Ligon was made President of the meeting and took the chair with appropriate remarks. Col Gatewood acted as Secretary.

The object of the formation of this camp is given in the following clause adopted by the camp.

The object shall be to perpetuate the memory of our fallen comrades, and to minister, as far as practicable, to the wants of those who were permanently disabled in the service, to preserve and maintain that sentiment of fraternity born of hardships and dangers shared in the march, the bivouac, and the battle-field. It is not proposed to prolong the animosities engendered by war, but to extend to our late adversaries, on every dangers shared in the march, the bivouac, and the battle-field. It is not proposed to prolong the animosities engendered by war, but to extend to our late adversaries, on every occasion, courtesies which are always proper between soldiers and which a common citizenship demands at our hands. We propose to avoid everything which partakes of partisanship in religion and politics, but at the same time we will lend our aid to the maintainance of law and the preservation of order.

The name adopted was "The Pocahontas Camp of Confederate Veterans."

Commander	Col. A. C. L Gatewood
First Lieut. Com.	S. B. Hannah
2nd Lieut. Com.	Capt. Wm. McNeel
3rd Lieut. Com.	Levi Gay
Adjutant	John J. Beard
Quartermaster	Calvin Price
Surgeon	Dr. Ligon

Assistant surgeon	W. C. Mann

STATIONS DISCONTINUED

The public service commission has authorized the C. & O. railroad to discontinue its non-agency stations at Maple, Greenbrier county, and Droop, Pocahontas county. The railroad's application to discontinue the agencies was heard on April 11, when it was testified that no freight had been shipped from Droop for two years, while passenger trains would continue to stop when flagged. No freight had been shipped from Maple in 12 months, according to testimony.

SCHOOL BOARDS

It is quite common for folks to feel that their work is not appreciated as it should be In every phase of life this is probably true; but no where is the lack of appreciation more evident than is shown by the usual attitude of the public toward the members of Districts Boards of Education. If we were to judge from the general comment with references to the actions of this class of persons, we would be led to believe that the only good ones, are ex-members and "dead" members.

The kind of work they are required to do subjects them to criticism by a great many people who never stop to investigate as to facts.

These board members serve their local people as district officers, being called upon frequently to decide controversies between their neighbors. They fix the levies, locate school buildings, let contracts for construction, employ teachers—in fact have complete control over the schools of their districts. In exercising this authority in any spirit of progress and fairness they necessarily offend many folks whose selfish requests have been refused They are criticiseed if they "do" and they are criticised if they "don't."

Many are large tax payers without any children to attend school. They sacrifice their time, cheerfully levy on themselves and pay heavy taxes, and worry over local problems for the good of all.

Do you know some busy board member, who works hard at home and travels miles through the rail or snow, possibly at night to attend meetings of the board to help work out some building or other program for the schools of his district? If you do, tell him how much you appreciate his efforts, and in the name of justice and fair play don't write the State Superintendent or the County Superintendent criticising him unless you have some cause for doing so.

Arrangements Completed For Fourth July Celebration At Droop Mountain

Committees appointed to make arrangements for the Fourth of July Celebration at Droop Mountain State Park have completed their work, and have everything in tip-top shape for one of the biggest celebrations ever held in the county.

The athletic committee, composed of Kerth Nottingham, S. Reid Moore, Austin Sharp and Clifford Hill, have arranged for athletic games for both morning and afternoon.

Music for the day will be furnished by the Durbin Band, and singing clubs from various parts of the county are expected to be there in full force.

Droop Mountain Battlefield Park was dedicated last year when more than 10,000 people from Pocahontas and nearby counties gathered for a Fourth of July Celebration. Since that time few improvements have been made in the grounds. It is hoped that the celebration this year will arouse renewed interest sufficient to push the park to completion.

The following committees selected to carry out the program have been working on the program for more than two months, and have completed arrangements for one of the biggest and best celebrations ever staged in this section.

General Committee—George Edgar, R. S. Hickman and J. A. McLaughlin, and Hevener Dilley.

Marriage is a desperate thing.—John Seldon.

They say that the court house is the theater of the South. That is not so exclusively true as it once was since the lighter forms of drama have invaded every county in the land, and thrills and dramatic touches are within the reach of all. But it is true that truth is stranger than fiction. For instance, in no serious play would there be three husbands in attendacce upon the trial of their wife for murder. Yet that was seen in this county. At October term, Mrs. Ella Irene Buzzard, her son-in-law Joe Collins, and Mrs. Joe Collins, were tried upon a charge of killing Mrs. Lou Collins, mother of Joe Collins, at Clover Lick. The trial resulted in a hung jury. At the April term this year another trial was had and a verdict of involuntary manslaughter was returned, and Judge Sharp imposed a jail sentence of thirty days and costs of the suit as punishment. It was a celebrated case and it was presented and tried thoroughly and well. The three men who watched the first trial with peculiar interest were three men who

It was a celebrated case and it was presented and tried thoroughly and well. The three men who watched the first trial with peculiar interest were three men who had some time or other been married to Mrs. Buzzard. Mrs. Buzzard comes of one of the oldest and most respected families in the county and her own life has been eventful. She is the daughter of Mrs. Ellen Buzzard, who departed this life during the recent inclement winter, aged over a hundred years. Joe Collins is a young veteran of the late war, and a hard working and industrious man, who had made a good living for his family, and who had accumulated substantial savings, about all of which has been expended in defending the case. His young wife received more sympathy than any of the defendants.

The trouble grew out of a family row in their house last September. The three defendants had arranged to take a motor trip north, and Joe's mother presented a problem as to her care and attention while the rest of the family would be touring the country. She was in bad health and Joe tried to get her admitted to the county hospital for treatment, offering to pay the charges, but to this his mother did not agree, for there is an anomalous condition in this county, growing out of the fact that our finest hospital is at the same time our county poor house, the terror of myriads of worthy persons. So that morning there was a family quarrel that attracted the attention of the neighbors. There is no question but that all were consumed with furious anger and anger always manages everything badly. Old Mrs. Collins was put out on the back porch with her luggage. There she appeared to be helpless and was removed by neighbors to another home, while Joe went to consult the universal adviser, the nearest squire. On his return, having no apprehension apparently of serious consequences, he did not pay any particular attention to his mother, who within a few hours passed away. The case could not be ignored for it became the subject of great interest throughout the county.

return, having no apprehension apparently of serious consequences, he did not pay any particular attention to his mother, who within a few hours passed away. The case could not be ignored for it became the subject of great interest throughout the county.

Here was an aged woman who had died from the combined effects of old age, disease, anger, excitement and rough treatment, and this combined with the near relationship of the parties concerned made a celebrated case.

There was a case of a son whose old mother had to be closely watched that she did not overeat. One day when the rest of the family were at church, the son from carelessdess or criminal intent allowed his mother to eat a large pickled cucumber from the effects of which she died. That was a case that created some suspicion but there was no trial. At the best old age is an incurable disease.

At this trial one of the witnesses, Dr. Irvine, attended from Wisconsin, the effects of which she died. That was a case that created some suspicion but there was no trial. At the best old age is an incurable disease.

At this trial one of the witnesses, Dr. Irvine, attended from Wisconsin, something like a thousand miles. Pocahontas and Wisconsin were formerly in the same county, but the territory of the original county of Augusta has been much subdivided. There was an order that excused attendance on courts from the Ohio and westward, and the sheriff living in Staunton was not required to ride in the northwest territory.

Marriage is still a popular institution in the country, one of the reasons being perhaps that if the worst comes to the worst that relief may be prayed for in a bill of divorcement. In 1924, in the United States, there seems to have been 1,178,206 weddings and 170,867 divorces, about one in ten. In West Virginia there were 18,333 marriages and 1885 divorces, just about the average. The other states varied from Nevada with 1079 marriages and 1037 divorces, to

A case touched the immigration laws remotely. John Shire came here from Russia before the great war and went to work at the tannery and proved to be an industrious and inteiligent man. He has unbounded energy and good humor and he has learned the language of this country. His credit is good. He is a neat man of exemplary habits and is a respected citizen of this town. It is easy like a camel going through the eye of a needle for an immigrant to get his papers, but in the class to come up before the Circuit Court, John Shire graduated and was given a diploma of citizenship.

A few years ago John Shire having saved much money, visited back to Russia where he was born and no doubt informed his friends in that weird country of amatur statesmen, of the glorious opportunities that each individual has in America. A few years ago John Shire having saved much money, visited back to Russia where he was born and no doubt informed his friends in that weird country of amatur statesmen, of the glorious opportunities that each individual has in America. And while he was visiting back at Griggsby's Station, or whatever flag-stop it is where his people live, he was united in marriage with Eva, his sweetheart. The time came for John to return to America and he could not bring Eva with him. The bigots of an iron age had barred out all but a select few of the foreigners, forgetting that we are all immigrants or descendants of immigrants. The history of America is the story of the immigrant now the subject of sneer and taunt.

Since John returned little Olga Shire has arrived and she is anxious to see her daddy. When the Circuit Court qualified John the other day, the first thing he did was to see about getting Eva and Olga across by making application for a visa that will bring them to the port of New York, where they will be met by the faithful John and become acceptable to the United States.

They are quota immigrants but as the wife and daughter of a citizen of the United States they have first preference for a visa or an okd passport.

The citizenship of John Shire was celebrated by many citizens of the town and county wishing him well, and I invited him to a Kiwanis ban-celebrated by many citizens of the town and county wishing him well, and I invited him to a Kiwanis banquet where he shook hands all around the table and sang the Star Spangled Banner with the rest of the diners before the big flag.

We are watching the slow process of the uniting of the Shire family and everything is working well so far as we know, but if there is any hitch in the proceedings, we now call on Congressman Taylor to be prepared to hear cries from this part of his vineyard, if the stormy seas that divide the Shire family, should turn into a sargassa sea of red tape. Uncle Sam has a heart, easily touched, in meritorious cases. Let everyone help to smooth the way for John, Eva and Olga.

In the papers of a lawsuit filed away in the courthouse is a sample of a store account and a family budget for the citizens of Pocahontas county in the year 1825. George Richards was the merchant. The account contained the following items:

I looked over the accounts for a number of years and it was apparent that many of the articles that are bought in the stores today were not the subject of merchantile business then. No shoes, hats, or clothes were bought. They were made at home. Of the foods sugar and coffee seemed to be the only essentials. No tobacco. No baking powder or soda required. None of the thousand and one things that make the country great through its factories and which superinduce new wants and needs. Nothing for light or for any of the accessories.

The item marked precipitate is red oxide of mercury a poison used largely in the old days to fight vermin, especially lice. It was also effective on cattle. One of my early recollections is the sad case of the old timer who went to the store at Edray and got a bottle of red precipity and put it in his coat pocket along with his plug of tobacco. The cork came out and a quanity got loose in his pocket and amalgamated with his eating tobacco. Then after he had chewed the tobacco he was most uncomfortably poisoned for a time. His teeth were loosened.

It will be noted however that household expenses have eliminated the item of whisky that occurs so frequently in these old accounts, and the general effect is to make the housewife able to buy the thousand one necessary articles with the whisky money. There is an irreconcilable minority that are kicking against

There is an irreconcilable minority that are kicking against prohibition but whisky is as dead as slavery. Some senators who are anxious to know what the country thinks of prohibition will be enlightened in a short time, but the unfortunate part of the affair for them, the knowledge will come at a time that the proceedings will interest them no more.

had been formed, the London Company to settle the southern part of the coast, and the Plymouth Company to settle north of 41 degrees of latitude. In 1619, there had been no permanent settlement effected in New England, and the fate of Virginia was hanging by a hair. The London Company had expended eighty thousand pounds. It was ready to quit. Then they turned it over to Sir Edwin Sandys, the treasurer, and he put the colony on its feet.

By his management he was able to import into Virginia in one year, 1610, twelve hundred and eighty-one immigrants, and these were of a different type from those adventurers who had been induced to come prior to that time. These men and women came to stay.

A part of his plan was to induce ninety respectable young women to come in 1619, on a contract to marry Virginians. To them transportation

A part of his plan was to induce ninety respectable young women to come in 1619, on a contract to marry Virginians. To them transportation was free, it being understood that if they married in Virginia, that their husbands would buy them of the company at the rate of one hundred pounds of tobacco per head. This proved to be a great success. The girls sold well. The ships would come to anchor and the young Virginian who was on the lookout for a chunk of a woman for a wife would come on board, and pick himself out a bride, and settle for her and take her home and live happily ever after. I think the girls were all disposed of as soon as they arrived. The next year the company imported sixty good girls and raised the price to 150 pounds of tobacco, but there is no record of any girl being left on the hands of the company.

The colony began to prosper immediately. The girls brought good fortune to America. It was not necessary for the company to deal in brides any longer. They came to

The colony began to prosper immediately. The girls brought good fortune to America. It was not necessary for the company to deal in brides any longer. They came to Virginia in ever increasing numbers on their own charges or with their husbands. In a very short time Virginia was a solid and prosperous colony. Shortly afterwards in the wisdom of Providence, the slave trade commenced, and founded in America, a race that speedily redeemed itself from a savage condition, and which shares in the benefits of the New Dispensation.

There was a Mr. Kipling who wrote something about a girl named Maggie who required her lover to choose between, a wee, little, whimpering love and the great god Nicotine. And in the course of his remarks he says that a woman is only a woman, but a good cigar is a smoke. The singular trade of 1619 would indicate that a lady was worth many

And in the course of his remarks he says that a woman is only a woman, but a good cigar is a smoke. The singular trade of 1619 would indicate that a lady was worth many pounds of tobacco.

The colony prospered so that by 1628, it was raising more tobacco than there was a demand for, and the assembly passed a law that all tobacco was to be pooled and graded. All of the inferior tobacco was to be destroyed, and one half of the good tobacco also, so that the amount ready for the market was not to exceed a million and a half pounds And the next year they made another cut, so that every planter raising tobacco should not produce more than 170 pounds per capita, and to make this law equitable to those who owed debts payable in tobacco it was fur-ready for the market was not to exceed a million and a half pounds And the next year they made another cut, so that every planter raising tobacco should not produce more than 170 pounds per capita, and to make this law equitable to those who owed debts payable in tobacco, it was further enacted that in the payment of debts, that for each one hundred pounds owed, forty pounds should be accepted for the debt.

This marriage business seems to have been very close to the tobacco trade in the early days of the colony. The fees for marrying including crown tax, clerk, minister, and reader. was 465 pounds of tobacco. And the clerk could require a bond from the bridgegroom upon the issuing of the license that the tobacco would be forthcoming out of the current crop of the parish.

In our day and time, the clerk of the each county court has a melancholy file of papers of the marriage licenses issued by him which were never used. They are sometimes re-accepted for the debt.

In our day and time, the clerk of the each county court has a melancholy file of papers of the marriage licenses issued by him which were never used. They are sometimes returned and sometimes they are kept by the disconsolate gentlemen.

In one case the following return was made: "I didn't get married and so I return the license back to you as I do not know what else to do with them,"

It is a sad and sorry thing to contemplate the fate of the loving heart that hies to the county clerk to get a license, and finds on his return that the bird has flown and that he is bereaved and alone.

Another case has this return: "She got by me by some means and I have not found her yet, so I enclose these back to you."

Mr. Milton, who had a considerable command of language, and who was fond saying obvious things in such a solemn way, expressed a sentiment as follows, to wit:

Hail, wedded love, mysterious law, true, true source of human offspring!

Very good Milt! I wrote something the other day and tried to say: There is nothing like bairns! Every type setter that has got hold of it yet, has made me say: There is nothing like brains. Well there is nothing exactly like brains unless it is scrambled eggs, but as far as this world is concerned after you pass some certain mile post, you realize yet, has made me say. There is nothing like brains. Well there is nothing exactly like brains unless it is scrambled eggs, but as far as this world is concerned after you pass some certain mile post, you realize that there is nothing like bairns in this world to keep it from being a barren waste.

So without going into too many details my advice to the young is to marry and get started. It is not true that two can live as cheaply as one, but the paradox consists in the fact that two can save more money than one.

"From that day forth, in peace and joyous bliss
They lived together long without debate;
Nor private jars, nor spite of enemies,
Could shake the safe assurance of their state."

E. D. H. S. greeted 173 pupils: 32 Seniors, 31 Juniors, 42 Sophomores and 68 Freshmen.

On Tuesday night September 29, the Freshmen were highly entertained by their upper classmen. To their great surprise, they were blindfolded in the Domestic Arts room and led through a series of stunts from the basement to the auditorium from where they were transferred to the Domestic Department and presented with a tooth-pick and marshmallows After much disappointment and nervousness they were called back to the auditorium where they joyfully accepted the sandwiches and coca colas. The new members of the faculty were included in the initiation, thus the affair was unusually interesting.

THE NEW BANK

The Farmers & Merchants Bank opened their doors for business Monday morning in the Marlin-Sewell Hotel building on Main Street. There is delay in getting some of the furniture, but the vault, safe and other necessary equipment is in and the new Bank is doing business.

As an opening attraction on Monday morning there was a drawing for gold pieces. Numbers corresponding to names in the registration book at the Bank's booth at the County Fair were put in a sack. The first number drawn was 48, belonging to R. W. Hill, of Charleston, a former sheriff of Pocahontas County; the next was 618, belonging to Fannie Moore, of Durbin, and the third number was 1170, and it belonged to S. I. Barlow, of Huntersville.

The cashier of the new Bank is Harry L. Byers, who for a number of years was with the First National Bank of Marlinton. His bookkeeper is Tom Yeager, son of Dr. J. M. Yeager, of Marlinton.

The officers of this Bank are E. P. Shaffer, president; D W. Dever, vice president The directors are L. D. Sharp, E. H. Williams, Judge S. H Sharp, H. Kelmenson, S. I. Barlow, C. J. Richardson, F. M. Sydnor.

Wednesday evening— Decoration of chivalry and grand decoration of chivalry will be conferred.

One of the outstanding features of the convention will be the appearance of the band from the Odd Fellow's Home at Elkins, which will give an entertainment during the session.

The program of the convention has been dedicated to three past grand masters, T. W. Fleming, O S. McKinney and former Judge George A. Vincent, all members of the Fairmont Lodge No. 2, and all active workers in the order.

A number of entertainment features are being planned for the visitors, of who it is estimated there will be more than 1,000. Preparations are being made to obtain quarters for them in private homes since the hotel capacity of the city is not sufficient to accommodate them.

The Mission Study class of the Methodist Missionary Society Wesley Chapel M. E Church, South, Hillsboro, had our first meeting in April and our last in September. DEEP SNOW

In the year of eighteen and eighty or eighteen and eight-one the deepest snowfall fell. Probably this was the deepest snow that fell in the eighteenth century. The snow was over four feet deep.

Fences and other obstacles were completely snowed under. It was a frightful time. Pathways had to be shoveled through the snow to the farmers' barns, in order that the farmers might attend to their stock. County schools were closed for a time, because the children could not get there on account of the deep snow.

A farmer once told me this story of the deep snow.

It began snowing early in the morning about eight o'clock on December the sixteenth said the farmer It snowed steady for twenty-four hours. I took an estimate measure of it and found that it was over four feet deep. Shortly afterwards an immense crust formed on the surface of the snow. To add to the fearful time I was out of fire wood. I could not get no wood unless I went into the woods I shouldered my axe and immediately set out to the forest. I had a terrible time, but finally I succeeded in getting several trees cut down. I skidded them by hand into my front yard. Fences did not hinder me in my attempt at getting the fire wood to the house, for the snow was so deep I just skidded the logs over them.

When spring opened up I went back to the woods where I had cut the trees down during the deep snow, and found to my amazement that I had cut the stumps of the trees about six or eight feet high.

THE CANDIDATES

D. C. Adkison is seeking the Republican nomination for reelection as Clerk of the Circuit Court. It is not considered possible that he will have opposition for the nomination. In the election this fall he will be the strong contender against any one for the office under the good old rule that one good term deserves another. In a county where good men in office are the rule, we can say that we have never had a more efficient or more accommodating officer than Mr. Adkison has proved to be There is no Circuit Clerk's office in the state in better shape, and Mr. Adkison has always been most agreeable and accommodating in his dealing with the public He is a native of Pocahontas County; a veteran of the World War, with overseas service, and for years he was a teacher in the schools of the county.

Another good man is out for the Democratic nomination for Commissioner of the County Court, in Luther T. Coyner, of Clover Lick. He is a farmer who has had experience in the mercantile and lumber business He is a good, honest, capable man, who will be entirely satisfactory, both as a candidate and as a member of the court.

Fred and French Moore and Ed McLaughlin had killed five wild cats in Marlin Mountain at last report. One day last week they killed a Canadian lynx on the Rocky Ridge face nest to Thorny Creek. The weight of the animal was estimated at 70 pounds. The hunters came where an unusually large wild cat had been following a deer. The dog soon had the cat up and he went in the rocks. Some smoke soon brought him out, and he was shot

In the old days every hunter had his opinion as to catamounts and wild cats, whether they were the same or different species. Those who had had the most experience with the catamount claimed they were different, but others attempted to prove they were the same, differening in size and color only, and that all the wild cats of this region belonged to the bay lynx family. Some ten or more years ago, one summer day a catamount came near the house of John Slander, on Elk and stole a hen The dog tried it, and Mr. Slander shot it. The carcass was sent away to be mounted and it came back listed as a "Canadian Lynx." Since that time a number of Canadian lynx have been killed and identified.

One day last week a bear track was seen in the Brush country. It had crossed Brushy Lick Run, and went over into the Gibson Flat near the Fair Ground. It had been a bear of fair size. Later word was received at this office that the bear had come off of Red Lick Mountain and was traveling fast. There was a heavy most in the Alleghanies. An unusual number of bears seem to have failed to hole up this winter, though this is the time of year they begin to come out.

Dear Editor:

In the Times a few weeks ago, Mr. Price published a new phase of the incident known in history as the massacre of the Moravian Indians. Virgil A. Lewis' history of West Virginia, which is being taught in many of the schools of this state gives that as one of the darkest crimes recorded in border annals, and that 94 innocent an unsuspecting Christian Indians were put to death.

In the same history it says that another historian characterizes this act as, the most infamous of the border wars of the west.

I'm not judging which account is correct, but if Mr. Price is, I think its due time a change is being made in the history which is being taught to the growing up generation of our state.

And again this past week we find a good account of the death of Cornstalk but not an account which aggrees with Lewis. He seems to blame the whites for putting the great chief to death.

had come out, and I decided to make a fragmentary report as an unofficial observer.

We lived in the backwoods and still do by the way, if backwoods means a country partly cleared. When I was a boy, the favored class were the loggers. About the time that I can first remember the loggers arrived here from the north and commenced to take out the white pine which grew in such profusion in certain parts of the county. They brought their trade with them, for the county people had their own way of removing the superfluous growth from the surface of the ground, and knew little or nothing of commercial lumbering. They had progressed from the whip saw stage to the water power sawmill, and were about ready for the portable steam saw mill. The northern men were here because some of the Union soldiers as they marched through the county under Col. Schoonmaker, in the Fourteenth Pennsylvania Cavalry, saw white pine trees and carried the word home.

for the portable steam saw mill. The northern men were here because some of the Union soldiers as they marched through the county under Col. Schoonmaker, in the Fourteenth Pennsylvania Cavalry, saw white pine trees and carried the word home.

They came here after the Civil War prepared to handle logs in bulk by means of the winter cutting and the spring drive on the water courses. A camp was made in the woods. An organization of some sixty or seventy men was effected and we began to learn about slides, skidways, landings, drives, peavies and canthooks and the like. The woodsmen were all imported. Powerful young men, experts in trees, and there was hardly a boy in the county who did not dream of the day when he could join that glorious company. And I think that many of our pretty girls concluded that about as good fortune as they would ask was to be a woodsman's bride. They brought with them their own words and manner of talk, which was admired and adopted in a great measure by the

It was a picked body of men and they could out-fight. out-work, and outdance our local youths, though it may have afterwards appeared that that all are not bold that bristle. I can remember that for some years I was laying plans to get elected to a woods job and live in a camp and have all the money and prestige and feasting that went with that position.

These young gods from the north were great kidders too. We boys could not keep away from the drives. The gay company came down the river every spring with their floating houses and worked the logs ahead of them, and when a country boy peered through the brush at the work, and the gang caught sight of him, their remarks were highly personal, and

The gay company came down the river every spring with their floating houses and worked the logs ahead of them, and when a country boy peered through the brush at the work, and the gang caught sight of him, their remarks were highly personal, and that is the price that we had to pay. I remember one spring I went to meet the drive riding a mule, and that was the cause of much merriment, and my sensitive soul suffered from the persiflage. And to make matters worse, the mule commenced to bray, and that added to my embarrassment, and in a vain effort to hold up my end, I asked them to pay some attention to their brother's salute, and they got more outrageous than ever and spoiled the afternoon for me. It was one Sunday. On account of falling water, drives went forward on Sunday as well as any other day. A righteous grandjury once indicted the drive for working Sunday, but the judge dismissed it as a work of necessity. Everything added to the glamour of the logging industry. They imported a colored

A righteous grandjury once indicted the drive for working Sunday, but the judge dismissed it as a work of necessity. Everything added to the glamour of the logging industry. They imported a colored man who worked in the camp, and he was a superman too in our estimation, and there were iliads repeated about him around the firesides. And by the way that is the only colored man that I ever knew in a woods camp of the first class.

As it happened, I never made the grade so far as qualifyiug as a member of a woods crew, as did Stewart Edward White, and so many writers, but I journeyed along the road of life with those young men for most of them remained here, for as time went on more and more timber was cut, and their occupation had grip-

As it happened, I never made the grade so far as qualifyiug as a member of a woods crew, as did Stewart Edward White, and so many writers, but I journeyed along the road of life with those young men for most of them remained here, for as time went on more and more timber was cut, and their occupation had gripped them. As a general thing it may be said that those who accepted the white man's burden, and took unto themselves wives, and did their duty by their country, turned out as well as any man has the right to expect and traveled down to old age respected citizens. But some of the saddest cases were some of those heroes who never founded a fireside but dwadled through life in camp and out, with money that came easy and went easy, until death overtook them in a hotel, a hospital, or in an infirmary, and they were buried at public expense. An old shell of a woodsman passing out far from his relatives, is something that I have observed time and again, and my mind goes back to the time when the oriflamme of youth burned so brightly. It is not true that down to Gehena or up to the throne, he travels the fastet who travels alone. As a matter of fact he does not get any where as a rule. Avoid those avocations like woodsmen, sailors, and soldiers where it is hard to marry and found a home. Of such are the half portions of life.

There is not much choice among the professions and the trades as to a full and satisfying life. About the only rule is that the busiest man is the happiest. It really depends upon right living, religion and the rules of health, and of course mating. It takes two halves to make a complete life.

The men who follow the professions seem sometimes to have greater incomes than workmen, but they do not seem to be able to accumulate and lay up for old age so well. They

The men who follow the professions seem sometimes to have greater incomes than workmen, but they do not seem to be able to accumulate and lay up for old age so well. They go down into old age burdened with expensive habits and less money than any other class.

The institution known as the poor house looms large in the thoughts of many an unhappy man who realizes that old age is on him. Then is when the family counts, for that is the only safeguard that is sure. Even if a man is rich, he does not know when someone will take his money away from him. All he does know that while he sleeps, there are others lying away planning to get something for nothing.

If a man has family connections, there will be someone who can manage and contrive that he will allow thing for nothing.

If a man has family connections, there will be someone who can manage and contrive that he will allow no near blood relation to become a county charge. It looks like the best thing to do is not to lose sight of your clan, or allow your clan to lose sight of you.

We have all seen these aged woodsmen fade before our eyes, and die solitary and alone. But the same is true with every man who wanders away through the world and leaves his heritage of love and family far away from him.

One of the most solitary endings I have ever seen was that of a well known lawyer of the old days. When I can first remember Pocahontas County, one of the best known men, was Count D. A. Stopher. He was here at the outbreak of the Civil War and was elected captain of the county seat Confederate company, and served throughout the war. He had served before that time in the Mexican war, and it was somewhere in

When I was a boy, he was one of the members of the bar of this county and prominent in its affairs. If I remember correctly he was prosecuting attorney of the county. He was a single man, a hotel dweller, and just a jovial, unburdened man about town, a member of an important profession, with his clientage here and in Webster county, by which he lived in ease and plenty, and drifted with the times. Then he got old and helpless and sick, and one night in his office he drifted out into the unknown sea that rolls all around the world. The neighbors were kind and attentive to him, but I still think that it was a sad and solitary death, and a rather bleak and hopeless old age.

I have seen so many men of high attainments and political preferment go down into old age and find that the worldly ties that they had set their hopes upon fail them in the long, slow years that lead to dissolution. I wish I was permitted to

I wish I was permitted to name a lot of names that would be recognized as those of famous men, who have found that their political and professional associates turn their backs on them when their powers begin to fail, and senility sets in Then if the old man has not his own fireside and his womenfolks and his young relatives, he is in a deplorable condition, and his latter end is worse than his beginning.

This taken in connection with a wise provision of nature that as old age approaches time is accelerated, enables the most of us to step off the stage with some degree of gracefulness, but it is not safe to call any man blessed until he is dead.

stage with some degree of gracefulness, but it is not safe to call any man blessed until he is dead.

Here is a beautiful prayer: My God! my time is in thy hands. Should it please Thee to lengthen my life, and complete, as Thou hast begun, the work of blanching my locks, grant me grace to wear them, as a crown of unsullied honor.

In common with every man of my age, I have had the opportunity of observing the rise, decline, and fall of life and its vigor in men of every conceivable walk in life, and it would be strange if I had not reached some conclusion as to the wisest course that mortal man can take to reach the boundary of life.

I too have decided opinions on the subject, and I can say this that the best lives that I ever observed were those of farmers who had cleared their own lands and built their own family altars and who were permitted to sit in the sun in old age surrounded by the beauty and com-

I too have decided opinions on the subject, and I can say this that the best lives that I ever observed were those of farmers who had cleared their own lands and built their own family altars and who were permitted to sit in the sun in old age surrounded by the beauty and completeness of their life's work. And I have known hundreds of such men, and in every case I consider that they have lived satisfactory and successful lives.

It is highly important to call attention to such opportunities at the present time for most of the rich State of West Virginia is still in a state of nature and it is easier for a man to carve out a homestead of his own today than it ever was.

It would be a bold man and a still bolder mate who would undertake to establish a homestead these days as they did in the pioneer days. Then there were but three essential to setting up a home—a rifle, an axe, and an augar. It is not necessary for the latter day pioneer to cut overhead expenses quite so fine, but the keeping down of expenses is the secret of a successful life. An hour's walks from any town or city in West Virginia will bring a man to the woods, and there he will find innumerable sites for homesteads that need but the healthy labor of the backswoodsman, to transpose into a home of parklike beauty. The opportunity is there, but the generation is soft boned and luxurious. They cannot keep away from the flesh-pots of Egypt. They know no contentment in the towns and they do not visualize contentment in the flesh-pots of Egypt. They know no contentment in the towns and they do not visualize contentment in the woods.

The old timer got himself a piece of land. At first it was stylish to have a floor of hard trodden earth, and no glass windows. But the conditions in this respect improved, and by easy stages, a commodious farm house was built with a fire place and windows and all the comforts of a home.

Those days left their impress upon the consciousness of the race, for men accustomed to the finest city homes find a strange peace in going to the woods and making themselves comfortable in rude places that they call camps. These men have to live in the cities for their work confines them there, but they know that city life is not what it is cracked up to be. In fact every heart knoweth its own bitterness.

Nobody appreciates the comforts of the wilderness so much as a sensicall camps. These men have to live in the cities for their work confines them there, but they know that city life is not what it is cracked up to be. In fact every heart knoweth its own bitterness.

Nobody appreciates the comforts of the wilderness so much as a sensible man who by the decree of fate is exiled from the solitude of the woods, and condemned to a city existence. As the city man once remarked in my hearing, the more he saw of men, the more he liked a dog. Such men as this spend much money and very expensive time, to get a taste of the life in the woods, the very thing that a poor man who has no duties to interfere will not accept as a gracious gift. Surely there is no accounting for tastes.

These rich mountains that surround us are bound to be in demand for homes sometime. The process of clearing them for farms and grass lands was interrupted about a hundred years ago by the discovery of the rich prairie lands of the west, when the countless millions posessed with land hunger trailed west and lived in squalor in sod houses and changed a

These rich mountains that surround us are bound to be in demand for homes sometime. The process of clearing them for farms and grass lands was interrupted about a hundred years ago by the discovery of the rich prairie lands of the west, when the countless millions posessed with land hunger trailed west and lived in squalor in sod houses and changed a useless part of the country, into the richest farming country in the world. There they now raise crops so cheaply that it has greatly embarrassed the farmers of the east who have to compete with them. But those lands have been taken up and if there comes any general demand for homes and land, it will be satisfied only in the Appalachian country, where men can find health and contentment.

I do not know why I am writing this slush, unless it is the thought of the great masses of people penned up in the city serving life sentences in

I do not know why I am writing this slush, unless it is the thought of the great masses of people penned up in the city serving life sentences in crowded places The very rich pay enormously for the privilege of building on a lot so that one end of the house will look on Central Paak, and there is nothing in Central Park to commend itself to the unhappy mortal that cannot be found up any hollow in these mountains.

Every now and then somebody proposes to cut Central Park up into lots and sell it for building sites and then the public rises up in indignation and opposes it. If they are so fond of the open spaces why do they not come to the woods and the hills?

There is room for a million of homes in West Virginia alone and the land is rich and lends itself to grass. Every now and then some half baked indolent person tries to fight the brush and build a home up a cove and starves out during the process, but there is no reason why an industrious man could not carve out a farm with his own hands and make it a thing of beauty and a joy forever. We all recognize that the wilderness dweller founded the United States of America. When our government was launched ninety-seven per cent of the population lived in the country. According to the last census forty per cent live in the country.

In the teeming population of the cities so far as individuality is concerned it would be far, far better for the common person to have a number rather than a name, for then he would not have to share the number with any other. As it is now he does have to share his name. In a country such as ours, he not only has a name but he has a place of his own and he is given a background to distinguish him.

The venerable men who have come down from another generation have homes that they have wrested from nature. They have been granted a peace of mind and a comfortable living. SAYS STATE COAL IS NOT DANGEROUS

Marlinton Man Who Has Been Using West Virginia Product for 19 Years Tells of Its Good Qualities.

West Virginia coal is anything but dangerous, according to all users of the fuel heard from to date and J. L. Kenney, of Marlinton, adds his experiance to that of the many who have given it a fair trial.

"I have been firing the furnaces in two schools, two churches and a bank and have always used West Virginia coal," he said. "Most of the fuel has been Red Ash coal, and not once in the nineteen years that I have been using it have I seen anything to indicate that it was dangerous.

I have kept it banked off for at least four days at a time. Fool proof—I would say that it was—and now if any of these northern birds say that it is dangerous, well—good day. I have my own opinions."—Charleston Gazette.

OBITUARY

In the death of William Hanson Dilley who departed this life the 6th of January, 1926, the county has lost one of its best citizens and the community in which he lived mourns the loss of a beloved neighbor and friend. He was converted when a young man, and was a consistent christian until he was called to the church triumphant. He united with the Methodist Episcpal Church, held his membership at Mt. Zion church for near fifty years, at which place he will not be forgotten, his vigorous personality and his voice often raised in prayer and exhortation. He was active as a leader of the class and prayer meeting and song service For many years he was superintendent of the Sunday School at Mt Zion church. The memory of his faithful life and service will be cherished as one of the treasures of the church, and the stamp of his christian personality will remain in the memory of the young people for good in his long servive. Sunday school that he was most were attractive for goodness. No one came under his influence in the Sunday school but felt encouraged in the good work.

His closing days on earth were peaceful, full of faith and glad joy, in the hope that lay before him; that the Christ whose love he had felt would be with him even to the end. He went out in the presence of his God conscious of a welcome. He was a true man, honest, pure of morals, generous minded, was proud to be called a christian.

He will be much missed in the home, community, and church. "He fought a good fight, he kept the faith."

NATIONAL STATE PARKS

Up to last Saturday night, sites for four of the five proposed national parks had been forwarded to Washington for approval. The applications are for Watoga Park in Pocahontas, Babcock Park in Fayette, Buchoralus Park in Upshur, and Lost River Park in Hardy. The time for filing applicstions ends on next Saturday night, and the effort is being put forth in Kanawha county to secure the donation to the state of a proper site for the fifth park.

Inspection of the lands and survey will be made by the government and, if approved, eight CCC camps will be established, probably by April 1, to begin work this spring. Each camp will quarter 200 workers, Mr. Cheek said, and the program will last for approximately one year.

Lakes, roads, cottages and game refuges are planned in each park which will be designed as ideal recreational grounds for hunting, fishing, boating, picnics and camping.

The national state parks commission in its program offers this opportunity to the state, and allows five applications from each state. Land must be obtained by interested groups sportsmen's organizations or community organizations to the extent of not less than 2,000 acres. Application is then made through the state to the national park commission at Washington.

Did you take notice that Pocahont as farmers carried away fourteen of the twenty possible honors at the potato show held Farmers Week at Morgantown? Also that the champion of the state, the winner of the sweepstake prize, is Fred J. Hefner, of Swago

I have an idea there would have been more to it that this, but Fred and the county agent figured time a little wrong, and they failed to get Fred's exhibit into the International at Chicago --they were a day too late to get the exhibit entered.

Does that prove anything to your mind that here in Pocahontas we have ideal soil and climate conditions to produce profitably quality potatoes, and that growers are being trained up who can and will through industry and proper cultural methods take profitable advantage of soil and climate for the production of quality

Does that prove anything to your mind that here in Pocahontas we have ideal soil and climate conditions to produce profitably quality potatoes, and that growers are being trained up who can and will through industry and proper cultural methods take profitable advantage of soil and climate for the production of quality potatoes?

Let me branch off and name some of our farmers who have and will make potato history, for their own well being and the general welfare of the county: Fred Hefner, Earl Kee, John Wimer, B. F. Henricks, Wilbur Moore, Thomas Beard, Joe Sharp, Alva E. Moore, Elmer Sharp, Milburn Sharp, E. H. Williams, G. M. Sharp, Ed Sheets, George Simmons, John Doyle, A. G. Killingsworth, Neal Nottingham, John R. Hevener, W. H. Barlow, F. H. Warwicks, Hevener Dilley, George Alderman, Fred Moore, Ed Galford, Luther Coyner, W. L. Price, Pat Vandevender and there are others.

Neal Nottingham, John R. Hevener, W. H. Barlow, F. H. Warwicks, Hevener Dilley, George Alderman, Fred Moore, Ed Galford, Luther Coyner, W. L. Price, Pat Vandevender and there are others.

The conservative estimate has been made that potatoes sold as a cash crop in this county in 1933 amounted to $50,000. There is reason to now believe the acreage the coming year will be doubled. There is also reason to believe that the increased acreage will in most instances be given better tillage and spraying than heretofore has been the general rule. Doubling the acreage is a conservative step towaed the production of a million bushels of potatoes in this county as a cash crop—the ultimate goal, and is not too much of a farmer's dream either.

There are over twelve hundred farms in Pocahontas county, with a combined area of 240,000 acres. This, of course includes grazing land and wood lots. An average of five acres of potatoes to the farm, properly cultivated and cared for, can be expected to raise a million bushels of potatoes.

our people will be sitting on top of the world in a business way.

I know as well as any one, that it has been and is with the farming game as with other business, the more you do, the more you lose. But I still maintain that in this region the potato is the exception of the bad old rule.

The potato is a necessary item in the living of our people. West Virginia produces only enough to supply a few weeks demand of her people. We have a market within the borders of our state that demands all we can possibly supply.

It is trite to say that this region of small farms in a grass ceuntry can not compete with the great wheat areas of the west in the production of wheat; nor with the corn beit when it comes to growing corn, nor with the wide open spaces of the far west in cattle raising. We are well out of the cotton and tobacco belts too. But we do have a soil and climate adapted to the production of the highest grade of potatoes, and a demand for every it comes to growing corn, nor with the wide open spaces of the far west in cattle raising. We are well out of the cotton and tobacco belts too. But we do have a soil and climate adapted to the production of the highest grade of potatoes, and a demand for every bushel that can possibly be produced.

Do not get me wrong. Everyone will not or cannot make a success of growing potatoes. It requires sense, industry and talent to take pains. The climate and soil conditions are here: through trial and tribulation, horse sense and industry men can work the natural conditions to his business well being.

Fred Hefner tells me he has inquiries from many parts of the state for seed potatoes at fancy price. He is unable to supply them Only the other day, an inquiry came from Monroe county for Irish Cobbler seed potatoes. I sent the man on to John Wimer. Through the Extension Department, potatoes from these mountains have been tried out in the low Wimer. Through the Extension Department, potatoes from these mountains have been tried out in the low lands in various parts of the State. They liked the samples, and they are asking for more.

I was talking to Hevener Dilley the other day. He gathered 440 bushels of Green Mountain potatoes from less than two acres of ground. He only got around to spraying this crop two times. He happened to be lucky, and he made a bumper yield. He has a good part of his crop stored, and he can fill orders for good seed of the Green Mountain variety.

I was talking to a farmer who got about a third of his potato acreage drowned out last year. In spite of that piece of bad luck, he marketed over 1200 bushels of number one potatoes; got paid for his work and expense and had a modest profit beside. He told me he entered the depression years in debt. After three crops of potatoes, he owes less than he did four years ago. This man intimated

He told me he entered the depression years in debt. After three crops of potatoes, he owes less than he did four years ago. This man intimated to me, that the thing of greatest value to him in the three years experience as a big time potato planter is the knowledge of potato growing he has stored up in his head to be used in the future.

I have printed it before, but it is worth telling again. Only a year ago this month a discouraged farmer came to town. He had bought good land at the heighth of the boom. He had worked terribly hard, and banked on cattle. The depression caught him with a part of the purchase price of his farm still owing to the land bank. He could not meet his amortization payments. He was carried as long as the law permitted, and then his place advertised for sale. The savings of a life time of hard work was going to hock. It was no contented time. The lawyer and others forgot about their proper court costs; the good Samaritan added another weight to his already heavy load of other people's responsibilities. They had a talk together and the farmer asked for more money to take a shot on potatoes. The two or three thousand bushel crop, cleaned up what was behind that farmer; gave him working capital, restored his credit, and gave him a sunshiny outlook on life where all had been clouds before. Naturally, it is going to be spuds again with that man the coming season.

The missionary work of Dee Crane, the potato specialist of the Extension Department, and John A. Sydenstricker, local business man with a vision, who has not spared time and expense in urging our farmers to learn to grow potatoes, is beginning to bear fruit.

Since I wrote the above, some scientific data relating to the potato has come into hand. The first is to the effect that a physician in Denmark has found that "potatoes are not only excellent food, but is a remedy. It dissolves uric acid as well as chalk, and is able therefore to cure different forms of gout and rheumatism. It is also a food remedy in the treatment of billiousnes and constipation."

Over in the Michigan State College a lady professor says that in comparison with certain other foods the potato is less fattening. Comparing an eight ounce potato with eight ounces of the following, I found:

Macaroni is four times more fatten ing.

Rice, three and a half times

Oat meal, four times

Pie, three times

Doughnut, two times

Then a good doctor over at Battle Creek Sanitarium, figures out that a pound of baked potato is equivalent in total food value to—

1 pound of chicken, 5 ounces of boiled beef, 2 pints of oysters, 4 pints of beef juice, 1 1-2 pints of whole milk, 8 eggs, 4 pounds boiled cabbage, 5 pounds tomatoes.

So I says grow more spuds and eat

THE WITCHES OF DROOP

Early in life, I heard about the ghosts, hanters and witches on Droop Mountain, but I never could recall enough of what I had heard to write a piece about it. That is to say I could not remember the details for a truthful account of the fearful experiences of certain people there about seventy years ago. Last week, my friend Lincoln Cochran was down on Droop and he most kindly brought back the details to me And here is the truthful report of the actual happenings:

In the year 1865, Betty and Nancy Snedegar, daughters of James C and Rebecca Kellison Snedegar, lived on on the west side of Droop Mountain They went to the Doucy place, over on the east side of Droop, to gather berries. On their way back they found two guns, and carried them home. These guns had evidently been lost during the battle, which had been fought there in the fall of 1863.

When the girls started to carry off lost during the battle, which had been fought there in the fall of 1863.

When the girls started to carry off the guns, rocks were thrown at them but they saw no person. After getting home and going out to milk, more rocks and clubs were thrown at them, and they saw the sleeves of army blouses flying in the air. At the house, rocks came down the chimney knocked the lids off of pots and bounced on the floor.

The house was a structure of logs, and rocks came through the walls and hit the occupants. These stones were gathered together and thrown into a sink hole behind the house. This sink is several hundred feet deep, but the same stones would be thrown back into the house.

The dog irons would come from out the fire place and race around over the floor, and then go back to their places again.

Dick and Abe Snedegar, twin boys, six or seven months old, were usually placed on a tanned sheep skin on the sink hole behind the house. This sink is several hundred feet deep, but the same stones would be thrown back into the house.

The dog irons would come from out the fire place and race around over the floor, and then go back to their places again.

Dick and Abe Snedegar, twin boys, six or seven months old, were usually placed on a tanned sheep skin on the floor. This sheep skin would get from under the babies and stand up in the floor and bawl.

The backwall of the chimney would open up, and through the opening could be seen the grass in the back yard.

Samuel C. Kellison, brother of Mrs Snedegar, went to the Snedgar home to investigate the cause of the trouble. A rock came through the wall and hit him on the arm. He cursed and told them to try that again. Just then another stone whizzed by his head, and he decided he had business at home.

The guns were taken to the barn, but the trouble continued. Then they were taken back to the place where they were found, and the trouble stopped.

In those days there was a great deal of trouble with witches Cows would become bewitched and lose their cuds. The owner would then send for the witch doctor. There grows in the woods a very bitter root. The witch doctor would dig one of these bitter roots and push it down the throat of the bewitched cow. That would drive the witch out.

To keep a witch from entering your home, it is necessary to get a nail from a horse shoe that has been lost off a horse's foot. Drive this nail in your door sill. Mr. Cochran says there is an old house on Droop that has its sill driven so full of these nails, he doubts if there is room to drive another one in.

If a witch comes to your home and asks to borrow some thing, and you lend it, you are under the power then.

Pocahontas Chapter, United Daughters of the Confederacy held their regular monthly meeting at the home of Miss Elizabeth Hill on Tuesday evening, February 20. Mrs. Sidney Wilson was the visitor. Miss Hill read a tribute to Mrs. Sidney Lavier. Delicious refreshments were served and the meeting adjourned to meet March 19 with Mrs. Anna Thomas.

The following notice of the chapter is found in the minutes of the 34th annual convention of the W Va Division of the U. D. C. held at Morgantown, last September.

Mrs. Anna H Thomas, Historian of Pocahontas Chapter, Marlinton, sends in a splendid report for so young a chapter. They received their charter June 19, 1930, with a membership of twelve, and they have added nine new members since their organization. They have placed markers at twenty-seven graves and will continue until every Confederate grave in the county is marked. Also, plan to place a large marker for graves of unknown Georgia Soldiers who are buried in Marlinton. $150 00 was raised to furnish a room in the Pocahontas Memorial Hospital, this room was dedicated to the Confederate Soldiers of the county, and a tree was planted by the Chapter on the hospital grounds. Surviving veterans are remembered at Christmas and two Crosses of Service have been presented to World War veterans. Memorial day was observed in a fitting manner."

STONY BOTTOM

This community was shocked to receive word of the death of Mr. R. H. Bailey of this place on last Tuesday, February 13th, 1934. Mr. Bailey was born in Richmond, Va., and was 77 years old. He was one of the oldest residents in this sec ion. He came here at or near the time the C. & O. railway was being built in this county. In 1902 he married Miss Anna Barnett of this place, and made his home here from that date!

To this union were born six children: Mary Bailey, Mrs. Ruby Mason, Mrs. Elizabeth Chapman, Earl of Cov ing and James of Akron, Ohio. Paul preceeded his father to the grave several years ago. Funeral services were conducted in the Alexander Memorial Church of this place by his pastor Rev. Pharr of Cass. Some years ago during revival services conducted by Mr. Pharr. Mr. Bailey joined the Presbyterian Church. In all his deal ings and transactions among his neighbors and friends, he was always very considerate and fair, being well liked and a useful man he will be greatly missed in this community Those attending the funeral from a distance were: Carl Mason, Geo. Chapman, Raymond Hall. Mr. and Mrs. Allen Sites, Earl Lindsay, Bob Menifee, Mrs. Maggie Friel, Woodfred Auldridge, Mrs. Grace Ray, all of Covington, Va. and Mrs. Katherine Bear of Alderson. DIED

Samuel Lewis Kincaid aged 81 yrs., died at his home at Rochelle, Texas, January 11, 1934. He was a native of Pocahontas County, leaving here in 1874. His parents were the late Samuel C. and Barbara Wagner Kincaid of Minnehaha Springs. His wife died several years since. They are survived by their two daughters in Texas. Brothers of the deceased are Sherman C. Kincaid, of Minnehaha; Andrew J. Kincaid, of Wallace, W. Va., and his sister is Mrs. Mary Belle May, of Falling Spring, Virginia.

His walk and conversation showed to the world that he traveled the paths of peace. How blessed the righteous when he sinks, a weary soul to rest; how mildly beams his closing look to bid the long farewell.

SISTERS GIVE PROGRAM

Margaret and Frances Brill of Marlinton, senior and freshman college students respectively, presented an interesting chapel program yesterday morning. Both girls proved to be versatile in the field of music, playing the piano and singing vocal solos and duets. Frances also presented the oration with which she won the state prize in the recent state contest.

Frances Brill opened the program playing a group of piano selections, "Two Part Invention," "Three Etudes," Heller; and "Within the Walls of China," Lively.

Margaret who is a soprana soloist, sang "The Answer," Terry; "Lullaby," Scott: and "Fluttering Birds," Mana Zucca.

"A New Kind of Patriotism" was the subject of the oration which Frances presented as the third part of the program.

The piano group played by Margaret for the next offering include "Prelude", Chopin.

Frances, who is a mezzo soprano, sang a group of vocal selections, "Take Joy Home" Bassett, and "An Open Secret", Woodman.

The girls sang for the concluding part of the program, duets entitled, "Starry Night", Densmore; "Only to Thee", Saint Saeens, and "Fly White Butterfly", Felix White. They were accompanied by Irene Grafflus at the piano for the concluding numbers.—The Columns, of Fairmont State College

THURSDAY, FEBRUARY 22 1934

Editor Pocahontas Times:

Interested in your notice concerning the camping ground of General Lee at Huntersville I am disposed to add an item or two of information. As a boy I played often under the "Lee Tree" on the property mentioned. This was a rather large apple tree at about the center of the lot as it was at that time. The tradition was that Gen. Lee's tent was pitched under or near this tree and that he sat under its shade during the heated hours of the day.

I remember that many people who came to, or passed thru the town would stop to visit the spot. They usually asked many questions and were greatly interested. Most visitors requested the privilege of cutting a twig or larger branch to carry away as souvenirs.

One group especially interested me tremendously. There were four or five men and women in a two-horse, two seat carriage with shine and trappings of the city much in evidence. I think they were from Richmond, though not sure it was not New York. One of the men asked for a cutting large enough to be made into a cane, saying he would have it fitted with a ferule and a gold handle I can recall that he talked enthusiastically of Lee and his personal association, but who he was, or whence I am no surer than indicated above I remember most vividly the elegance of the "turnout" and of the manner and dress of the visitors. There were others who came from time to time who brought the atmosphere of far away places, to see which was beyond the wildest dreams of a barefoot boy.

There is much interesting history connected with this tree and camping ground. May it not be there are yet citizens who can supply the almost forgotten information if it is your wish to give it space? Mrs. Bettie Grose or "Uncle" Jimmie Doyle may recall incidents.

Friend Calvin:

to be practically worthless. Lay out a bunch of fur, and the experienced grader will tell to a certainty the week of the month in which a particular pelt was taken. A lot of people who know better, trap for the cheap November fur, because they know that if they do not catch it, others will. They prefer a cheap pelt to none at all. If we can get it fixed so that all can start together at taw the first of December when the fur is beginning to get really good, it will mean real conservation of a really valuable resource.

Old timers are bringing in the word that never before have they ever seen or heard tell of the number of foxes that are now plaguing our forests and fields, or such large numbers being caught. They are getting them in traps and before hounds. Something like one hundred gray foxes have been taken in the Browns Creek country alone. Over on Douthard creek, almost a hundred grey foxes have been killed, and in the Buffalo Valley and Poplar Flat country perhaps forty or fifty. The last I heard Joe Dilley had accounted for a score of foxes, about one half of them grey ones.

In the good old days when almost every farm house could boast of a reliable fox hound, and a weekly fox chase was enjoyed, you did not get a fox every time you went out. A half dozen foxes in a winter in a community was big business. Foxes learned to take care of themselves. To find one in a trap was an experience. Now the grays are so thick that one hunter sent me in word that it was a snap to chase one down and kill him as there were now more foxes than holes for them to get into.

Now, the wonder is, where did these foxes come from? There has been complaint, and no doubt justly so that the Seneca State Forest was a haven and safe retreat in which the wild fox dug his hole unscared. This could well account for a multiplicity of foxes in the forests and fields round about the game reserve but it certainly could not have spawned out all the foxes which scurry over the the whole country. I am for one expecting the kill of foxes in Pocahontas county this season to reach and exceed one thousand. We might have raised all these foxes, be Over in Berkley County, a prominent citizen got stuck for ten dollars and costs in the justice court. The charge was catching suckers with a dip net in Opequon Creek. The defendant was not so well pleased with the affair, according to the Shepherds town Register. He claims few persons do more to protect game fish and birds than he and his neighbors, who have extensive land holdings along the creek, and who have been to much trouble to care for trout and other game. That they should be arrested and fined for catching a few suckers from the creek on their own property seems to be going too far. The creek is said to be full of suckers and carp, which are known to destroy the spawn of game fish, and it is believed by many persons that it is a real benefit to take them out. The worst of it is, since the men were fined the suckers have been carrying on very impudently, and while crossing the creek the other day several of them deliberately splashed water over Mr. VanMetre with their tails; while one of the boys said that a big carp thumbed his nose at him—that is the fish put one of his fins at the end of his snoot and wiggled it most contemptuously.

FOURTH OF JULY

Colonel John D. Sutton, chairman of the Droop Mountain Battlefield State Park Commission, announces that preparations are in progress for the biggest celebration at the Battlefield on the Fourth of July. The people of the Greenbrier Valley and the whole State are invited to come on the Nation's day to West Virginia's historic spot, where the issues of the war between the States were decided in favor of the Union so far as the occupation of the mountains were concerned. Make your preparations to come and bring your dinner. Put in something extra for the stranger that will be within our gates that day. Colonel Sutton will announce the day's program in a forthcoming issue of this paper. It is hoped that he will be able to secure the presence of prominent men from the States of Virginia, Ohio and Pennsylvania, as these states had soldiers in the battle.

HILLSBORO HIGH FINALS

The Twentieth Commencement of the Little Levels High School was held on Monday night. A fine class of seventeen young ladies and gentlemen were awarded diplomas. These diplomas were presented by H. M. Harr, of Renick, a former principal of the Hillsboro High school. The members of this graduating class are Lucille Arbogast, Lucy Auldridge, Katherine Bartholomew, Cla u de Bruffey, Summers Burr, Helen Car lisle, Earl Dorman, Henry Lee Harper, Wyatt Jones, Merritt Kellison, Cleo McMillion, Virginia Moore, Beulah Pyles, Gladys Rock, Noble Shrader, Garnet Wade, Roy Workman.

The address to the graduates was made by Judge George W. McClintic, of Charleston. He chose as the basis of his remarks "The Old Order Changeth." He reviewed the great changes that had come about in almost all the phases of life in the span of years since his childhood days in Pocahontas county. The Judge always makes a speech well worth listening to and well worth taking to heart; but I think he never speaks so well or so wisely as when he is on his

For County Court

In this paper is the announcement of Harper H. Hudson, of the Greenbank District, as a candidate for re-election as Commissioner of the County Court. Mr. Hudson has served faithfully and well in this most important office, and this editor hopes and trusts he will be re-elected.

Greenbank District has one half the population of Pocahontas County, and miles of road without end. Mr. Hudson has always had the interest of his district at heart, and at the same time he has ever been faithful and fair to the interests of the county as a whole. He is a good road man, and the highways of his district show the good effect of his personal supervision of the work the court has had the means to do. It does not lie in the hand of this editor to even suggest to the Greenbank District whom they should have as their member of the Court, but as a citizen of Pocahontas county and as a voter in the Democratic party, I can and will say that we can go farther and fare worse in the way of nominee of the County Court if Harper Hudson is not nominated and re-elected.

The polution of Greenbrier river, which has been the subject of complaints since 1907 when a group of farmers from Lewisburg and vicinity protested to Governor William M. O. Dawson, has been eliminated to a great extent by the state water commission. Plans for the construction by the Pocahontas Tanning company of a modern waste disposal plant at Durbin, at the headwaters of the Greenbrier river, have been approved by the commission, E. S. Tisdale, secretary, said. Wastes from this point, he said, have been responsible for a large part of the river polution. This plant, officials of the water commission have been advised, will be in operation by July 1.—Greenbrier Independent.

The Allegheny Club

Minnehaha Springs, W. Va.—The past week has been the record maker of the season, the number of arrivals exceeding that of any previous week since the opening of the Club.

A. S. Yardly, of Columbus, Ohio, was here this week, putting up awnings and screening the entire building with copper wire screens. This has improved the appearance of the building and added a great deal to the comfort of the guests. The front veranda is now the favorite resting place for all the visitors.

Judge A. G. Dayton and party, after a three weeks' stay, left for Phillippi. They expect to return next year and spend their entire vacation here.

Among those who registered this week are, W. B. Rector, secretary of the Allegheny Sportsmen's Association, Belington; H. C. Dewey, of Clarksburg, Mr and Miss Hines, of White Sulphur; A.

FROM IOWA

Editor Pocahontas Times—

About one year since I wrote The Times regarding Uncle H. M. Moore, of Big Rock, Ia., having received a stroke, and while we from time to time entertained hopes for his recovery until July and August of this year. Since then he has failed rapidly in mind and body. However the writer visited him on July 4th at which time he would, periodically, talk as rationally as when in perfect health. Then his memory would become a blank.

Towards the last he suffered a great deal, until August 31st when his voice was stilled in death.

H. M. Moore was born in Pocahontas County, West Virginia, April 8th, 1833. On April 3rd. 1855, he was married to Miss Martha Young in the house now owned and occupied by George C. Moore, on Stony Creek, near Onoto post office, W. Va., where they resided until he erected the log house upon the mountain, just above the residence of the late James Duncan. This same old log house, now the property of W. G. Cochran, remains an evidence of pioneer days and a home-house upon the mountain, just above the residence of the late James Duncan. This same old log house, now the property of W. G. Cochran, remains an evidence of pioneer days and a happy home of long ago.

In 1862, during the saddest and most terrific period of the war of 61-65. H. M. Moere, with his wife and their three children, Joseph W, George H. and Sallie, came to Cedar County, Iowa, where they made their home until 1893, when they moved to Big Rock, Scott County, Ia., their present home.

Funeral services from the Big Rock Church, interment being in the old Inland Cemetery, in the presence of a large gathering of people. from far and near.

There remains to mourn his loss his aged wife and their five children, three sons and two daughters. Jos. W. and Geo. H., of Omaha, Nebraska; Mrs Sallie Clements, of Carroll City, Iowa. Andrew E. and Araminta, both single and at home. Six children preceded their father to the grave.

The above is written for the benefit and in the interest of their relatives and friends, especially the older readers of The Times in the two Virginias.

INSTITUTE RESOLUTIONS.

We, the teachers of Pocahontas county in Institute assembled, do this fourth day of September, 1914, adopt the following resolutions.

First, that we believe the school law should be amended, raising the maximum levy of the teacher's fund to 30 cents and the maximum levy of the building fund to 16⅔ cents.

Second, that we favor the enactment of a law providing for a small state levy for school purposes.

Third, that we favor a law providing for a nominal tax on the coal, oil and gas produced in the state, which tax shall go into the state school fund.

Fourth, that we favor a law making it possible to place a tax upon the water power privileges granted by the state.

Fifth, that we condemn the statute making the County Superintendent the county financial secretary to the various district boards of education, since it interferes greatly with his work as supervisor of schools. We deem it very necessary that he be provided with an office and supplies.

Sixth, that the compulsory school law be so amended as to require the attendance of all children between the ages of 8 and 16 for five full days deem it very necessary that he be provided with an office and supplies.

Sixth, that the compulsory school law be so amended as to require the attendance of all children between the ages of 8 and 16 for five full days each week, and for the entire school term; provided, a school be in session within three miles of the pupil's home by the nearest traveled road. Punishment for the violation of this law should be so increased as to make the same effective.

Seventh, that we favor a law making the county the unit of taxation and providing for a county board of education to displace the various district boards. The county board of education to be composed of a president elected at large, and a member elected from each magisterial district such members to be elected by the voters of the district which he represents.

Eighth, that we believe the school children of the rural districts will be given better educational advantages by requiring boards of education to consolidate schools where possible.

Ninth, that we commend the idea of the district high school and district supervision to the various boards of education.

Tenth, that we are in sympathy with any legislative movement whereby the use of tobacco and intoxicants

Ninth, that we commend the idea of the district high school and district supervision to the various boards of education.

Tenth, that we are in sympathy with any legislative movement whereby the use of tobacco and intoxicants may be reduced to a minimum.

Eleventh, that we favor the plan of our state superintendent to provide a two years' course in our normal schools for the benefit of the rural teachers.

Twelfth, that we extend our thanks and appreciation to our instructors, Thomas C. Miller and O. G. Wilson.

Thirteenth, that we thank the people of Marlinton for the kindness and hospitality shown us during the

JACOB W. BEARD DEAD

Jacob W. Beard died at his home at Beard Tuesday night, September 8, 1914, after a short illness of typhoid fever, aged about 45 years. His wife is also very low of the same sickness. His body will be buried today in the family lot at the Oak Grove cemetery.

The deceased was one of the more prominent and prosperous citizens of Pocahontas county, and a man who will be greatly missed. He was the eldest son of the late Moffett Beard and is survived by his mother, his wife and several children and a number of brothers and sisters.

O. B. Mann, of Poages Lane, reports fine success in growing the soy bean as a forage plant. Last spring at corn planting time he sowed an acre of ground in soy beans, drilling in two bushels to the acre. Last week he cut three tons of the finest hay from this acre, and left his ground in better condition than before the crop was grown as the soy bean is a leguminous plant and draws nitrogen from the air by nodules on its roots Those who have grown this plant say that when the stubble ground is sown to wheat that an average gain of five bushels more to the acre can be expected than if the same ground had been sowed to wheat after a corn crop. The sample stalks of soy bean Mr. Mann brought to this office are strong, up standing plants 36 inches long with brood, branching leaves like garden beans. For hay the plants are cut when in bloom, but Col. Hutton, of Huttonsville, has proven that the bean will reach maturity in this climate before frost comes. As a feed for milk cows and young stock it is equal to alfalfa hay or corn silage. Next year Mr. Mann will plant six acres to soy beans.

County Clerk C. J. McCarty, who as the reward for six years of hard work in office, got a swift kick from his party last spring, will after the expiration of his term of office conduct the large McNeel flour mill at Millpoint. He is already in charge of the mill and will devote such time as he can spare from his office to keeping the mill running. He did a big day's grinding Wednesday. He is an expert miller and machinist, and a first class blacksmith, and skillful in most every line of work. On the whole, we think that Clerk McCarty will be happier with a different kind of machinery than he has lately been monkeying with.

Lester A. Varner, son of Charles Varner, whose home is at Headwaters, Va., died at the Marlinton, Hospital Monday May 17, 1920, at 4 p. m. from the effects of a kick in the head by a horse. The little boy was visiting at the home of his grandmother, Mrs. Mary Varner, at Greenbank. Friday he was driving some live stock from the pasture and got too close to the heels of a horse and was kicked in the forehead, the corks in the horse shoe penetrating and fracturing the skull. He was brought to the Marlinton Hospital the next day where an operation was performed in the hopes of saving his life. Meningitis complicating the injury and he died without fully regaining consciousness at any time since the accident occurred. The body was taken to the family home in High lane County for burial Travelers passing through the connties on our eastern border on the Virginia side tell us that the road workers on the roads of Bath and Highland counties get their road work in shape much earlier in the year than we. The result is that the winter ruts are obliterated and dirt roads firmly packed and in shape for travel by now. There can be no manner of doubt that dirt roads should be put in shape early in March or April, as this allows the roads to dry and settle uniformly. Working the roads later tends to leave a layer of mud and loose rocks on the hardened road bed, which does not incorporate well with the road, the result continued misery with the travel till well along in the summer. Road contractors should get busy early in the spring to get best results.

JOHN C. BOND

TO THE REPUBLICANS OF WEST VIRGINIA:

A canvass of the state gives me the assurance that I will be nominated for State Auditor on the Republican ticket.

Throughout the state my supporters have been most loyal. They are the kind of people who cannot be bought by money or the promise of a job. All they demand of a public official is that every interest be given careful and honest consideration. And this is my only promise.

A candidate for state office cannot see personally or communicate by letter with the large majority of voters. Those who know me best are my staunchest supporters. To those who do not know me I desire to say that my qualifications for the office have not been questioned. I hope to be of some real service to the state. I am making my own fight. I am not slated with any other candidate for office. I have no political prejudices to gratify and no personal favors to bestow.

I am not making my campaign as a military man. I was an enlisted man in the Spanish-American War. When the World War broke out I resigned as Adjutant General of the state and went into military service, taking part in some of the hardest fighting in France. Many Republicans feel that, other things being equal, we should have a man who was in service on the state ticket.

I ask the support of all Republicans regardless of their choice of candidates for other offices.

Sincerely yours,

JOHN C. BOND.

Grazing Farm for Sale

At Durbin, Pocahontas Co.

The Mountain Lick Lumber Company has at Olive Station, on the Western Maryland Railroad, two miles north of Durbin. W. Va., on Mountain Lick Run and its tributaries, about two thousand acres of land in compact form, suitable for a fine grazing farm—well watered. Rolling ridges and smooth surface. The greater part of the surface is what is known as the Red Shale Formation and will grow a creamy Blue Grass—the best in the world to fatten sheep and cattle.

This piece of land we have recently completed an operation on, and will sell with the land one seven room house, weatherboarded and plastered, and painted, equipped with hot and cold water, bath room, Hot Air Heating Plant complete with good furnace.

Also one large store building and four other houses (Dwellings).

There is a large amount of Hemlock and Spruce, Pulpwood and Chestnut Dyewood on the land, which can be hauled on the old railroad grades to Olive Siding, an average distance of about one mile.

We will leave a Spur Siding long enough to hold three cars to load

We will leave a Spur Siding long enough to hold three cars to load same out on. This wood can be taken out at a good profit, and keep three men and a team busy for an indefinite number of years, as we believe the growth of the timber would equal the cutting and thus make a perpetual operation, by taking out the timber first that is deteriorating and protect the growth of young timber, as it is growing rapidly.

There is about two thousand acres in the boundary that will fence easily in one block without the interference of public highways. About one-half of the boundary the Coal, Oil and Gas was reserved when we purchased and we can only convey the surface of that portion of the land. The balance we would convey in Fee Simple. with good title.

Will sell this boundary for the small sum of Five Dollars per acre, actual survey; one-half Cash, balance to suit the purchaser.

Deferred payments to bear interest at 6 per cent per annum.

We have about 8000 acres more land in this section suitable for grazing. Come and see us or write for further particulars.

BUCKEYE

Farming is the order of the day here. Some farmers are planting corn, othres have finished.

The health of the neighborhood is very good with the exception of Mrs. L. A. Hefner, who has been very sick but is now improving.

Our Sunday School is progressing nicely; we would like to see more of the adults at church, though.

The people were greatly pleased with Rev. Walker's sermon on Mothers' Day. We hope to have him with us again. Also Mr. Price who taught the Bible class in Sunday school that afternoon.

Several of our young people attended singing Sunday afternoon at Bucks Run school house. All report a lively time.

Some of our sports were fishing on Williams River last week, but report the water too high for good fishing.

Everybody is cordially invited to the play given by the club members at the Buckeye church, Saturday night, May 22nd at 8 o'cock. Let everybody come and have a good time. If you never laugh—better stay away, for "Gracious Ann Bean" (darkey) will make you laugh until your sides ache. The proceeds of the play are to send some of the members to the Prize Winner's course at Morgantown in June. Our club is doing good work this year. Maybe some of you will remember that this club sook six of the prizes at the exhibit last year. We hope to do even better this year.

Upon the recommendation of Rev. Elmer C. Sloane, the quarterly conference of the Huntersville Circuit M. E. Chureh, South, at a recent meeting decided that a church should be organized at Minnehaha Springs, that the society on Browns Mountain be merged with the new church. A committee composed of C. P. McElwee, Mrs. Elmer Moore, Mrs. P. A. Rexrode, Mrs G. M. Ervine, Mrs A. P. McLaughlin, Jonn Smith and Otho Gum was appointed to take such steps as they deem wise looking toward the securing of lots and the erection of a suitable church building.

ARBOVALE, W. VA.—Rev. P. W. Arbogast, of Circleville, is visiting his home folks in Greenbank district. Upon his arrival, he found that Squire Aaron A. Sharp was a candidate for the office of Assessor. Mr. Arbogast wishes to say for publication that when men of the type offer for public office they should be encouraged, as hethinks much of the unrest now so prevalent in our country is due to the fact that we oftentimes are not careful as to men we elect to office. For two years Mr. Arbogast served as to the church of which Mr. Sharp is an official member. He recommends him as a man who has always taken an interest in church and community work, and a public officer who has attempted to do his duty without fear or favor.—Political advertisement.

BIG CAR BURNED UP

Monday night the big Hudson car of M. E. Pue, of this place, got on fire on Elk Mountain and was entirely burned up and destroyed.

Mr. Pue with a party consisting of Dr. J. W. Price, Miss Allie Gibson and Forrest Gibson, was coming from Elk in the diriction of Marlinton, and had dropped down to the foot of the mountain near Mrs. Maggie Sharp's farm, when the car was discovered to to be on fire. The machine was under good control and the driver stopped, but in a very short time the whole car was on fire. It was so quickly enveloped in flames that Dr. Price lost his medicine case.

The car was a 60 H. P. Hudson, known as a Big Six, and was comparatively new. It was probably the best car in the county. It is the same car that was recently driven by Mr. Pue from Baltimore to Marlinton in one day between daylight and dark.

The theory of the ignition is that a leak in the tank caused gas to gather under the hood and that a spark from the electric battery set it on fire. There was twenty-gallons of gasoline in the car, and the car is a total loss.

The ladies of the M. E. Church South realized nearly a hundred dollars at their dinner at Minnehaha Springs last Saturday. So rainy was the day that meals were Robert Simmons, chief of police at Durbin, brought down two prisoners for the county jail this week. One was an Italian committed under the name of Sam Girrusso, who is charged with having an unusual quantity of liquor in his possession during the month of August, it being shown that he had received eight gallons during that month. He claimed to have drunk it up but that being more than a quart a day the justice did not consider his defense plausible and sent him on to await the action of the grand jury. The other prisoner was George Costalche, a big Austrian, who had been followed from Horton by a man who accused him of stealing his watch. The watch was found and returned to the trailer, but as a razor and a 38 cal. revolver was found upon him, somebody had to go to jail, and the court said let George do it. So he was sent to jail for eight months and required to pay a fine of $100, which will cut in upon the reserve.

ed, and it is always better to clean house this way than to have the neighbors come in and do it. What we need is more quiet sensible men, and fewer demagogues.

The waste products are being utilized at the lumber operation of the Mountain Lick Lumber Company, where the York Haven Paper Company have the contract to take all the tree tops and rotten logs left by the lumbermen. The paper company maintains its own force of men and pays $12.50 per car for this refuse as it lays in the woods. The paper company takes all bass, poplar, cucumber, spruce and hemlock, but does not take to beech or maple.

in the woods. The paper company takes all bass, poplar, cucumber, spruce and hemlock, but does not take to beech or maple.

It becomes more apparent every day that there was really no cause of war in Europe, and that it is just a case of too much powder lying around loose in the shape of armaments and military and it was either war or a general disarming. There is a pretext for war in the murder of the Austrian Prince. If the United States had intervened in Mexico, that might have been used as the immediate cause, and that would have found us in a predicament, sure enough. We can never be too thankful that we had a pacific president at the crucial time.

MINNEHAHA

There's a place called Minnehaha;
Laughing Water, Laughing Water
In the hills of West Virginia;
Where the springs run sweet and sparkling.
And the waters, clear as crystal,
Springing from the hills above it
Gather there at last together,
Forming there a fairy fountain,
Peering down unto the bottom
One sees there a fairy city,
Every little street and alley
Carpeted with strips of mosses,
While above them tower the buildings,
Buildings of a thousand windows,
On whose silvered domes and turrets
Sunbeams play in summer weather.

From the people gone before us
Comes a tale of evil spirits;
Of a princess, famed for beauty,
Disfigured ever by their power.
So she wandered 'lone, an outcast,
Through the wooded hills and valleys
Till she chanced upon these waters,
Drank and bathed in happy hour.
Not so many moons thereafter
She returned unto her people,

turrets
Sunbeams play in summer weather.

From the people gone before us

Of a princess, famed for beauty,
Disfigured ever by their power.
So she wandered 'lone, an outcast,
Through the wooded hills and valleys
Till she chanced upon these waters,
Drank and bathed in happy hour.
Not so many moons thereafter
She returned unto her people,
Stood there once again before them
Showed them her return to vigor;
But she spurned away their welcome,
Left them for the springs that healed her
Tended them until a warrior,
Wooed and won her by the fountain.

This is the tale of Minnehaha,
Indian Princess of a long past;
Listen, maybe you will hear it,
In the sound of rushing waters,

Here is about the best hunting tale that has come out of the woods the recent deer hunting season. About the first day of the season, Ressie Wilfong saw a big buck in Marlin Mountain, and he shot at it with a load of buckshot. The deer fell, but got up and went on. It was found that one antler had been broken and there was blood on the ground. About a week later, a deer again ran by Mr. Wilfong and he killed it. It had a broken antler which the piece the hunter had carried around for a week just fitted. A shot had gone through the deer's ear when his horn was broken.

Raw Furs

Never before have we made greater effort to handle raw furs in large quantities to advantage than we have at the beginning of this season.

Don't be misled by rascals' high quotations. A great number of those who send out quotations know they can't and wont pay the prices they quote. They call your fur a lower grade in order to get by with it.

We solicit the patronage of large shippers, merchants and all trappers of raw furs. If you have furs caught in season for sale, please write how much you have and what you want for it. If you are not unreasonable we will try and buy it. We feel sure we will give you more for your fur than you can get by shipping it. So hold your fur for us. If we cannot buy it, you have a chance to sell it to some one else. If you ship it; you are not likely to have any more chance to gets its worth.

I would like to name a lot of fur companies that send their lists to almost every trapper, to cheat them out of their fur, but I can't publish them. So we are going to do our very best to please you.

If we can't get your fur by giving you an honest grade, we do not want it. Our old customers know us and they know we give them more for their fur. We want new customers.

Yours very respectfully,

L. D. SHARP.

DR. HAMMEN MOVES TO HUNTINGTON

Pocahontas county lost a valuable citizen when Dr. W. A. Hammen, dentist. moved to Huntington last week. He practiced dentistry at Cass for the last nineteen years.

He was also a prominent Mason, having been Deputy Grand master for this section of the State.

The Cass Presbytetian church will also miss him as he treasurer and secretary of the Board of Deacons.

HILLSBORO

Our football team was defeated by the Greenbank Eleven at Greenbank last Saturday, the score was 26-6. Our team scored however, something they had not done this season. Summers Burr carried the ball across by means of bucking the line. Captain Hill made the extra point by putting a drop kick over perfectly. At the end of the third quarter the opponents were almost all in, but Hillsboro was still there. Three of Greenbank's men were knocked out. Quoted by a Greenbank fan: "If Hillsboro was just a little heavier there would be no stopping them." Inspite of the fact that a teachers meeting held at Marlinton several attended and backed up the team.

PANTHERS AND THINGS

Mr. Andrew Price,
Marlinton, W. Va.
Dear Andy:

I wanted to see you when I was in Marlinton to tell you about the Colonel Cecil Clay's panther.

Sometime ago I was in Charleston and in the Kanawha Hotel lobby was talking to Sam Stephenson and we got to reminiscing. In the course of the conversation he told me about being scared by a panther, the last that he knew of in the state and I am confident that this was Clay's panther that was killed on Williams River in 1887.

Stephenson says that it was the fall his father ran last for Clerk of the Circuit Court of Clay county which was 1886, and that on the day of the election he (Sam Stephenson) had gone to one of thefar off precincts and had stayed all day, or until sun down, when he started home on foot. He had I recall some twelve or fifteen miles to walk. After being a considerable distance he found that he was being followed by a panther, which lept out in the woods some distance from him and was walking parallel with them. He said that he didn't know the panther was there until it screamed and that he had heard panthers scream before and knew immediately what it was. He said that he screamed back as loud as he could and felt in his pocket for a knife, which he took out and that he hastened his pace, but for the next few miles the panther followed him keeping about the same distance from him in the woods, and that he could hear the panther either lashing its tail or pounding on the ground with its feet. He couldn't tell how the panther was making the noise but it sounded like pounding on the ground with something and every little while it would scream, and he would scream back. I asked him why he wanted to yell back and he said thrt that was the only way he knew to let the panther know that it would have a fight on its hands if it came down to the road, or path, he was travelling. Finally the panther left him when they close to some clearing but the next day the panther was seen on the edge of Clay going toward Nicholas and Williams River. He said that this was the last panther he had heard of in the state and I him that in all probably it was the same panther that was killed in 1887 on Williams River by Col. Cecil Clay, as that was the last one we heard of in our county.

Very truly yours,

Another thing that this book has convinced me is that there were a great many more people in the Greenbrier Valley in 1755 than I ever had any idea there was (See page 94) and according to it Pocahontas County was not in the District of West Augusta. It was in the year 1885 or 1886 that this panther attacked the late Samuel C. Baxter, on the waters of Williams River, leaping on him and his horse, as he was riding near his farm after night fall.

An account of the killing of the panther by Col. Clay is to be found in Theodore Roosevelt's works, in the book entitled "Hunting the Grisly," page 151. In that case Col. Clay owed his opportunity of making the shot to the courtesy of Francis McCoy. When the panther fell from the tree wounded, it seized a hound, and Mr. McCoy, who was one of the strongest men who ever lived, seized and held the panther with his bare hands until a second shot could be given.—Editor

Dear Andy:

Let me know whether or not you have, or have ever seen a copy of Virgil A. Lewis' Report to Governor Dawson dated Oct. 1, 1906, when Lewis was State Historian and Archivest. If you have not you must get a copy of this some how, at once.

I never saw a copy of it until I ran across one of them down here in the Clerk's Office and it straightens out lots of matters for me. One of which is the name Coal River. It seems that this river is properly called Coal River and that it was first found in 1742, by John Peter Salley, who with John Howard and three other persons came to New River from near Natural Bridge, descended it to Richmond Falls, where they crossed to Coal River and went down Coal River to the Ohio, and in their report they state, "In these mountains we find plenty of coal for which we named it Coal River." Later on the streams seems to have been called Cole River for Col. Cole, who was at the mouth of the river, where St. Albans now is, at one time, but the river soon got back to its original name of Cole River.

Appendix No. 1 also gives in full the exploring expedition of Thomas Batts September 1671, who came as Albans now is, at one time, but the river soon got back to its original name of Cole River.

Appendix No. 1 also gives in full the exploring expedition of Thomas Batts, September 1671, who came as far down as Kanawha Falls, which they reached on September 17, 1671.

Also in the appendix he gives the pioneer forts, stockades and block houses in West Virginia, during the periods of the French and Indian Wars and Pontiac's Conspiracy from 1754-1763. He gives none of the forts that we know in Pocahontas, and in his list of the forts, stockades and block houses from 1774-1795 he gives none of the forts in Pocahontas county that I knew. He does, however, give Fort Keckley (32), "A small fort situated in the Little Levels in Academy district, Pocahontas county. It appears to have been erected about the year 1772 Later it became known as Fort Day, or John Day's Fort. Still later it appears to have been called Fort

It appears to have been erected about the year 1772 Later it became known as Fort Day, or John Day's Fort. Still later it appears to have been called Fort Price, or Prices' Old Fort. It is doubtless known locally, but the Literature of the Border Wars contains little regarding it."

Fort Warwick (63) is stated to have been in Huttonsville, District, Randolph County, and its builder is named James Warwick. He gives the location of twenty-three forts up to 1774 and from 1774 to 1775 gives the location of s'xty nine forts.

Another thing that this book has convinced me is that there were a great many more people in the Green brier Valley in 1755 than I ever had any idea there was (See page 94) and according to it Pocahontas County was not in the District of West Augusta. Isaace Brown Moore died at his home on Knapps Creek on Thursday February 10, 1927, after a long illness. His age was 78 years, one month and three days. Burial at the Moore. graveyard on Friday afternoon under the direction of the Huntersville Masonic Lodge, assisted by Marlinton Lodge. Rev. S R. Neel conducted the service. Mr. Moore was a prominent citizen of his native county of Pocahontas. Twice was he honored by being sent to represent his county in the Legislature. He was an active member of the Methodist Episcopal Church, South. He was the oldest Mason in the county, having been a charter member of the Huntersville Lodge which was formed in 1875.

Mr. Moore was the son of Moses Moore and Isabila Campbell Moore He was married three times. His first wife was Miss Kate R Curry. The surviving children of this marriage are W. P. Moore, R P. Moore and Fred B. Moore; Miss Mary McNeel Moore, Mrs. Mattie Walker, Mrs Florence McGuffin, Mrs. Lucy McGuffin, Mrs. B B. Campbell. His second wife was Miss Addie Watts, of Greenbrier county, who lived but a short time after her marriage.

His third wife was Miss Sadie Hamilton. She and their two children Grady and Gladys survive Mr. Moore.

GREAT FILM BATTLE

It was a hideous night of carnage! Ronald Coleman and Wyndham Standing were both seriously wounded as the roar of artillery, the whine of shrapnel and the staccatto rattle of machine guns reverberated over the rolling, erstwhile peaceful slopes of the California coast. All night the battle raged.

For George Fitzmaurice and his two valiant armies were staging a reproduction of one of the mighiest battles of the recent war as a sequence of "The Dark Angel", which First National will present at the Seneca theatre next Tuesday and Wednesday. Hundreds of ex-doughboys composed the two armies. With the dawn a truce was declared, the troops discharged and another thrilling episode of this great drama was completed.

OLD REHOBOTH PRESERVATION CAMPAIGN

The campaign for the repairing and preservation of the oldest Methodist Church west of the Alleghenies is going forward with unabated interest. Hundreds of Methodists and others from all sections of our country have sent in their contributions to this fund We can now say that the Old Rehoboth Church will be preserved as one of the landmarks of of Methodist history. Work has begun and is being pushed to completion and in a short while the old historic log meeting house will stand as it did in the days of Asbury and his compeers We want to close the campaign at a very early date. While the returns have been very satisfactory up to the present, we still need more funds to do what should be done at this time. So we are making this final call. We want 300 or more Methodists and other friends to send us at once $1.00 or more and the work will go on to completion. A Book of Remembrance is being made. In this book will be inscribed the names of all the contributors to the repair and preservation fund. This book will be kept in the church where all may read of the friends of this old shrine. Send in your remittance at once to Rev. George W. Richardson, Presiding Elder, Treasurer, Lewisburg, W. Va.

FROM COUSIN CHARLEY

Dear Cousin Calvin:

After my best w'shes and regards to you and family. I will say please find enclosed one dollar, to be credited on my Pocahontas Times. I am always glad to get the paper, but sorry to read of the deaths of so many of my friends — John Barlow, John Mann, William Sharp, of Edray; Paul Sharp, of Harter; I. B Moore, of Knapps Creek; R D. Rimel, of Top Alleghany; Aaron Thomas and Col. D A. Fisher, of Huntersville, and others. All were friends of mine, but the best of friends must part. I would like to visit again my friends in Pocahontas.

Here at Kenova we have had a real wet spring. The last two morning good, big frosts

They are building a big bridge here, and it looks like they were having their share of trouble. In the winter or early spring the false work of the second span with the bottom iron, fell and ten men went with it. Four of the men were never gotten out. They were covered with sand or carried into the Ohio River.

Some time pack they again started work on the bridge and got the second span on all right. They put false work in for the third span and had a section of iron on, when it collapsed. Fortunately there no men on it.

Give all my old friends in Marlinton my regards, but there are many who are no longer there.

Your well wishing friend,

C. Z. Hevener,

April 25, 1927 Kenova, W. Va

The biggest revenue producer in the county that year was the logging job of Smith & Whiting getting out white pine timber on the McCuctheon tract near Dunmore, now in the State park, known as the Seneca Forest. In those days the whole eastern side of the couuty was black with the white pine timber, and these dark green monarchs of the forest were very much in evidence along the road running from Huntersville to Greenbank. Up to that time there had been but few engines of any kind in Pocahontas county. One or two portable sawmills. The year after that it seems to me that an engine was brought to run the threshing machine in this part of the county, though there had been steam threshing in the Levels prior to that time. Here we threshed with horse power. But Smith & Whiting had brought a log locomotive into the county and it ran a string of trucks from the woods to thelanding placeon the stream that fed into the Greenbrier River. The railroad was constructed by laying light rail on stringers and it was a powerful improvement on the horse slides. It was a round little engine

It was a round little engine, and it was named Jim in honor of the Captain's youngest son then a baby. It was a wonder.

In that November there came a Saturday and we hauled a wagon load of oats to the log camp and got a splendid big feed at the camp, and started home in the latter part of the day, and it was after night when we got in and it was a very dark night. It had been a beautiful day but there had been the haze over the sky, a sure sign of a weather breeder. The next morning it was cold and windy, and snowing to beat the band, and no wood prepared for Sunday. So we harnessed up the team and went around back of the hacking and brought in a load of good dry wood, and the whole family were cautioned and instructed in the gravest manner not to let the word get out that we had done some work on Sunday.

This thing of memory is about all that there is to the mind of man and the storehouse of memory seems to be filled in rather haphazard way, and we follow a clue something like a vein in the rock, one thing leading to another. Or perhaps it would be a better illustration to liken it to following a string through a maze. It is not a storehouse with its goods kept in good order on the shelves. They are piled in helter skelter, and when the storehouse gets full that is the end of the active life of man, and there is not much room left for current events. Thus a man may remember catching that fish fifty years ago with distinctness, and yet not be able to recall whether he took his pill that morning before breakfast.

Thus a man may remember catching that fish fifty years ago with distinctness, and yet not be able to recall whether he took his pill that morning before breakfast.

Strange feats of memory are recorded from time to time. I had an experience the other day when talking with Luther W. Beard. He spoke about driving a herd of Texas cattle to Dodge and when they got near the end of their great drive, their foreman, Walker, would not go into Dodge City because the year before when he had taken in a drive he had got into a shooting match with the sheriff and the marshall and had been carried out of town supposed to be dead. Years ago I had read Alfred Henry Lewis's Sunset Trail; in it was all about Walker and the other man, Wagner, the cook, who had mixed it with the Mastertons. I looked up the book and there it was all laid out and like all shooting cases there were two sides to the controversy.

There is a blind business man in this town who has a well trained memory. He knows man by their voices He walks along Main Street without a guide and crosses the Greenbrier River and walks south on the motor infested state highway, and turns up the narrow side road up Price Run and walks by the bank of that run for a half a mile, and does it all as well as if he had eyes to bother him. He says that he knows by the murmur of the brook exactly where he is when he is following the road by the run.

It is a friendly run and I have gone to sleep by its voice many and many a night, but I cannot distinguish the variation of tones so clear to the blind man.

FIRST BEAR BOUNTY

Floyd B. Gragg, of Back Allegheny was the first man to claim the $30 bounty on a bear, offered by the County Court of Pocahontas County for every big bear killed between October 1, 1927 and September 30, 1928 On Tuesday, October 4, Mr. Gragg was before County Clerk S. L. Brown with the head and hide of a monster bear to prove up for the bounty.

Mr Gragg lives on the Staunton and Parkersburg turnpike three miles west of the town of Durbin. In the past few weeks he has lost ten head of fine sheep by bears. On last Friday a big bear came off of Cheat and killed and partly ate a sheep This was within a quarter of a mile of Mr Gragg's residence.

A bear trap was set at the carcass of the sheep; Monday night the bear came back, and he stuck a hind leg in the trap. The bear traveled dowu the mountain, across the pike, but he had gone less than a half-mile when Mr Gragg found him Tuesday morning. When the man came up the bear made at him, but a load of shot ended things. He was an immense creature, weighing around 400 pounds in thin flesh. The fine pelt will be made into a rug.

SUNDAY SCHOOL

A Sunday School Rally was held at Marys Chapel on Elk last Sunday. October 2. The morning exercises consisted of Sunday School service. The Superintendent is Mrs. Allie Gibson, and with the cooperation of the teachers, children and people it was a delightful service. A bountiful dinner was spread on the church lawn, and it was greatly enjoyed by a large congregation. In the afternoon a sacred song service was held, with addresses by Sunday School workers. L. D. and Ivan Sharp, Misses Goldie Gay Hannah, Miss Rubie May Hannah and O. W. Kellison led the singing and Charles McGuire was the manager of the round table disscussion about Sunday School work. Great praise is due the superintendent of the Elk Sunday School and her co-workers

GREENBANK COMMUMITY COUNCIL

OPEN SEASON

There seems to be some confusion abont the open season for game in Pocahontas county, caused by not reading aright the notice of the State Game Commission published in this paper. First, there will be an open season for deer in Pocahontas and ten other counties, from November 1 to November 10, both dates inclusive Second, the open season for turkeys in all the countries in the State is the month of November. Third, the open season for ruffed grouse or native pheasant in Pocahontas and ten other counties is from October 15 to November 30, both dates inclusive In forty four other counties the season is cut down to the month of November. Fourth, turn to page two of this paper and check this statement up with the official notice of the Game Commission.

FROM MR. BRATTON

FROM MR. BRATTON

Dear Andy:

I had no idea when I talked to Sam Stephenson last spring, and later wrote you what he said about seeing a sure enough panther—whatever kind that is—headed for Pocahontas in the fall of 1886, that it was going to bring on all this panther deluge that we have had since then.

Now as to Old Red Sandstone. One of the Pocahontas Deans figures conspicuously in history in connection therewith—physical connection. His first name was Abner, and he went west with Jim Bridger. He was a member in good standing (until he sunk to the floor) of Bret Harte's "Society upon the Stainlaus", where you will find him referred to as follows:

"Then Abner Dean, of Angels, raised a point of order, when A chunk of Old Red Sandstone struck him in the abdomen;
He smiled a kind of sickly smile and curled upon the floor.
And the subsequent proceedings interested him no more."

It is said, on what autho rity I dont know, that this chunk was thrown by Jim Bridger, and that it was a chunk that he and Abner Dean had taken west with them from Pocahontas. and had been used by them to scotch their wagon when needed, all the way from Price Hill to the Rockies, and that it is still somewhere in California.

Yours,

He smiled a kind of sickly smile

It is said, on what authority I dont know, that this chunk was thrown by Jim Bridger, and that it was a chunk that he and Abner Dean had taken west with them from Pocahontas. and had been used by them to scotch their wagon when needed, all the way from Price Hill to the Rockies, and that it is still somewhere in California.

Yours,

W. A. Bratton,

Mr. Buchanan was a former resident of Marlinton. He is survived and five children, Blair, Jesse and Murray Buchanan, Mrs. Frank Floyd and Mrs. Thomas.

On last Wednesday a bear killed a sheep for Withrow McClintic at his home place on Swago. On Thursday morning a hunt was organized. Dick Smith and Reed Moore responded with their packs of well trained bear fighting dogs. The bear was trailed as far as the Barlow Top. The day was then so hot the dogs could trail no further. The sheep have been driven out of the Cranberry and Williams River ranges, and an old sheep eater had come into the settlement for his mess of mutton and then went back to his denning place in the Cranberry wilderness.

Larry Yarigo and his little daughter were killed in an automobile collision Sunday, October 2, on tbe Midland Trail near Rupert, Green-through the yard after dark she fell over a flower box.

GAUJOT--WARWICK

On the evening of Monday September 26, 1927, at the home of the bride's aunt, Mrs. Annie Warwick, in Marlinton, Claude Leon Gaujot, of Huntington, and Miss Eula Hill Warwick, of Greenbank, were united in marriage. The officiating minister was Rev. S. R. Neel, pastor of the Marlinton Methodist Church.

The bride is a daughter of Forrest H. and Bertie Nottingham Warwick. She is a bright, promising young lady For three years she taught at Green Bank, and this year she is teaching the Curry School, near Dunmore. She and Mrs. Gaujot met while she was going to school at Marshall College. Mr. Gaujot is from a well known family of Mingo county; his father was a mining engineer, and the second mayor of the city of Williamson; his mother a Miss Flournoy, of Virginia. He was in the World War, serving over seas in France with the A. E. F. His home is now in Huntington; he is assistant sales manager for the Missouri Paint and Varnish Company.

BE CAREFUL

Uncle Jim Gibson, aged 72 years and just rareing to kill a deer this fall, told this editor on last Saturday night to be sure to print a strong warning to all who go into the woods with guns to be absolutely sure what they are shooting at before they shoot. He said to bear down hard on the pencil when I wrote it too. This thing of shooting at every bush that shakes has laid many a good man in his grave, and clouded every day of the life of the man who shot too quickly. There will be thousands of people in the woods in this county this year, especially during the time of the open season for deer. Many of them have not been brought up with a gun, and do not realize how dangerous it is. They do not have the wholesome respect for and dread of fire arms that the experienced hunter has. There are a lot of old time hunters who will stay away from their favorite hunting grounds this season because the woods will be full of people ready to shoot at the shake of a leaf. A term in prison or even a life time of regret will not bring back the life or limb of a fellow man. Again let me say to the young and to the inexperienced, save your fire until you see the forks of his horns. If it turns out to be a man, you will be glad: if it is a deer you will have an opportunity to place your shot and bring down your quarry. Act like an experienced hunter—See what you are shooting at before you shoot.

Being one of the few people now living in Pocahontas County who have any recollection of having met with Col. Clay, I was requested by Andrew Price to tell about it, My father, H. C. Herbert, lived at the Meadows on Williams River from 1874 to September 1879. and it was during these years that I remember seeing Col. Clay. I don't know how many times, but I remember the first time better than any other. One reason for this is that, boy like, I was struck with the beauty of his blue uniform trimmed with gold braid. This was my first knowledge I ever had that soldiers wore clothes different from those in civil life. Another reason was that he carried the first Winchester rifle I ever saw. He cut a block from a curly maple tree on Laurel Creek and took it to the Philadelphia Centennial in 1876. The tree stood on the lower side of the public road, opposite the old mill dam, and was shown to me by my father when I was a small boy. Years later in 1891, Adam Young, Auburn Friel and myself cut the tree and the stump can still be seen. Col. Clay was evidently a man of high mind, an ardent sportsman and a lover of the wilds.

Parade Marshals Fred and Lucille Burns

Mr. & Mrs. Burns to lead parade

Fred Campbell Burns, Sr., and Lucille Barlow Burns are the Honorary Parade Marshals for Pioneer Days Parade 1999. The couple celebrated their 64th wedding anniversary on May 27.

Fred is the son of the late Lonnie C. and Margaret Clawson George. He was born in Bath County, Virginia. He has a sister, Virginia Ross, of Clifton Forge, Virginia, and a brother, Claude Burns, of Millboro, Virginia; his half-brother was the late Ralph Burns, of Hillsboro. The Burns family came to Marlinton around 1932 and owned and operated a feed store for several years.

Lucille was born at Huntersville, the daughter of the late S. I. and Mabel Wagner Barlow. She has three living sisters, Louise McNeel and Nell Shrader, both of Hillsboro, and Evelyn Williams, of Oak Hill, and a brother, Maynard; three sisters are deceased: Myrtle Adkins, Madeline McComb, and Juanita Patterson.

Fred and Lucille have four children, sixteen grandchildren and twenty-three great-grandchildren. Fred C., Jr., and his wife, Carolyn Barlow Burns, have three children and six grandchildren; Thomas Wayne and his wife, Dreama McNellan Burns, have two sons and four grandchildren; Larry Lee and Sheila Wilmoth Burns have five children

Mildred Sutton - 1999 Pocahontas County Belle

Mildred Sutton will be Pocahontas County Belle at the West Virginia Folk Festival to be held in Glenville, from June 18 - 20. Her escort will be Dorothy Lane. Mildred lives at Woodrow with her husband, Raymond, and their two pets: Lucky the dog, and Skeeter the cat. Mildred and Raymond have two sons, Ralph and Kenneth, three grandchildren and three great-grandchildren.

Mildred was born on Woodrow Mountain. She is the youngest of eight children born to and raised by William and Lenora Woods. Her father was the postmaster of the Woodrow Post Office. Since her mother helped with post office work, Mildred learned her ABCs by helping to put up the mail.

Mildred attended Woodrow School, Marlinton Elementary, and Marlinton High School and graduated from Charleston High School. Studies included shorthand and typing.

Mildred and Raymond owned and operated Sutton Grocery in South Charleston during the 1950's. Mildred worked at Levins West Side Inc., in St. Albans, for 13 years as well as McClung and Morgan Department Store and Sears.

Mildred serves as secretary of the AARP Pocahontas Chapter #1853, Vice President of Edray CEO, does devotions, is a member of the Women's Ministries at Living Word Church of God, teaches a Sunday School class and is a member of the Pocahontas Memorial Hospital Auxiliary.

Mildred earned a Certificate of Graduation from Teaching Techniques in July 1994 given by Doctor I.W. Morgan, attends Bible College at the church, and has represented the church at Seminars for Better Leadership and Christian Education for Today.

Mildred attended the WVCEO Annual Business Meeting at Jackson's Mill and Leadership Training in Union.

Mildred has three brothers, Stewart, of Grand Rapids, Michigan, a brother, Albert, of Chicago, Illinois, Lloyd, of Marlinton; and a sister, Mable, of Ripley. Three brothers are deceased, Elmer, Forest, and Clyde.

Hobbies include crafts, sewing, gardening, and being a wife and mother—a career her family says she has been successful at for 53 years.

MRS. PAGE FRIEL

Mrs. Mary Margaret Kimbal Friel passed into the Great Beyond on June 2, 1927. She was 37 years of age and is survived by her husband and their five children, Joseph Edward, Leola, Viola, Olive and Audrey; also her father and mother and two brothers. She united with the Brethren church when quite young and passed from this life with the full assurance of a brighter and better world awaiting her just over the border land. Her remains were laid to rest in the Fairview cemetery. Let us cherish the thought that when our life work is ended we will join her in that "better home awaiting in the sky."

The battle of Elkwater was the Civil War battle that was never fought. There was some slaughter but both sides drew back without going on with the great conflict that was staged. Both sides were on the defensive. That is the reason that both armies were content to face each other for eighs weeks during the summer months of 1861.

Robert E. Lee to the end of the war shone more as a defensive strategist than he did in his offensive movements. In this he was the antithesis of Stonewall Jackson who came down on them like a wolf in the fold. Note Lee's failure in the Gettysburg campaign.

The federal forces were flushed with the victories of Philippi, Rich Mountain and Carrick's Ford. McClellan had won these and it made him commander in chief, so he went to Washington to take charge of the far flung battlelines, and left General Reynolds to make a fortified camp at Elkwater, while General Rosecrans marched on to Kanawha Mountain and Carrick's Ford. McClellan had won these and it made him commander in chief, so he went to Washington to take charge of the far flung battlelines, and left General Reynolds to make a fortified camp at Elkwater, while General Rosecrans marched on to Kanawha.

The road from Marlinton to Elkwater, now called the Seneca Trail is almost due north and south. From Marlinton it is more or less up hill for seven miles until it tops Elk Mountain. Then it descends a short distance to the upper waters of Elk River and follows the Old Field Fork down for about nine miles to the forks, crossing Slaty Fork near its mouth, there to the Big Spring of Elk Fork. The pike follows this stream. to the postoffice Linwood, four miles, and then continues north ascending Middle Mountain two miles, then across a head of a hollow about a mile to the top of Valley Mountain, the line between Randolph County and Pocahontas County, snd thence about ten miles to the Elkwater fort. It was an important pike at the beginning at the Civil War, being one of the Commonwealth's highways. under the internal improvement schemes that Virginia had engaged in so heavily for thirty-odd years about ten miles to the Elkwater fort. It was an important pike at the beginning at the Civil War, being one of the Commonwealth's highways, under the internal improvement schemes that Virginia had engaged in so heavily for thirty-odd years immediately prior to the war.

The country is, and was at that time nearly all cleared and the road lined with fine farms between Marlinton and Elkwater.

The union army had won signal victories in Randolph and Tucker counties July 11, 12, and 13, 1861, and the news had just time to spread over the nation for a general rejoicing, when on July 21st, the confederates won a big battle at Bull Run and convinced the north that there was serious trouble ahead.

McClelland was ordered to leave some one in command in the mountains and get the war going again.

He arranged to hold the confederates back. The immense size of the ditch and bank at Elkwater is still to be noticed. So it is not surprising to find an order to the effect that this was to to be an extra big barrier, as well as the one on Cheat mountain That is evidence enough that the

So it is not surprising to find an order to the effect that this was to to be an extra big barrier, as well as the one on Cheat mountain That is evidence enough that the federals did not propose to advance any farther into the enemy's country that summer but would hold what they had won in the northern part of West Virginia and concentrate on driving Wise and Floyd out of the Kanawha Valley.

Reynolds made the fort at Elkwater, and Kimball of the Fonrteenth Indiana regiment, made the one at Cheat Summit generally referred to as White Top, where a man by the name of White lived. The Cheat Summit camp was on the Staunton & Parkersburg turnpike and this road ran south east from Huttons-

Reynolds made the fort at Elkwater, and Kimball of the Fonrteenth Indiana regiment, made the one at Cheat Summit generally referred to as White Top, where a man by the name of White lived. The Cheat Summit camp was on the Staunton & Parkersburg turnpike and this road ran south east from Huttonsville, gradually leaving the pike from that place to Marlinton. Cheat Summit is almost due east from Elkwater where the camp was and a trail led down the mountain making a short cut seven miles long between the two places. The wagon roads around by Huttonsville between the camps covered a distance of eighteen miles.

These camps were formed on or about the 13th or 14th of July. The first troops of the confederates to arrive at Middle Mountain were the Bath Cavalry on July 28th, followed by Col. Stephen Lee, with the Sixth North Carolina regiment. The plan of fortifying Valley Mountain and Middle Monntain was the result of a report made by William Skeen, an attorney of Huntersville, who furnished a map of the country, and

The plan of fortifying Valley Mountain and Middle Monntain was the result of a report made by William Skeen, an attorney of Huntersville, who furnished a map of the country, and who pointed out that the Virginia Central Railway was exposed to an attack at Millboro as much as it was at Staunton' and that the distance by turnpike much less than to Staunton.

In the meantime troops had been pouring into Staunton from all over the south and had been routed by way of Monterey on the Staunton and Parkersburg pike. The information furnished by Skeen was seized upon immediately by Robert E. and Parkersburg pike. The information furnished by Skeen was seized upon immediately by Robert E. Lee at Richmond, and he had a good deal of trouble getting the officers at Staunton to cease to send troops by Monterey and to detrain them at Millboro. His preemptory orders finally resulted in long columns of men being marched by the southern route by Warm Springs, Huntersville, Marlinton and Edray. William Skeen was a prominent man in the history of Pocahontas counuy. He had been clerk of the courts before the war, and then practised law. He was noted for his fine penmanship and his flights of oratory. The Commonwealth was referred to by him as the "virgin daughter of a virgin queen," and he was fighting for the idea of states' rights.

These troops gathered at Monterey, Bartow, Huntersville, and Marlinton, were called the Northwestern Army, and General Loring was placed in command of this army by an order fron General Lee dated July 20th. This was the officer who had outranked Robert E. Lee but who took his orders from Lee. But it was not long until Lee himself came to the mountains and took over the command. He arrived at Valley Mountain August 8th, and from that time to September 14th, that was Headquarters of the Forces, that title traveling with Lee from Richmond to the Big Spring.

Here is a list of the headquarters in West Virginia during the wet summer of 1861. Lee was at Valley Mountain from August 8 to August 15; at Meadow Bluff on September 24; and at Sewell Mountain, on Octo ber 20. During 1861, all of Robert E. At Clarksburg was another West Virginia lawyer who was willing to advise the war department from the federal side. John S. Carlile on August 15, 1861, wrote to Simeon Cameron, secretary of war, for God's sake to send more troops and a general to command them or they would be whipped in ten days. That four confederate armies were marching on the northwest by Mingo Flats, and that the Mingo Flats road was not guarded. Here was the original Godsaker about whom we heard so much about in the World War. He was mistaken about the Mingo Flats road not being guarded for the Elkwater fort was there for that very purpose.

And about this time another defender was brought to light. It was a bushwhacker. By a letter dated July 19, 1861, General H. R. Jackson wrote to headqcarters that he had recruited home guards to the number of one hundred and eighty men, and that as all of them had corn to work, he had agreed that if they left eighty of their best riflemen that the rest might return to their crops. These eighty riflemen were familiar with the country and were to "annoy the enemy from the hills and bushes."

So the mountain armies filled the passes and watched each other during the weeks of August and the first part of September. In the federal camp at Elkwater were two companies from Indiana who were in gray uniform and these men mingled with the confederates in their big camp at Valley Mountain. On Sunday the 8th of September a scouting party got as far as Mingo from the Elkwater and had a skirmish at four o'clock in the morning of the 9th in which they reported having killed fifteen secessionists and wounded as many more. And they learned that a general advance was to take place that day and they fell back with the news. And it is now seen that Lee made a general order to advance dated September 9.

they reported having killed fifteen secessionists and wounded as many more. And they learned that a general advance was to take place that day and they fell back with the news. And it is now seen that Lee made a general order to advance dated September 9.

A few weeks ago, I had a chapter on the way the confederate forces got lost in the Cheat River jungles about Cheat Bridge and thereby prevented Lee from having a pitched battle at Elkwater. These troops were from the army at Bartow and they were to pass through the laurel and the hobblerod in the night time to the south of the camp at Cheat Summit and that after much suffering and many hardships they came straggling back, defeated, weary and discouraged. In studying the evidence that is left of the Elkwater affair, I have found out something more about that lost legion. They attempted to go through the wilderness on the night of the 11th of September. None of the pickets or sentinels of the federal camp on the mountain knew that any such movement was taking place.

They attempted to go through the wilderness on the night of the 11th of September. None of the pickets or sentinels of the federal camp on the mountain knew that any such movement was taking place. This is conclusive that they did not top the mountain on the pike. And early in the morning there were parts of three regiments which had passed by the camp and gotten to the pike in the rear, for early that morning, the 12th, three army wagons started from Cheat Summit for supplies, and they rolled into the confederate army about a mile west of the encampment and were captured. The number of confederate soldiers on the pike west and in the rear of the confederates were estimated by the federal officers to be twenty-five hundred men. They took the horses and men and disappeared in thick forest.

From this time on the skirmishing in the big forests of Cheat assumed the character of Indian fighting. Later in the day a company of Indiana troops caught sight of some confederates four miles west of the camp at the summit and had a battle with them, the federal troops remaining in the road and the confederates disappearing in the timber.

It now appears that these Indiana troops had been camped in the dense spruce for full two months and the active young soldiers had nothing better to do than to become thoroughly acquainted with the wonders of such a wilderness. It now appears that these Indiana troops had been camped in the dense spruce for full two months and the active young soldiers had nothing better to do than to become thoroughly acquainted with the wonders of such a wilderness. Few of them had ever seen a mountain or a forest of any great extent before. They had roamed in the mountains hunting and fishing and having as good a time as they could under the circumstances, and in the battle in the woods they had the soldiers who had come from Arkansas and other southern states at a great disadvantage. The object of the confederate flanking movement was to get in behind the Summit camp and take another place which was a small camp and Supply point known as Cheat Mountain Pass ten miles west of the summit at the northern base of Cheat Mountain, and the skirmish in the afternoon of the 12th, interfered with this movement.

On the 12th the big army on Valley Mountain moved forward. About half way between the Valley Mountain camp and Elkwater fort, is the town of Valley Head. This is the point that the Webster county road, the Point Mountain pike, joins the Seneca Trail and the federal forces had been maintaining an advance guard at that point.

The confederate army at this point was about nine thousand strong, and after a battle at the forks of the road at Valley Head, the federals fell back and the confederates did not advance. Along the road which follows the river bottom the land was cleared, but between that strip of settled country and the great Cheat Mountain there is a great stretch of broken wooded country through which many streams flow down from Cheat mountain to the Valley River. Along the road which follows the river bottom the land was cleared, but between that strip of settled country and the great Cheat Mountain there is a great stretch of broken wooded country through which many streams flow down from Cheat mountain to the Valley River. Some of these are small runs and others are considerable creeks. At Valley Head, Lee sent three regiments north along the base of Cheat mountain through the woods to join the flanking army that was to cross from Bartow. These regiments marched all day and came to the Staunton & Parkersburg pike to the west of the Summit and cut the telegraph wire between the two federal camps. And effected a junction with part of the Bartow troops.

These regiments marched all day and came to the Staunton & Parkersburg pike to the west of the Summit and cut the telegraph wire between the two federal camps. And effected a junction with part of the Bartow troops.

General Reynolds found by night fall on the 12th, that he was in a precarious position. Both roads to the Summit camp were in possession of the enemy. The wagon train had been captured, and his own wagon train loaded for supplies for the Summit camp and which were badly needed, had no chance to get through.

So about three in the morning of Friday, the Thirteenth, he sent one army to open up the wagon road, and another army to open the bridle path.

As a matter of fact, it would appear that the confederates had about fifty five hundred men in the woods around Cheat Summit and that they were literally scattered all over a rugged country like a band of sheep that had lost their shepherd. It was the second night in bad weather and there was no way to form a cohesive force out of them. In the meantime those Indiana boys who had been loafing there all summer and probably knew every trout up there by its given name, were ready to harry the strangers out of there, and at break

It was the second night in bad weather and there was no way to form a cohesive force out of them. In the meantime those Indiana boys who had been loafing there all summer and probably knew every trout up there by its given name, were ready to harry the strangers out of there, and at break of day, on Friday, the Thirteenth, they commenced to hunt the confederates. About this time some confederates appeared on the pike about a mile east of the summit and surrounded a picket post and a lieutenant and a private of the federals were killed.

Learning that a whip chase was underway to the west and that the confederates were working out towards the Greenbrier River, with the Indiana boys driving them, the commander at the Summit sent some companies of soldiers east over the pike and had them line Cheat River above the bridge, and a battle was confederates were working out towards the Greenbrier River, with the Indiana boys driving them, the commander at the Summit sent some companies of soldiers east over the pike and had them line Cheat River above the bridge, and a battle was fought on that river about two miles above that bridge at a point near where the Cheat Mountain Clubhouse now stands.

The confederate reports are missing as to this encounter, but the federal reports are very positive. They are sure that all the regiments, both from Valley Mountain and from Camp Bartow had been rounded up and were being driven toward the Greenbrier, and that when they were stopped by three hundred men at some point on the river near the clubhouse, that the confederates numbered fifty-five hundred men. These men were driven back into the wilderness and it was not until about ten o'clock that night that they got back to Camp Bartow. Kimball says that the result of the panic in the confederate ranks was that the woods were literally covered with the baggage, coats, haversacks, and other articles abandoned by the enemy.

Not if this is true, it is not to be wondered that Lee looked in vain for his proud regiments to come stepping up the broad fields of Tygart's Valley, with flags flying, and drums beating, to take the federals in the rear, while he marched his victorious legions down the valley to storm the federal works and take West Virginia into the confederacy.

It is no wonder that Col. John A. Washington rode down by the mouth of Elkwater with a squad of men, to get around the bend so that he could see the confederate columns advancing up the river to support the attack. And that not seeing such an army that he should have ventured nearer and nearer the fortification so that he could make a thorough search, until so close that he was shot and killed.

Col. Rust was ordered out of Cheat mountain with his command to get to Bartow as soon as he could and send a dispatch to General Loring by the "near way", Loring was no doubt that day at Valley Mountain. "Get Mr. Arbogast to take the dispatch, if possible." Probably J. H. Arbogast, whose plantation was on the site of the town of Durbin. He is described as the postmaster.

In the meantime on Friday, the Thirteenth, Lee's army edged down the stream from Valley Head, to a point as low down as the mouth of Elkwater some miles above the Elkwater fort. They did not give battle, waiting no doubt for the flanking army that never came, but the federals had a rifled gun that shot a ten pound ball that they ran out about three quarters of a mile, and fired a few rounds at the confederates who withdrew a short distance. That confederate army lay about the mouth of Elkwater creek all day on the 13th, and on the 14th they were still there. Reynolds said that on the 14th that another confederate force was chased by the Summit camp. And that on the 15th there was another confederate army on top Anyway in the afternoon of the 14th the confederates went back to their camp on Valley Mountain and Middle Mountain. So Lee's orders to advance dated September 9, 1886, were in force until September 14, when Lee called them back and said goodby.

MINNEHAHA COMMUNITY MEETING

Minnehaha had her first community meeting in the M. E. church, Friday night, November 18. J. C. Harper was in charge. The subject was Community Spirit. The County Agent discussed the subject of working together and the value of community work. Papers were read on Community History. Churches, by H Lee White; schools, by Miss Mamie White; Community, by J. C. Harper.

An entertaining program was given by the school children entitled "The First Thanksgiving in America," which was appropriate and well prepared.

Mrs. E. J. Wilson is general chairman for the community. A good crowd was present and a great deal of interest was manifest. The Extension Division is going to publish for this community their history when prepared.

The subject for the next meeting will be a Community Christmas Tree Mrs. Wilson in charge. Minnehaha has caught the idea and as the Greeks expressed it in a proverb—"Arise and let us be going for this is not our resting place." Minnehaha is moving forward.

were camping out on a hunting trip A stray bullet from a high powered rifle struck her in the head as she sat in her tent. Mr. Barlow is a native of Pocahontas county. Many of our older readers will remember him.

George P. Edgar reports the killing of fourteen lambs by a panther on his Cranberry River plantation. The throat of each lamb was cut. There were no tracks or other sign as would have been the case if a bear had done the depredation. Some of the carcasses were covered up A panther was seen last summer just across the mountain from where the sheep were killed.

Layman and Reed Davis saw a fine big doe on the Jericho Flat, about a half mile from the county bridge last Saturday. The young men were rabbit hunting and came upon the deer This is the first time in thirty years since a deer was seen on this ridge.

DIED

Mrs. Minnie Ella Phillips was born at Greenbank, Pocahontas county, September 5, 1856. She died November 10, 1927, having reached the age of eighty-one years, two months, and five days. She was the daughter of the late John E. and Mary Benton Hicks, deceased. For several years she had made her home with her son W. J. Phillips of Huntersville.

During her early childhood she professed faith in Christ and united with the Methodist church of which she remained a faithful member until God called her to join the church triumphant and rest with the redeemed.

Funeral services were conducted in the Methodist church at Huntersville by her pastor, Rev. Mack Thomas on Friday afternoon, November 11. Her body was laid to rest in the Huntersville cemetery.

HUNTING AND FISHING

Dear Editor:

In regard to dogs running deer, this can be stopped if the true sports men of the community will cooperate with the game wardens. If a dog is seen after a deer, catch him if you can and take him to the warden. If you cannot catch him. I will lend you my 35 caliber Remington, and if you put one of these bullets behind his shoulder he will forever hold his peace.

In last week's paper the Slaty Fork correspondent says the hunters have killed off all the deer and turkeys in that locality. I say it is not the man who hunts in the open season who destroys the game. It is the sneak thief who slips out after the season is closed and kills anything he sees. This is the time for the game wardens to be busy when there are no sportsmen in the woods.

Last fall when the deer season opened, I did not get to go until the eigth day was here. My son and myself went to my old hunting ground, and there we ran into a bunch of fellows who asked us what we were hunting for. I says deer. They says what kind? And I says the one with the chair on his head. They says we shoot and look afterwards. We left them right then and there

There is another reason too why it was not built upon. It was reserved for the millionaire's row, and in those days when hopes ran high, it was consdered to be but a matter of time when there would be a millionaire set in town and so we determined to park them on the beautiful heights on the eastern border of the town. But the millionaire did not materialize. The time came when the heighth of the average man's ambition was to have a car and a gallon of gasoline and the world was his'n. So it looks now as if the natural growth of the town would reach out and take in the Hamilton field and that it would be occupied by the workers of the world, instead of the workers of their fellow men.

On the terrace next above the Ham ilton field is the site of the farm once called the Powell place, now generally referred to as Cemetery Hill. It was the part of the plantation on which my father was born, and he rests within a few steps of his birth place.

The names of these fields are from the men who cleared them. I do not know who Powell was but the Ham ilton field was named for William Hamilton who married into the community.

still the dictator of Texas he moved to central Texas and was sheriff of Blanco county during its most terrible days, when the Comanche Indians went on the war path and carried death and destruction all through that part of Texas.

Sam Houston was born in 1793 in Rockbridge county. Hamilton was born in 1811 and died in Blanco county, Texas, in 1894. Houston died in 1862. But Austin, the capital city, is next to Blanco county and Houston was governor of the state of Texas in 1859, and up to his death, and they must have been together a great deal. Houston was governor when the state seceded and he refused to sign the order, and the secession of the state broke him so that he died. He called an imaginary roll of all those politicians of the vicinity who had favored secession. None answered. Then he called the names of the sons of these men and none answered. Then he called the name of his son Sam Houston, Jr., who had enlisted as a southern soldier with his father's consent. Young Houston answered present. The old war horse said in the most impressive way:

They stayed about a year, and the colored man died. My grandfather sat by his grave all night and the next day started back home. My stepgrandmother married as a widow Big Foot Wallace and he was a great hero. Once when captured by the Mexicans the order was death to one half of the prisoners and liberty to the other half to spread the news of the penalty It was to be determined by drawing beans from a bag, a black bean, death, white bean, liberty. Big Foot Wallace drew a white bean. One of his comrades who was in a sweat of apprehension begged for it and Wallace gave it to him. Then Wallace drew another white bean. In after years he said that he had noticed the difference in the shape of the beans.

William Hamilton was certainly a good citizen and a worthy man. He married Medora Sabina Price, May 14, 1834, on the edge of his clearing, she being my great aunt. They lived in Bath county for a number of years and had seven daughters and three sons. Mrs. Hamilton died in Blanco county in 1882. I am trying to find out about this family. With those ten children there must be a wonderful lot of Texans that date back to the sheriff of Blanco.

It was on Powell Hill that my great grandmother, Margaret Beard Price, lived. I am part Beard for there is where I get my disposition. She was the widow of Thomas Price, who died in 1823, aged about eighty years. Margaret Beard was from Renicks Valley. This late marriage with Margaret Beard puts me one generation closer to the Revolution than most men of my age, and gives me a grsat grand father as a soldier in that war

The record for the nearest to the Revolution is held by Judge Lively, of the Supreme court His grand father was a soldier of the Revolutian. His ancestor was Godrill Lively who was born in 1762 He entered the army from Albermarle county in 1780, and served three campaigns, the last of which was for twenty two months.

He was married in 1794, and Judge Lively's father was born in 1815, and Judge Lively was born in 1864. The Judge's father fell dead of heart dis ease while reading the dispatch that announced the surrender of Lee at Appomattox.

Margaret Beard Price was left with four children, the oldest being my grandfather James A. Price. He married on the Marlins Bottom plantation and brought his mother and two full sisters to live here. A young er brother, Thompson Price died in Botetourt county.

She made a will that was witnessed by her brother Josiah Beard and by Woods Poage. She was concerned about the schooling of the Kelley children and mentioned the matter in the will.

William Scott Kelley turned over a new leaf in the fifties, and graduated in medicine in Cincinnati in 1828, and located in Buchannon county, Missouri. He was a friend of Gen. Sterling Price, and was appointed surgeon general of Price's army and died during the war. Dr. Kelley stood high in the estimation of the people at the date of his death. He left one child a daughter who married Geo. L. Rector of Arkansas and who was the mother of seven children so Dr. Kelley has many descendants in that state.

Margaret was concerned about Samuel Henry Kelley and provided for his schooling. But in 1848, he too got the gold fever and left for California, and after a considerable period he settled at Los Angeles and was keeping a store there in the year 1861. One night in the year 1861, a band of Mexican bandits attacked the store and the place was defended by the owner, but the store was broken into. Kelley was killed, and the store robbed, and the building burned. We do not know whether he left any descendants or not. But that fight was the forerunner of Hollywood and the western fight pictures.

that fight was the forerunner of Hollywood and the western fight pictures.

We hear that Margaret was not popular and that she had a temper and that she could not live with people. But a study of her life leads me to a different conclusion. I think that she was a noble woman. She was married as a girl of about twenty years to a man over sixty years of age, and a man who had had a wonderful war record as an Indian fighter and soldier. He seems to have been constantly on the fighting border for something like thirty years, and you can trace him through the Indian days of the sixties, and at Point Pleasant, in the Virginia militia, and in the Continental army, and at Kings Mountain. He had raised one large family and had a son who was in the 1812 war.

After a few years of life married to a man old enough to be her grandfather she was left with four small children and no means to speak of Kings Mountain. He had raised one large family and had a son who was in the 1812 war.

After a few years of life married to a man old enough to be her grandfather she was left with four small children and no means to speak of. There did seem to be some slaves who were kind and loyal and helpful to her. Her oldest son having married into a land rich family here at Marlinton gave her an opportunity to escape from Botetourt county back to the valley in which she was born, and here she saw her daughters happily married. But soon Virginia came home a poor widow with four small children and from that time on Margaret lived for her grandchildren. There were ten of the Hamilton grandchildren, but they were no burden to her, for William Hamilton, the land clearer, was able to look after them The Kelley children were smart and so she moved to the best school in the valley, the school that Greenbrier county patronized so

There were ten of the Hamilton grandchildren, but they were no burden to her, for William Hamilton, the land clearer, was able to look after them The Kelley children were smart and so she moved to the best school in the valley, the school that Greenbrier county patronized so well. Then in a year after that time, Virginia Kelley overworked herself at the washtub one day, took brain fever and died, leaving Margaret with her bright grand children.

Seven years seems to have been the period that Margaret lived in the Levels. Then she came back and lived three years more on Powell Hill, on the Huntersville road. But in that time she had her plantation in order. She had a black man by the name of Jerry. William Scott Kelley pulled out for the setting sun about the time she moved back. He

He was undoubtedly gone for she wills him the money she had loaned him, but does not provide him with a feather bed, underbed, and bed cloth ing and bed linen. It is apparent that he had lit out for a place where there were no feather beds needed or desired. He was one of the Argo nauts for the golden fleece.

She is careful to require schooling, and in a few years the wild brother in the west is sending back great scads of money and the two girls were being schooled at the best of schools. Medora Kelley graduated at Hollins Institute is 1858, and was probably the first woman college graduate of Pocahontas co inty.

In the will is set forth almost in full, Catherine's name, where she is described as Margaret Catherine Mary Ann M. Kelley.

At the time of her death, Margaret had horses, cattle, money, and a best saddle, and another saddle and a clock.

The most illuminating article in the loom. The clock, and the loom and all its equipment is left to her daughter Mrs. Hamilton, as well as a feather bed.

Margaret lived twenty-five years a widow and death and trials and tribulations were her portion. But she had a loom, and according to the way it is referred to in the will, it was in running order at the time of her departure. It was in the loom that women of that day and time wove and fastened securely all their troubles and worries. Here is what Senor Ovid had to say about weaving:

The piece prepare
And order every slender thread with care;
The web enwraps the beam, the reed divides,

WAR TIME LETTERS

Mr. Price, Editor Pocahontas Times
Marlinton, W. Va.

Dear Mr. Price

I am enclosing copies of two letters written by my brothers, Henry A. Yeager and Will A. Yeager during the Civil War, to my mother, Mrs. John Yeager and my sister, Mrs. Eliza A. Arbogast. Would be glad if you would copy them in The Times.

Thanking you, I am

Yours very truly,
Evelyn Yeager Beard

Camp 31st Va. Reg't.
May 5th, 1864

Dear Mother:

I received your letter dated April 25th and also the money $100.00. I was sorry I did not get the letter before I wrote to Fannie. I had just the day before I received your letter, but will write again.

I was sorry to hear of Mrs. Hartman's death. She was a clever woman and no doubt would have been alive yet if she had not exposed herself at the sugar camp. I think people ought to take care of theirselves such sickly times as this. Don't expose yourselves too much to make anything ahead, but only try to get along somehow until this old war comes to an end.

You said you have made a good deal of sugar. Now don't be in too big a hurry to sell it for it will bring almost any price. It is selling from 10 to 15 dollars a pound here now and if you have any more than you want you can exchange it for any other articles in the way of provisions.

Mother you need not send us any more clothing for we have sent away what we had except what we can carry and you know we don't want much to carry this time of year, so we have plenty in that line. I received the things you sent by George Beverage and he brought everything you sent safe to us.

We have had no fight yet but have just rec'd an order to be ready to march at a moment's warning. The enemy is reported to be moving to our right. During last night their tents disappeared from our front in Culpeper and we thought that a general engagement will take place in a day or two. I hope we will be able to give them a good thrashing, for on this fight depends greatly our future safety. I think if we are successful it may be one of the most important battles of the war. If we should be spared to see the fight through I will write you immediately and give you the particulars. This leaves us all well. The weather is beautiful. I will soon have to close as my sheet is about filled. We get these envelopes with a half sheet of this paper in each at 60c per dozen prepared expressly for soldiers.

Write soon and don't expose yourselves more than you can help these sickly times.

Your as ever,
Will A. Yeager

P. S. If you write again you may send me some more of my old money. I can turn it into something that will be more useful, or exchage it for new issues. I have got small notes for all you sent which will be good.

Camp Smith's Brigade

Dear Sister:

As Warn Beuerage is going home on furlough I will write you a few lines though I have no camp news worth relating. Everything is quiet on both sides. The Yankee army has fallen back beyond the Rapahannock River. We are still camped near Rapidan River in Orange County

The weather is beautiful here just now and we are enjoying ourselves as well as we could expect under such circumstances. The enjoyments of camp are limited still we feel the seriousness of our course which is enough to cause us to be cheerful

Frost 4 Roanoke 0

The Frost Old Timers and Roanoke played an interesting game of soccer football at Covington, Virginia Saturday, December 8th. The Roanoke team was made up in part of English and Scotchmen who are all lovers of soccer football. Mr. Goggins of Lynchburg, Virginia, refereed the game is, as we understand, State Superintendent of Soccer Football Association. Covington has one of the best grounds the writer has ever been on. Roanoke got choice of goals and very naturally took advantage of the wind. After the toss-off, it was soon apparent that the Old Timers had the edge, an other game bagged, but of course, not without effort against these well trained and scientific players who were always alert to the advantage points.

If present plans materialize Frost will play Roanoke at Roanoke, December 22nd.

COUNTY CORN SHOW

January 12, 1929, at 1 o'clock p. m.

The corn crop in our county this year was perhaps the best ever grown, and we think it would be most interesting to have it shown, and it would be a medium of supply for seed corn.

We have therefore decided to hold a corn show at our banking rooms on the date named and offer the following prizes:

Class 1	Reid's Yellow Dent, 10 ears
	First prize	$2.00
	Second prize	$1.00
Class 2	Any Other Dent, 10 ears
	First prize	$2.00
	Second prize	$1.00
Class 3	Any Variety, single ear
	First prize	$1.00
	Second prize	$ .50

Exhibits will be judged by the State Corn Expert, and the exhibits ranking highest will be sent to the State Corn Show for entry.

Entries received Jan. 9-10-11

Every one is invited to make entries and to come to see the show.

The Brushy Flat and Pleasant Hill schools have raised about $67 which they are using to improve their schools. Pleasant hill has purchased ten new books for the library, curtains, lamps and other things which has improved the school house very much. They have also cleared away the brush from the play ground; which was growing into young trees. The Brushy Flats and Pleasant Hillers have joined their clubs and have a membership of about twenty. They are planning on a community Christmas tree on the night of December 24, at the Union Central church.

The Minnehaha 4-H Club met at the school house December 1, 1928. Our president Eleanor Herold, being absent the meeting was called to order by vice-president Ted Reed. The minutes were read and approved. The roll call was answered for which we were thankful. The school gave two plays and sang two songs. SHOW

The corn, grain and potato show will be held in Marlinton, Saturday, January 12th. The corn show in the First National Bank. Three classes will be shown—Reid's yellow dent, any other dent, single ear, any variety. The dent corn will be 10 ear exhibits. The winners from the show in the county will be sent to Morgantown.

The oats, wheat and buckwheat will be shown at C. J. Richardson's, each exhibit being a gallon.

The potatoes will be shown at the Farm Bureau Supply Company. The potato exhibit will include Carmen No. 3. Russet Rurals, Green Mountain, Cobbler.

This show would interest both the producer and the consumer. The owners will find a good many admirers and the buyers will be able to find out who has good seed for planting. It is a mutual gain.

The judging will take place at 10:30 A.M. Saturday will be a big day in Marlinton. The Fair Directors have a meeting, the teachers of the county have an institute and the farmers have a corn, grain and potato show.

Mrs. Susan Bird

Mrs. Susan Hudson Bird, wife of Squire Uriah Bird, died at her home in Marlinton at midnight, Tuesday January 8, 1929. For several years she has been an invalid. The immediate cause of her death was influenza. Her age was eighty years and twenty days. The funeral service will be from the Methodist church on Thursday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock.

Mrs. Bird was one of the thirteen children of Elijah and Margaret Dever Hudson, of the Greenbank District; Squire J. L. Hudson, of Durbin, is the last remaining member of this family. Fifty-eight years ago she became the wife of Squire Uriah Bird, and she did him good and not evil all the days of her life. To them were born eight children, six of whom survive their mother—J. Howard Bird, of Savage, Maryland; Mrs. Lloyd Moore, of Lynchburg, Virginia; Mrs. George Spangler, of Macon, Georgia; Mrs. W. H. R. Terry, of Clifton Forge, Virginia; Mrs. Frank K. King of Marlinton; and Mrs. Ona Vogel, of New Philadelphia, Ohio The deceased children are Mrs. W. W. Tyree, of Elkins, and Mrs. Henry R. Gay, of Buckhannon.

Dr. G. F. Hull left for the Legislature this week. This is the doctor's second term in the lower house and he is an influential man in the assembly. Dr. Hull is very much missed in his practise in Green Bank district and he is badly needed at home, but it is all important at this time for the county to be represented in the legislature. We have reached the final steps of the good roads scheme and it is important that the missing links in Pocahontas county be brought to the attention of law making body. Dr. Hull was born in in Highland county, December 1, 1879, and was educated in Kenmore high school, Randolph Macon College, and the University of Virginia. He was a member of the University football team for the years 1902, 1903, and 1904. He has practiced medicine at Durbin since the year 1907, and has taken an active and prominent part in the affairs of the State and county. He was chairman of the Draft Board during the war. He is a powerful man physically and attracts attention in any assembly he is in. He comes from a long line of Virginia ancestry, the Hulls of Highland county dating from before the Revolution.

FOR SHERIFF

Fred W. Ruckman, of the Leve's District announces this week as a candidate for the office of sheriff of Pocahontas county, subject to the will of the Democratic party. For deputies he offers J. C. Wooddell, of Greenbank, and George H. Waugh of Edray; for jailor, Lock Herold, of Huntersville; for office deputy, M. C. Kincaid.

A better and stronger ticket would be hard to find. It comes out in response to a general call. It now looks like it will go over with general unanimity, and this editor hopes it will.

Mr. Ruckman is a prominent citizen of Little Levels District. He is a farmer. Also a banker. As a young man he fitted himself for a business career, but was called from the city back to the farm on the death of his father, the late Mathews Ruckman. He applies business principles to farming, and he is now one of our most progressive and successful farmers.

career, but was called from the city back to the farm on the death of his father, the late Mathews Ruckman. He applies business principles to farming, and he is now one of our most progressive and successful farmers.

J. C. Wooddell is just completing a term as deputy sheriff for Greenbank District. He has made good in every respect. He is one of the most popular and efficient officers the county has ever had.

George H. Waugh is a son of the late Levi Waugh. He is the proper kind of man to fill an office, but he has always been too busy scaling logs to think about serving his county in this way.

Lock Herold, of Minnehaha Springs will make a good jailor. He is kind and considerate, but with plenty of firmness to hold things down.

M. C. Kincaid is a popular business man of Marlinton, who is widely known over the county. He has the ability and the training to keep the office right.

AN OLD PLOW

The other day Neal Pritchard of Knapps Creek, brought to this office for identification a curious looking iron implement This editor put it down as the bottom of an old wooden mould-board plow. It is an interesting relic. It is on display at this office.

Mr. Pritchard found the plow in the woods on the hillside above the Knapps Creek Methodist Church. Along about the time that such plows were in common use, the farm where it was found was occupied by one William Moore, who was the great grandfather of J H. Buzzard.

J. J. Ramsey died at his home on Cummings Creek on Thurday, February 23, 1928. His age was 59 years. About two weeks before his death Mr. Ramsey was working in the woods and was struck on the head by a falling sapling or small tree. While he suffered constant pain, he continued to work for three days. Then his condition became such that he could no longer work, and he grew rapidly worse until death relieved his suffering. On Friday afternoon his body was laid to rest in the Beaver Creek Cemetery, Mr. Ramsey was a respected and industrious citizen. He was a native of Greenbrier county, but he has been a resident of Pocahontas for the past twenty-five years or more. He is survived by his wife who was a daughter of the late Charles McComb, and their two daughters. A grown daughter died about a year ago.

On Monday W. H. Darnell received a telegram announcing the serious illness of George Bussard at San Angelo, Texas. He has some sort of brain trouble, probably a hemorrhage and his recovery is doubtful. Mr. Bussard was raised in Pocahontas county, and worked a great deal in Marlinton as a carpenter.

To the Voters of Pocahontas County:

A few weeks ago I announced my candidacy for Sheriff of Pocahontas County, subject to the action of the Democratic party in the primary election. Since my announcement was published I have come to the conclusion that I should not enter the race for the office mentioned, though I have the assurance of the support of my friends. I now understand from Mr. F. W. Ruckman of Millpoint, that he is going to offer for the office, and believing that he is well fitted for it and will be acceptable to the people of the county as a whole, I gladly withdraw from the race in his favor, and in doing so I want to thank my many friends for their offers of support. I feel that the people of Pocahontas County have been exceedingly kind to me for the last eight years; they have honored me and I greatly appreciate this honor.

Respectfully yours,

J. ELMER MOORE.

GEORGE BROWN COCHRAN

After a short illness, George Brown Cochran was called from this life to the life beyond on December 8, 1927. Mr. Cochran was born in Pocahontas County on September 26 1842, thus being 85 years, two months and 15 days of age at the time of his death. He married Miss Martha E Hollandsworth, January 25, 1882. She died February 8, 1883. One child was born to this union—Mrs. James F. Rock, of Renick, with whom Mr. Cochran made his home. He leaves to mourn their loss his daughter, Mrs Rock, eight grandchildren, three great grandchildren, a host of relatives, and his many friends.

Mr. Cochran made a profession of faith and united with the Methodist Protestant church in which he served very faithfully, being an official member until his death.

Mr. Cochran served in the Civil War as a Confederate soldier, taking part in several battles. He was not only a soldier of the war; he was a soldier of the cross. His body was laid to rest in the Droop Cemetery, December 10, 1927. XXX.

In the graveyard sweetly sleeping,
Where the flowers gently wave
Lies the one we love so dearly
In his lonely silent grave.

He shall never be forgotten,
Nor shall his memory fade;
Sweetest thoughts will always linger
Around the grave where he is laid.

No one knows how much we miss him
No one knows the tears we shed;
But in Heaven we hope to meet him.
Where no farewell tears are shed.

My plans for writing and illustrating my booklet are I think the club is a lot of help to me in my work at home and at school. I want the back of my booklet to be different from all my other booklets or any I have ever seen. I am going to have my booklet completed by the time school is out, my mind will not be bothered. I am going to make it the best booklet that I have made. I think my club and school can help each other by having hot lunches. We are having a Valentine party and celebrating Washington's and Lincoln's birthdays. We have club meetings and are giving each pupil some part in the work to get them interested, and they will want be a 4-H Club boys and girls. Our club has discuss the matter of a community library and decided that club members want to get the people interested in estab lishing a community library. We could have socials and some may have good books that they would add to the library. Our school has a good library and we give the people of the community the privilege to have a book out for a certain length of time. This is one way that our school and club can serve the community.

nature. This policy is good for the railroads but hard on the coal fields and the factories.

Most of the geology belongs to the period referred to generally at B. C. At that time there was no one living here that we can definitely determine. So to bring the conversation down to the times known as A. D., I want to make some mention of a citizen who so far as I can figure out has the right to be known as the father and founder of Huntersville, and that is John Bradshaw.

The name of Bradshaw has faded out of Pocahontas county, but a large number of citizens of the name of McLaughlin, Cackley, Gwin, Hogsett and Tallman are direct descendants of the old pioneer. It is safe to say that enough descendants of this Soldier of the Revolution could be named who would far outnumber the members of the societies known as John Bradshaw had four sons who removed to foreign countries, two to Missouri, one to Virginia, and one to Lewis county. He had four daughters who married here and left a host of descendants. Early in that war the Indian armies appeared on our western frontier, and the backwoodsmen were organized into a branch of colonial service known as rangers, but officially designated as Indian spies. It was their duty to watch the country along the Seneca trail from Monroe county to Preston county. Along this line a large number of stockade forts were built in the bloody seven ties. The best men were detailed for this service. They took the usual oath of the soldier and in addition to that oath they swore not to build a fire at night no matter how cold or rainy it might be. Bradshaw said that he usually made a three or four days tour in the country lying between New River and Big and Little Stoney creeks, Indian Draft and Wolf Creek. That the spies traveled two in a company, and that it was his custom to scout through the woods and meet a similar detail from Burnside Fort. Bradshaw traveled out of Cook fort. The eastern bor der was watched in this way between the line of forts extending from the Tennessee country to northern Pennsylvania. Bradshaw went in company with James Ellis at times and on other occasions his partner was Col. Samuel Estell, of Kentucky. Each tour of duty made a circle of about thirty miles. His service was for six months each in the summers of 1776, 1777, 1778, and in 1779. In those months he engaged in no civil pur suit. The service lasted until Novem ber of each year, when it was consid ered that the country was safe from Indian raids on account of cold weath er. At the end of 1779, Bradshaw went to the east side of the Alleghenies and married Nancy McKamie, and settled on the Bull Pasture river about ten miles below McDowell in the part of the country covered by Fort George, one of the forts of the line of forts built by Dinwiddie in the French and Indian war. Brad shaw seems to have had about a year at home. From November 1, 1779, to January 1, 1781. That was about the time that Col. Bradshaw joined the company of Captain Thomas Hicklin, in Col. Sampson Mathews regiment, and served an enlistment of three months from the highlands to the sea. He was in a battle at Portsmouth, with John Slaven, and a lot of other mountain men, and being discharged he came home for the summer. But along in August he was called to the colors again and again marched down from the mountains to the sea, and by the time that he got to Yorktown the colonial troops had penned up Lord Cornwallis and a big British army on a narrow penninsular, and there is where John Bradshaw waded in human blood shoe mouth deep. Cornwallis surrended to the American army there, and John Bradshaw stood in line with the other ragged colonial soldiers one morning in October. The Americans formed a double line and the Cornwallis army marched out of Yorktown between the lines and reached a place where they were required to lay down their arms. Some of the British soldiers threw their muskets down with force enough to injure the gun. Then the British marched back between the lines into Yorktown.

The next day the British prisoners were marched off to Winchester under guard and Bradshaw was one of the guards, and when these prisoners were duly delivered at Winchester in the Valley, Bradshaw was discharged and came back to his home.

Soon after the Revolution, John Bradshaw moved west of the Alleghenies and founded Huntersville. He got for his mountain home the plantations now owned by Sherman P. Curry, the Amos Barlow heirs, and J. H. Buzzard, several square miles of territory, and this included all of the site of the town of Huntersville. About this time, John Bradshaw had a stroke of luck which made him one of the richest men of the mountains. A ticket that he held in a State lottery drew him a prize of ten thousand dollars and that was an immense fortune in those days.

He was a prominent figure in Bath county and in this county after its formation. My father remembers seeing him. My father was seven years old when John Bradshaw died seventy-nine years old. In his old age, he was a large portly man, with elegant manners, and fine dress, and walked with a crutch richly inlaid with silver.

When Pocahontas county was organized in the spring of 1822, the commissioners met at John Bradshaw's house, and they took from him a deed for about an acre of ground on the bluff across the lane from his house, for the county buildings. This site was accepted and a brick courthouse built on it that lasted until the county seat was moved six miles west on the Hunters ville road to the new city of Marlinton.

John Bradshaw had another immense tract of land in the Dilley's Mill community.

One of the first orders of the new county court was to grant license to keep a house of private entertainment at his residence for the year ending in May, 1823. For this he paid a license of $4.50. But the next year he was

But the next year he was licensed to keep an ordinary at the same place for a license fee of $18.00. In the meantime, Bradshaw sat as one of the county court, being a justice of the county. The main difference between a house of entertainment and an ordinary was that that the ordinary could sell spirits and wine by the small measure. John Bradshaw sleeps in the old Huntersville cemetery. His grave is not marked by a lettered monument but it can be located and it should receive one of the monuments provided for by Congress for Revolutionary soldiers. My father says that his grave is marked by a wild cherry tree growing directly over his last resting place.

The old cemetery is on the brow of the bluff just west of the state highway where it climbs the elevation to turn around the postoffice going east.

The old cemetery is on the brow of the bluff just west of the state highway where it climbs the elevation to turn around the postoffice going east. John Bradshaw departed this life January 6, 1837. A tall unlettered native slab of rock is at the head of the grave, and a smaller one at the foot, both standing. Between the two stones, exactly over the center of the grave there is a large wild cherry tree, perhaps thirty inches in diameter. This tree is showing signs of great age, and is ready to fall. There is some talk of cutting it down on account of its condition.

You know there is a great deal of talk about the extreme age of forest trees that is mostly all guesswork. Here is a tree that we know to be less than a hundred years old that shows signs of old age and which has reached its full size.

Gas Well Drilling

A number of gas wells are being drilled or are in the planning stages in Pocahontas and surrounding counties.

In the Marlinton Ranger District a well is planned on private land near Hunt. The land is the Rimrock property located on Allegheny Mountain south of Rt. 39. Access to the well site will be over Forest Service land from USFS Rt. 18, a short distance from Rt. 39. The well will be drilled by the Amoco Production Company of Houston, Texas. They are planning to drill to the Tuscarora formation at a depth of about 3,000 feet. Work on the access road is scheduled to begin within the next week and drilling to start the first or second week of January. This well will be called the Savoy #2 well.

Drilling on the Savoy #1 well has been going on for about two weeks. This well is located in Greenbrier County near Neola off of the Sherwood Lake Road. This well was over 400 feet deep last week.

The Union Drilling Company, of Buckhannon, is planning to drill a well on Gauley Mountain in the near future. This well will be located in Randolph County on Slab Camp Ridge in the Big Run watershed, a tributary to the North Fork of Gauley River. The well will be on land owned by the Georgia-Pacific Corporation. Access to the well site will be by way of the Sharp's Knob Road from Rt. 219. Due to weight restrictions on the bridge across Old Field Fork of Elk, a ford will be used. Construction on the ford and at the well site is to start next week. The well is to be drilled 8,000 feet to the Benson sand.

The Forest Service has received a proposal from the Union Drilling Company for a well on government land at the northern tip of Gauley Mountain in the Rose Run watershed. The exact location has not been specified yet. The mineral rights are owned by the Mower Lumber Company.

Several weeks ago we reported on plans of Merrill Natural Resources, Inc., of Richmond, Virginia, to drill a gas well on Gauley Mountain near Rocky Point in Randolph County, on Forest Service land. The mineral owner is the Upper Elk Company in this case. Due to access problems, plans for this well have been deferred at this time.

Drilling activity is also beginning on the Greenbrier Ranger District. A well has been drilled on Mower Lumber Company land south of Rt. 250 by the Union Drilling Company and was completed in early December.

The Forest Service has received an operating plan for a well to be located in the Red Run watershed near Rt. 250. The mineral rights are owned by Mower Lumber Company and leased to Columbus Gas and Union Drilling. This well is planned for a depth of 3000 to 4000 feet. Forest Service approval for the proposed

I then came on my way home and stopped at the mouth of the nameless little run on J. H. No drafts for the teachers of Huntersville and Little Levels Districts will be issued for the sixth month of school, due to a shortage of funds. The amount of taxes raised for teachers' fund purposes by the Boards of Education has been exhausted and no State Aid has as yet been received. It's time for another generation to take over. The Pocahontas Times will have new editors. William Price McNeel is the new editor and Jane Sharp Jessee is managing editor. Both are grandchildren of the late Calvin W. Price, longtime Times editor.

McNeel is the son of Florence Price McNeel, of Charleston, and the late Isaac McNeel, who was the son of Dr. and Mrs. Winters McNeel, of Hillsboro. A graduate of Marietta College, Ohio, with a Master's Degree from the University of Oregon, he taught mathematics at Marlinton High School and Pocahontas County High School for eleven years. Redistricting Suit

A suit was filed last week in Federal Court in Elkins on behalf of three Second Congressional District citizens, asking the Court to realign the voting districts until the Legislature passes a redistricting bill. The suit asks that a panel of three judges hear the case.

The three plaintiffs are Ginger Brookover, Monongalia County, Joanna Bowles-Vickers, Fayette County, and Jane Robertson, Pocahontas County. The suit contains a proposed plan of changing the counties so that the populations and size of the congressional districts would be more nearly equal. The Second District, according to their suit, would be reduced from 22 to these 17 counties: Barbour, Berkeley, Grant, Hampshire, Hardy, Harrison, Jefferson, Marion, Mineral, Monongalia, Morgan, Pendleton, Pocahontas Preston, Randolph,

Bobcat Pelt Exporting Halted

Due to an injunction issued by the United States Court of Appeals for the District of Columbia Circuit, all states have been barred from exporting bobcat pelts outside the United States, according to Bob Miles, wildlife resources division chief.

Miles said, "This means that bobcat pelts taken this season (1981 82) cannot be sealed for export at this time. All bobcats legally taken by hunting or trapping in West Virginia must still be presented to a game checking station or representative of the Department of Natural Resources for tagging."

Hunters and trappers may continue legally harvesting bobcats in West Virginia according to the 1981-82 hunting and trapping regulations. This mandate applies only to sealing for export.

300 TONS ICE WASTED IN THE TOWN YEARLY

300 Tons Ice Yearly Waster By Local People—Poorly Refrigeration Is Main Cause.

Marlinton poured 300 tons of melted ice down the drain pipes of its refrigerators during the last year without housewives getting any good from it.

This amazing figure, arrived at by the Leonard Institute of Food Preservation, is the annual ice waste in Marlinton, due to faulty refrigeration. It is based on a survey of ice meltage in Rochester, N. Y., showing a per capita waste of 500 pounds of ice. The American public is literally pouring water into a sieve, the water being in the form of ice and the sieve being the leaky uninsulated refrigerator that does not keep out hot air.

The average family should use about 8,000 pounds of ice a year if the refrigerator is well insulated and the doors fit tightly, according to food specialists. This provdes for keeping the ice chamber well filled in winter as well as summer. Although the ave-nt, the survey at Rochester, a typical american city, showed that an alarming portion of the ice purchased is wasted each year in the average home For the nation this involves a loss of millions of dollars in ice alone, besides the even greater loss in spoiled food caused by the poor refrigeration.

Purchasers of refrigerators too often consider price alone, say food preservation experts. Like an automobile, the refrigerator should be purchased on performance as well as appearance. The use of modern all-steel refrigerators with approved insulation would go far toward doing away with this heavy loss, they state.

In selecting a refrigator, one with neither the minimum or maximum ice meltage should be chosen, according to the Leonard Institute. The refrigerator that consumes the most ice is, naturally, too costly to keep filled and will not maintain the desired temperature of 50 degrees or less, while the one that consumes the least ice probably has faulty circulation and will not do its job of keeping the food in perfect state of preservation. A reasonable rate of ice meltage is essential to keeping food good. The ice should never be covered with a blanket or paper to retard its melting.

LOCAL GRIDDERS DEFEAT RENICK

Visitors Outplayed Throughout The Entire Game; Locals Present Strong Team

The local High School gridders overwhelmed Renick by a 39-0 score in an unimpressive game of football at the Fairgrounds field, last Saturday.

Marlinton displayed an aggressive offense, gaining almost at will, thru any position of the opposing team, and a "rock-wall' defense which held the visitors powerless. Time and again the Marlinton line broke through and smothered plays before they gathered momentum, or hurrying passes and punts, which detracted greatly from the showing made by the visiting eleven.

On the opening kickoff, Slaven, Marlinton end received the ball and made a very pretty run back before being downed. A series of plays

On the opening kickoff, Slaven, Marlinton end received the ball and made a very pretty run back before being downed. A series of plays resulted in the first touchdown. From then o nit was more of a procession than a football game—featuring long runs by Gay, Wilson, and Captain "Bo" Coyner and some terrific line smashing by "Bones" Hamrick, the versatile fullback of the local eleven. Sam Neel Neel and "Pete" Spitzer, the diminitive halfback also showed up well.

Captain Burr and Holesapple were the luminaries for Renick.

Coach Lord used the entire squad in the game, and the second team played the entire fourth quarter.

Notary public applications by Nikada J. Felton and Perry Baker were approved.

DeEtta Hunter appeared before the Commission to discuss the auditor's report for the Upper Greenbrier Valley Housing Project.

She also presented a request from Skyline Satellite Communications for a franchise to provide cable television service from Snowshoe down the Linwood Road and from there to the Slatyfork area and to the Mace area. The company presently has a franchise from Snowshoe to serve the resort. The company is owned by Neal Allison, Steve Hunter, David Brown, and Manyon Vatican. The Commission deferred action on this request to seek advice.

Harry Loftin, Administrator at Pocahontas Memorial Hospital, appeared briefly before the Commission. He has been administrator for a year now and reported he feels progress is being made on the problems facing the hospital.

Circuit Court

The case of Earl and Hazel Boylan vs. New England Log Homes, Inc., was heard by a jury on Monday and Tuesday. The case involves a log home purchased by the Boylans from New England which had a number of logs infested by insects. The Boylans were asking for damages. The jury decided in favor of the Boylans and awarded them $40,000.

The case of State vs. Terry Schoolcraft, scheduled for Thursday, has been continued to the next term of court due to the inability of the defense to locate one of their witnesses.

Dennie L. Wingler

Dennie Lee Wingler, 43, was accidently shot to death on November 23, 1981, on his way deer hunting.

Born on August 18, 1938, at Auto, he was son of Ben and Wilsie Loudermilk Wingler, of Auto.

Besides his parents he is survived by his wife, Hazel; four daughters, Donna, Rebecca, Cynthia, and Paula, all at home; a son, Danny, at home; five brothers, Cecil, of Renick, Roy, of Keyser, Lester, of Caldwell, Tommy, of Elkins, and Jemmie, of Plummer, Idaho; and seven sisters, Anna Hutchinson, of Baltimore, Md., Virginia Wingler, of Port Republic, Va., Nina Chamberlin, of Benson, Ariz., Nora Dean, of Hillsboro, Bonnie Sponagule, of Gordonsville, Va., Carol Workman, of Auto, and Betty Wingler, of Homer.

Services were held on Saturday in the Renick Church of God with Sister Sharon Holliday and the Rev. Lewis Moyer officiating. Burial was in the Morningside Cemetery at Renick.

power company offices. It contains a listing of speakers, programs and films offered to civic groups, schools and clubs by the Company.

Monongahela's Speakers' Bureau is made up of Company executives, managers, engineers, accountants, lawyers, customer services people and others. Speakers are prepared to talk to civic and educational groups on such subjects as the environment, electrical safety, energy conservation, problems facing the electric utility industry and special energy concerns in Monongahela's service area.

The Program Guide also lists films that are available to organizations and schools. The films fall into two basic categories energy films, which deal with energy production and conservation and electrical safety; and the Screen News Digest films, which focus on current events and recent history.

To get a complete listing of available Company programs, contact the local Monongahela office or write to: Monongahela Power Company, Public Information Division, 13 Fairmont Avenue, 26555 or call (304) 367-3470. Ask for the Program Guide.

State Police Overtake Thief Near Renick; Man Gets Away.

Corporal Jack Tidd and H. R. Shields, of the local detachment of the State Police, did a swift piece of work Saturday night when they over took the thief who stole C. J. Richardson's Buick sedan from in front of the Marlin-Sewell hotel in less than one hour after the theft had been reported.

Driving up to a parking place beside the hotel about ten o'clock, Craig Richardson, son of C. J., at home from Randolph-Macon for the holidays, stopped and as is customary in these parts, where automobile thieves are few and far between, failed to lock the vehicle. When he Thinking someone was playing a practical joke, and had borrowed it temporarily, he waited patiently for its return. Others, too, scoffed at the idea of it being stolen. Finally the State Police were notified, and they at once set out in their little Chevvie to find the big sedan.

As luck would have it, they started in the right direction—toward Hillsboro. On the way they took a squint at every sideroad to see what they could see. Giving up hopes of finding it in this vicinity, and being unable to find anyone who had made notation of the passing of a Buick sedan, they decided to drive to the end of the hard road, on the other side of Droop. There were no other cars on the road, they said, so Jack stepped on the gas, and away they went. In descending Droop, far in the distance, there was the light of a car. Punching the gas to the floor board, the policemen soon overtook

Shooting

Ricky B. Grimes, 20, is dead as the result of a shooting incident last Wednesday, November 18. The shooting occurred at 2:30 p. m. and took place at the mobile home of his mother-in-law, Sandra Bennett, on the Hill Country Road near Frost. The weapon involved was a high powered rifle and Mr. Grimes probably died instantly.

A juvenile is involved in the shooting. The investigation by State Police and the Prosecuting Attorney's office is continuing.

Mary M'Neel Beard 97, Passes Away

One of the oldest residents of Pocahontas county passed away on Thursday, December 27, 1928, when Mary McNeel Beard, age 97, who was a daughter of Richard McNeel and Mary Edminston, died at her home at Hillsboro.

Mrs. Beard was one of the pioneers of this section. She was a resident of the old state and the new. For almost a century she watched and observed the progress of a nation, state and county. Through it all she has been very active, doing her part in the community in which she lived.

She was the widow of the late M. L. Beard, and is survived by two sons, M. L. Beard and C. E. Beard.

For 85 years she was a member of the Presbyterian Church, and always took an active part in church affairs.

Funeral services were conducted at the Oak Grove Church, at Hillsboro, Saturday, December 29th, and interment made in the McNeel cemetery.

Green Bank Land Grants

This Wilson Survey of 44,000 acres has been a harvest field for the lumber companies. The Seneca Game Forest is in the bounds of this survey which aggregates an area of 10 847 acres, and cost the State more than $20,000 In 1905 the Pocahontas Timber Company sold 2,112 acres which is the bounds of the Seneca Forest for the sum of $32,736.00

The James Patton Survey of 37 000 acres by survey bearing date May 1, 1795, lies on the Allegheny Mountain between the mouth of Ervin Draft on Back Creek, in Highland County, and the church on top of Allegheny Mountain. About 1840 the 37,000 acre tract was sold for taxes and divided up in lots; the survey and division being made by William Young.

The North Fork and Forest Lumber Companies own the greater part of the James Patton Survey, and the timber was operated by them recently This survey includes the headwaters of Brush Run; Deer Creek, North Fork, Galford's Creek, Stony Run. Ervin Draft, Ruckman Draft, Briscoe Draft, and Birds Run.

On June 5, 1795, a survey of 30,000 acres was made for William Bridger who assigned the same to Jacob Kuhn; adjoins the James Patton Survey of 37,000 acres and running with a common line from a small white oak tree standing back of the Brushy Run Chapel Church; the line passing north of the Allegheny Church; this same oak tree is corner of the Charles Galligher Survey to 32,000 acres; the Galligher Survey and the Kuhn or Bridger and Thorny Branch adjoining the James Patton Survey of 37 000 acres and interlocking with the Thomas Kincaid survey and thereby linking up all the large grants or patents that circumscribe the Green Bank community.

Now going back to the lands of the early settlers of the Green Bank community, we find that the town of Green Bank is situated on the lands or grants of Jacob Gillispie and Thomas Cartmill; and North Fork was called Cartmill's Creek up until about 1830 when some old fool who didn't know the points of the compass called it North Fork, and it has gone by that name since. It is the east branch of Deer Creek, and it should have continued under the name Cartmill's Creek in honor of Thomas Cartmill who fought in the Revolutionary War and was sworn in as Captain of the Virginia Militia on May 11, 1788.

The Green Bank High School is situated in the grant of Jacob Gillispie. The old Gillispie homestead is now owned by F. H. Hedrick, Vo-Ag teacher.

The town of Arbovale is situated in the grant of Benona Griffin and James Rucker, Jr. The Set Stone corner near the gate at D. O. Woods store building is a common corner to the two grants mentioned, and to the lands supposed to be owned by Jacob Rumbeau. The Arbovale church is in the Griffin patent. James Rucker conveyed part of his land to Moses Houchin where we get the name "Mosey Flat" which

This survey was resurveyed and divided up in 1841 for Joseph Brown by Thomas Campbell and found to contain 35 152 acres

The Charles Galligher survey of 32,000 acres made in 1795 lies between the town of Bartow, and nearly up to Cass, taking in the Little Mountain between Deer Creek and the river and running near to the top of Cheat Mountain. In 1875 B. M. Yeager, surveyor of Pocahontas County, cut the Charles Galligher survey up in lots which was practically all sold to lumber companies. M. P. Bock was the first man to commence operating timber in the Charles Galligher survey

James Rucker conveyed part of his land to Moses Houchin where we get the name "Mosey Flat" which lies on the west side of Arbovale.

The North Fork Milling Company's flour mill is in the Grant issued to Thomas Jarvis. Jarvis conveyed his land to Gillispies, and Gillispies to Patrick Bruffey in 1822 who developed the water power for the North Fork flour mill.

William Taylor conveyed is land to John Brown on September 8, 1795, and Brown conveyed his land to Harmon Conrad on August 3, 1799 and the same land still remains in possession of the Conrad heirs.

The first church in the Green Bank community was built in what is now the old part of the Arbovale Cemetery, and was erected some time long prior to 1800 and named the Deer Creek Union Chapel. It was located on the lands of Jacob Rumbeau who sold the lot to the Union Committee, Misses Anna and Florence Howard spent the weekend at the home of Mrs. Charles Richardson.

Mrs. Carl Sheets, Mrs. Charles Richardson, and Miss Madge Eskridge of Marlinton spent Friday afternoon with Misses Florence and Anna Howard.

School started again Monday after a week's vacation.

Mr. Meade McNeill returned to Athens Monday morning where he will resume his duties as teacher in Concord State Normal School.

Last Thursday morning Mr. W. G. Lancaster, Francis Pollock, Bus Edgar and Mr. R. P. Lord, of Marlinton, came down here to go hunting with the McNeill brothers.

The Charles Gallgher survey of 32,000 acres made in 1795 lies between the town of Bartow, and nearly up to Cass, taking in the Little Mountain between Deer Creek and the river and running near to the top of Cheat Mountain. In 1875 B. M. Yeager, surveyor of Pocahontas County, cut the Charles Galligher survey up in lots which was practically all sold to lumber companies. M. P. Bock was the first man to commence operating timber in the Charles Galligher survey in 1902. All the forest lands of the large tracts mentioned above are under option or being purchased by the Monongahela National Forest.

On August 10, 1795, a survey of 2,306 1-2 acres was made for Thomas Kincaid, adjoining the Thomas Wilson Survey of 44,000 acres at the east end of the Michael Mountain, and running about three miles with the Wilson line to the lands of William and Andrew Warwick, lying mostly in the Hill Neighborhood. This grant is known as the Henry Bull Survey, an assignee of Thomas Kincaid.

The last of the large surveys were made for William Dizer on the 19th of December 1805 containing 605 acres lying on the headwaters of Rosin Run veyed his land to Harmon Conrad on August 3, 1799 and the same land still remains in possession of the Conrad heirs.

The first church in the Green Bank community was built in what is now the old part of the Arbovale Cemetery, and was erected some time long prior to 1800 and named the Deer Creek Union Chapel. It was located on the lands of Jacob Rumbeau who sold the lot to the Union Committee, but no deed was made till the same land came in possession of James Tallman who made the deed on July 5, 1831.

It is legendary that Jacob Rumbeau and a man by the name of Covelough were the first settlers in the Deer Creek Valley, but we have no records to verify the fact. Jacob Rumbeau's home was on the lands now owned by James Cassell, which was formerly the James Rucker Patent.

Much could be written about the land grants of the pioneers of the Green Bank community but it would be an elaborate piece of work to go in detail with them all.

It appears that in this busy progressive age, that we seem to forget all the local history of our community and put into oblivion the lives of our pioneer settlers, who carved the farm land out of the wilderness, and made the way possible for our homes, churches and schools, which should be considered as a monument to them

Rev. Paul Sharp, a twenty year old evangelist from Asburg College, Wilmore, Kentucky, is conducting revival services in the Methodist Episcopal Church.

These services have been in progress for a week, and are steadily growing in interest for the community, as the wonderful messages from the lips of this youthful preacher, are proving an inspiration and a blessing, to all who have heard him.

Card of Thanks

To the Good People of Marlinton and Vicinity:

We have received so many good things at the hands of the people of this county and the town of Marlinton, that we just do not know how to thank them enough, so we wish to say we appreciate your kindnesses more than human tongue can tell and pray God that our benefactors may have His richest blessings. The infirmities of old age and disease have caused us to be in doors most of the time and it is at a time like this that human sympathies are sweetest.

Respectfully Yours,

Arrests

Sheriff Dottie Kellison reports the arrest of Ricky McCoy, of Hillsboro, last Friday night. He has been charged with assault, public intoxication, resisting arrest, and two counts of possession of a controlled substance with intent to deliver. Other charges are pending at this time. McCoy is currently in the Pocahontas County jail under $11.700 bond.

The Sheriff's Department also reports the arrest of Johnny Fitzgerald, of Cass, who has been charged with the possession and transfer of stolen property.

If not there may be a kindly spirit who will lend you a helping hand, and aid you in carrying out your good resolution.

NOTICE

Beginning January 1st, the assessment of the real and personal property in Pocahontas county for taxation will be commenced by the undersigned assessor and his deputies. The law requires the assessor to collect the poll tax, and the dog tax of $1.00 for male dogs and $2 for female dogs. Please have this money by you when called upon by your assessor, so that trouble and delay may be avoided. I ask your cooperation.

Respectfully,
NEAL NOTTINGHAM, Assessor.

Fire Department could get to the scene, the inside was totally burned out.

B-F-D firemen were called to a small brush fire on Brush Run about noon on the 14th. The fire was on the Virgil Mullenax place. About one acre was burned. The fire is believed to have been caused by hunters.

The controversy over "gun control" goes on apace. I am disturbed that so much misinformation is placed on the balance scales in favor of the NRA's extreme position.

Those of us who advocate measures to lessen the frightening homicide statistics throughout our nation have never, never suggested that it would be feasible to eliminate ownership of all guns. Never has it been suggested that qualified sportsmen be deprived of their guns.

The very modest and entirely constitutional proposals are aimed (is that a pun?) at regulating drastically the sale of handguns. Nearly every law enforcement official I have heard speak out on the subject pleads for laws to prevent the availability of these murder weapons. One has only to review the statistics for Washington, D. C. in the past year since controls were initiated to see that there is a direct relationship to crime.

Surely those of us who have been in constant fear for the lives of our young people who work in vulnerable jobs, such as late night

Edray District Institute Convenes Jan. 11–12

The Institute for Edray District will be held Friday and Saturday January 11 and 12.

On Friday, all of the one and two-room schools of the County will observe the work of another teacher for that day, as a part of County Institute.

The Marlinton Grades and High School, as well as all the schools in the districts will be open to visiting teachers. Teachers may make their own selection as to the school they prefer to visit, but to receive full credit for Friday they must be at the school building not later than ten o'clock and remain until 3:30 in the afternoon.

That's because Mrs. Tibbs does — steel-toed ones.

The Buckeye woman is the only female log scaler in West Virginia.

She works in the yard of the W.M. Cramer Lumber Co. near Marlinton, measuring the board feet in every load of logs delivered to the yard. The mill has approximately 40 yard employees, and Mrs. Tibbs is the scaler and safety director.

After managing a restaurant and running a service station, Mrs. Tibbs' natural "gift of gab" helped her initially overcome any resistance to a female log scaler. After more than a year on the job, owner and loggers class her as a top log scaler — male or female.

Mrs. Tibbs admitted encountering sexual harassment, being the only female in the yard crew. "The Mill Manager gives me a rough time," she explained. The mill manager is her husband, Ronnie Tibbs.

On Saturday, beginning at 10 o'clock, all the teachers of the District and those from other districts who have not attended their own district meetings, will meet in the High School building at Marlinton. A Special Session of Institute for High School teachers of the County, who have not attended five days elsewhere will be held in the afternoon, in the same building.

In order that teachers may be familiar with the law governing Institute and the necessity for attending, I quote the following from Section 114 of the West Virginia School Law:

"Every person employed as a teacher in the schools of this state shall be required to attend a county teachers' institute, or such other teachers' meeting as the state superintendent of schools shall prescribe for his group of teachers or kind of work, for at least five days in each

Five independent contractors are presently cutting logs and hauling them to Cramers.

Last year, more than 4½ million board feet of lumber went through this mill. Red Oak is the predominate species. Most of the logs are being logged on National Forest land.

Some individual loggers deliver to the mill also, and their logs are measured and graded when unloaded.

Logs are trucked into the center area of the mill and put on piles from each truck. Armed with her Doyle-rule stick and clip-board, Mrs. Tibbs meets each truck entering the yard. She records the name of the driver and log source and they are posted in a log inventory.

After the logs are unloaded, she carefully measures width and length and totals board feet from each log. The logger's income is based on Jaynell's measurements and they seem satisfied with the work she is doing.

When Mrs. Tibbs finishes "scaling" all the logs, they are moved to the log yard and stacked by size and species.

From the log yard, they are moved to the de-barker, then to the head saw. This is a band-mill operation. Square cants are cut from the log, the cants are re-sawed into boards, edged and trimmed.

Then the green lumber is dipped into an anti-sap and mold control solution and sent out the "green chain" into the yard. Next it is stacked according to grade, air-dried and banded for shipment.

The output of this mill is rough lumber for pallets, landscaping ties and providing lumber to finishing mills for furniture and other wood products.

The chops and sawdust are used by paper making companies and the bark becomes fuel at a company in Virginia and charcoal for a Parsons firm.

Mrs. Tibbs married into the lumber business — her father-in-law, Everett Tibbs, set up this mill in 1963 for R.S. Burruss and moved his family to Marlinton from Virginia.

He is general manager of the Cramer mill and her mother-in-law is the secretary. Cramer bought the mill in March of this year.

It shall be the duty of the county superintendent to see that teachers who do not attend institute or who have not been legally excused are not allowed to teach in his county during any year in which such failure occurs."

I trust all the teachers of one and two-room schools of Edray District will find it convenient to visit some school of their choice on Friday, and on Saturday, all the teachers of the district, and those who did not attend Institute in their own districts, will find it possible to be at the meeting in the Edray District High School.

Green Bank Land Grants

Green Bank, W. Va.
October 23, 1934

Dear Cal:

Some time ago you asked me to write you a list or something concerning the original patents or land grants of the Green Bank community; I have forgotten which particular grants you mentioned, but, however, I will give you a list of the original Land Grants that are adjacent, and contiguous, and run with common lines, and are situated on the waters of the North Fork and Deer Creek, and should figure largely in the local history of the Green Bank community.

We don't know the exact date, but sometime long before the Revolutionary War, a dauntless band of pioneers [illegible] of adventurous [illegible] crossed the Allegheny Mountains and from the summit of one of the loftiest peaks, where until then the foot of a white man had never trod, they viewed the vast expanse of the level land and forest of the Deer Creek Valley; returning probably to quaint old Williamsburg, they told of the wonderful discovered country which is now the Green Bank com[illegible] holes and surrounded by a stockade fence presented an almost impregnable defense. This fort was used as a home for some of the settlers who often lived for weeks inside its walls.

For many years it remained a famous Fort on the frontier, having withstood several Indian attacks. The fort was situated in the forks of North Fork and Deer Creek on an elevation of ground that commanded a fine view of the surrounding country; now in west end of a field of F. H. Warwick; Mr. Warwick told me he had hauled several wagon loads of rock from the foundation and chimney of the old Fort.

The month of June 1780 must have been a very busy time for the early settlers of the Green Bank Community, due to the fact that they were surveying out their lands to secure grants or patents. It appears that there had been no surveying done prior to the Revolutionary War. June 7, 1780, is the date of the first survey as shown in the Augusta Grant Book No. 1, in the Auditors Office at Charleston, which was made for Jacob Warwick for 340 acres, June 8, 1780, James McCartee, 215 acres June 9, 1780, William Nottingham, 300 acres, June

ADVERTISING BRINGS NEW CUSTOMERS

Into your store. New customers increase the volume of business and increased volume brings increased profits. The following story is told of the Fort Smith Garment Co., by its vice president, Leo Fleming:

"We manufacture overalls and work pants. It took us 12 years to build a business from a scratch to a certain volume without advertising. With advertising the volume increased 500 per cent in two years. In our first twelve years we built our production up to 1000 dozens a month and our overhead and selling cost was $4000 a month.

"That made a selling cost of four dollars a dozen. Two years after becoming advertisers our volume increased to 5000 dozens a month. The overhead and selling cost increased 100 percent to $8000 a month. As a result the overhead and selling cost was reduced from four dollars a dozen to one dollar and sixty cents a dozen. We reduced the price a dollar a dozen to the retailer, paid 50c a dozen to the advertising appropriation and had 90c a dozen extra profit as a result of the advertising."

[illegible] band of pioneers [illegible] of adventurous [illegible] crossed the Allegheny Mountains and from the summit of one of the loftiest peaks, where until then the foot of a white man had never trod, they viewed the vast expanse of the level land and forest of the Deer Creek Valley; returning probably to quaint old Williamsburg, they told of the wonderful discovered country which is now the Green Bank community, and thus opened the way for the venturesome pioneer who was destined to overcome difficulties and build homes in the Deer Creek Valley. But several years had passed when one day about 1765, the figure of a stalwart, broad-shouldered man could have been seen standing top of the wild and rugged knoll, which reach its rocky bluff high above the North Fork Creek, a short distance east of the junction of the North Fork and Deer Creek He no doubt was alone save for the companionship of a long rifle which he leaned upon as he contemplated the glorious scenes that stretched before him, as he forecast the future of the beautiful landscape. This lone pioneer was John Warwick. He was one of those daring men who, as the tide of emigration started westward, had left his friends and family and after many days of hunting and exploring, reached the junction of North Fork and Deer Creek

The scene so impressed John Warwick that he concluded to build a home and found a settlement on the waters of Deer Creek. After taking a tomahawk right or possession, which consisted of blazing a few trees

All these grants are recorded in Augusta County Grant Book No. 1; and Grants issued to James McKamey, James Kerney, John Warwick, Joseph Wooddell, Thomas Coberly, Thomas Wooddell, William Warwick, Daniel Kerr, James Munsen, Benona Griffin and Samuel Tallman are found recorded in Bath County, Book No. 1. This brings us up to 1795 when the speculators and land sharks began to secure grants for large tracts of land in the Allegheny Mountains bordering on the new settlements, which was Bath County at that time. A grant for 44,000 acres was issued to Thomas Wilson in 1795 This tract of land lies between the town of Marlinton including the town of Dunmore and near the site

Virginia to tell his people of the magnificent country he had discovered.

Immediately with his three sons, Andrew, John, Jr., and William, he persuaded a large number of settlers to accompany him to the Deer Creek Valley; the country through which they passed was one tangled almost impenetrable forest; the ax of the pioneer was never sounded in this region where every mile of the way might harbor some danger from the Indians; these pioneers knew not the meaning of fear; the war whoop of the Indians and the twang of the bow and arrow were familiar sounds to them. The old pole ax wielded by strong arms soon cleared some land and reared stout log cabins within the radius of three or four miles. Then new settlers moved in and the settlement began to grow and flourish, and the Red men began to be troublesome; some settlers were shot, and bands of hostile Indians prowled around and made it very dangerous.

An attack from the Indians was apprehended and the settlers determined to build a Fort as a defense for the infant settlement which was planned by Jacob Warwick and named for him, but was built by the people of the community; as a rule the old Indian Forts were built in the shape of a parallelogram. Peter Warwick told me that his grandfather said this fort was in circular form, and that the roof was covered with sods and dirt to prevent fire from the enemy. The white oak walls bristled with port running through the loops of Deer Creek above Cass; most of it being on the East Side of the Greenbrier River. This entire tract was sold for a direct tax being levied by the Federal government, on the 14th day December, 1802, by the United States Marshall for the District of Virginia, and bought by Sampson Matthews for the sum of five dollars and one cent. On November 1, 1817, Sampson Matthews employed Samuel D. Poage to make a division of the 44,000 acre tract, the line to begin at a point on Arthur Grimes land, pass a high point of rocks on Michael Mountain which is about three hundred yards west of the Lookout Tower on the Michael Mountain and passes near the CCC Camps on the Browns Creek road on July 1, 1818, Sampson Matthews conveyed by deed the west end of the survey of 9500 acres to John Moore, Andrew Ervine, James Waugh, Arthur and Charles Grimes. The east end of the tract was disposed of by the Matthews and Jacob Warwick.

CARD OF THANKS

We again wish to express our deep appreciation to the people of Pocahontas County and in other sections contributing to the success of our 28th anniversary celebration. We are not only appreciative of the business given us, but much more so for the kindly spirit manifested that speak louder than words.

Yours sincerely,

Bears

Last Saturday Euna Barkley and her niece, Connie Oxier, saw two bears on Back Mountain. It was a mother bear and her cub. She had to stop the car as the cub bear almost hit the car. I have carried the mail from Durbin to Cass for over 24 years. Grover helped me until he died last November. This is the first time I ever saw any bears on Back Mountain. I see lots of deer and turkeys.

TWO CARS COLLIDE ON HUNTERSVILLE ROAD; 2 INJURED

An automobile accident, in which two cars collided, occurred on the curve opposite Zed Smith's residence early Tuesday morning when Sterl Sharp, driving a 1925 Ford Coupe and Cris Beard's Chevrolet Sedan taxi came together.

According to information concerning the accident, Sharp was coming into Marlinton at a high rate of speed, and in cutting the curve was not over far enough on his side of the road to avoid hitting the approaching car. The taxi driven by J. H. Wimer, of Durbin, and had one passenger. Sharp's car was occupied by Fred Hamrick and Ted Guthrie, of Cass.

In an effort to avoid the accident, Sharp in pulling to his side of the road hit the left front wheel of Beard's car, but it seems that in doing so he got the worse end of the bargain. His car came out with a broken wind shield, broken windows, the left running board and fenders completely smashed, the right front wheel broken, the left door knocked clear out of place, and one broken spring.

In the smashup Sharp received bad injuries about the left arm and shoulder, and one other occupant of the car received severe bruises. The other escaped uninjured. They were brought to the Pocahontas Memorial Hospital, where their wounds were given medical attention.

VIOLATES GAME LAW

Fishing for trout out of season and without license is rather expensive, even if you don't catch anything, judging from the case of Cecil Rankin who was caught by game protector, Clarence Tyree, who happened along Tea Creek on Wednesday of last week and found Rankin casting in the stream with a green fly and spinner. He was arrested, but all the time the officer was making the arrest Rankin was making a noble effort to convince him that he was only fishing for suckers. The fish law violator was brought to Marlinton and tried Saturday in A. E. Smith's Justice Court and was fined $20.00 and costs. The costs were $7.00, thus causing his little trial for suckers cost $27.00, enough to buy licenses for twenty-seven years.

COUNTY SCHOOLS OPENED MONDAY; BIG ENROLLMENT

When the schools of Pocahontas County opened Monday morning at 9:00 o'clock, 3076 elementry pupils, 465 high school students and 125 junior high school students began the first day of their 1928-29 session of school, according to the records of C. E. Flynn, county superintendant.

It is thought that before the close of the first week this number will be greatly strengthened. Already it is more than entered at the opening of school last year.

According to the superintendant's records, there has been employed in the county 107 of the best elementry teachers available, and 27 high-class high school teachers.

For the past month large sums have been expended in renovating school houses and adding new equipment. Each teacher starts into the term with everything in better order than ever before in the history of the county.

Not until the first month's reports come in will Superintendant Flynn know exactly how many are enrolled in the Pocahontas County schools this year, but he is of the opinion that there are some four or five hundred out of school at the present time, and if they do not voluntarily enroll during the next few weeks, an effort will be made to induce them to.

FATAL ACCIDENT

The second fatal accident in the county within a month occurred Tuesday afternoon on Rt. 219 south of Hillsboro. Carl E. Guyer, of Summersville, was killed in the single vehicle accident which happened at 3 pm at the foot of Droop Mountain.

The vehicle, a 1977 Ford, was traveling south and left the road in the first curve as the highway starts up the mountain. It went straight into the embankment, along the bank for a distance, then hit a rock which caused the car to become airborne. The car came down on two wheels and then flipped over onto its top, narrowly missing a car coming north.

The car was owned by Mr. Guyer but the driver is believed to have been Charles McCoy, of Droop. McCoy was thrown out of the car while it was in the air and landed in the ditch beside the road. Mr. Guyer was found partially out of the car and was probably killed instantly.

Others in the car were Palmer Adkinson, Walter Allen, and Cash Hollandsworth, all of Droop. McCoy and Adkinson were transported to the Pocahontas Memorial Hospital by the Little Levels Rescue Squad. Adkinson was admitted with a neck injury while McCoy was treated and released. The Marlinton Rescue Squad also responded to the accident.

McCoy is presently in the Pocahontas County jail charged with a felony under the new Driving Under the Influence law when an accident involves the death of a person. The Sheriff's Department and State Police are investigating the accident.

Mr. Guyer was born on July 7, 1927, and was an employee at Denmar Hospital at one time. His family is in Ohio. As we go to press no decision has been made about services.

Gas Well

Plans are going forward for drilling a gas well on Gauley Mountain. The site is on Forest Service land near Rocky Point in Randolph County. The well will be drilled by Merrill Natural Resources, Inc., of Richmond, Va., a sublessee of the Amoco Company. Amoco has the oil and gas rights leased from the mineral rights owner, the Upper Elk Company. Merrill plans to have their drilling rig on the site by December 1.

Mrs. Taylor Townsend is a very sick woman at this time. Her friends hope for her speedy recovery.

Cornelas Bussard had his shoulder dislocated a few days ago. He came in contact with Mr. "buck" which proved too much for him. Dr. McCutchin set the shoulder.

Clay Dreppard and family and Press Dreppard and family attended the Staunton fair.

J. B. Miller and a Mr. Barnes, of Broadway, Va., spent a few days with Mr. Jack Townsend last week. They are buying cattle and calves.

Plenty candidates around for the past few days, shaking hands.

Mrs. Willard Weatherby and son, Willard, Jr. and daughters Misses Marion and Inez Gregory, of Russell, Pa., came for a few weeks visit and took in the County Fair. Mrs. G. A. Briggs and little son, Raymond, accompanied them, but did not get to attend the fair owing to the illness of her little son. Mrs. Briggs is a daughter of Dr. and Mrs. G. M. Jordan. Mr. Roland Sharp accompanied them on their return and will spend a few weeks. On his return he will go to Athens College where he will will attend another year.

Dr. Jordan and Russ Chestnut, were in the Valley of Virginia a few days last week. They report good crops.

Mr. Houdyshell and family of Elkins, W. Va., were visiting Mr. Houdyshell's uncles, Melvin Sharp and Mr. Clay Dreppard and friends. They returned Sunday evening.

McNeill Marker Dedicated

Members of the McNeill Family and friends gathered Saturday, afternoon, October 24, to dedicate a marker in memory of Thomas McNeill, the pioneer settler of Swago. The marker is located at the site of the pioneer's cabin, on land now owned by James McNeill. The cabin site is today away from the road but is on the location of the Indian path, the Seneca Trail. It is in sight of the gap where the Bridger brothers were killed during the last Indian raid in this area.

Sheriff Dotty Kellison has asked us to remind those interested in acquiring land that is on the tax delinquent list that you do NOT acquire title to such land by paying the taxes. All this does is keep the land in the name of the delinquent taxpayer.

You have to wait until the land is sold at a delinquent land sale and bid on it. Even after land is sold, the buyer has to wait over a year before he receives a deed as the original owner is given time to redeem the property.

The Mules Went

By Ruth Copeland

It all started with a country preacher who traveled light and "lived around," depending on community folk to keep him in their homes. His luggage was a paper sack stuffed with a change of underwear and socks, a "preachin shirt" and extra collars.

Although he was short on academics, he was long on Gospel. And work-hardened men and tidy farm women came from miles around to hear him tear away the lid from sin and reveal its awfulness to a holy God.

Their eyes filled with tears as the preacher described the love that held the bleeding, thorn-crowned Savior to the cross to purchase their redemption. And there was much joy in the community when several men and women made their way forward to kneel at a makeshift altar and surrender to Jesus Christ.

But young Walgren dreaded the time when watched Papa open his mouth, as if to deliver his customary tirade of oaths, then close it. Then he saw Papa stride to the edge of the field and pick up a big limb, as though he would beat the mules—then throw it down.

He watched him as, back at the plow, he slapped the reins across the backs of the contrary beasts and begged them—but they wouldn't go.

Young John almost hoped his frustrated parent would throw aside his new found life in Christ and revert to his old sinful temper. It would give him an excuse for putting off his confrontation with God.

But Papa had a reserve resource. He dropped to his knees in the soft, pungent soil and lifted his voice in prayer. No flowery phrases characterized that prayer. He prayed as a work-pressed farmer would plead with a new found friend, "God, you know I have to finish this plowing today...

tears as the preacher described the love that held the bleeding, thorn-crowned Savior to the cross to purchase their redemption. And there was much joy in the community when several men and women made their way forward to kneel at a makeshift altar and surrender to Jesus Christ.

But young Walgren dreaded the time when their turn would come to have the preacher in their home—dreaded it because he was afraid that his father would display his uncontrollable temper before that good man.

And display it he would! He reacted to provocations with knockout blows and volleys of scathing multi-syllable curse words capable of wilting any creature that dared defy his authority.

But the preaching of God's Word, together with the work of the Holy Spirit, won out. One glorious night the miracle happened—John Walgren's Papa was converted.

But young John held back. In his heart he said, I have to see first if it is real. It it is real, it will work on Papa's temper.

The meetings closed, and winter passed. Spring came on. Young John watched

But Papa had a reserve resource. He dropped to his knees in the soft, pungent soil and lifted his voice in prayer. No flowery phrases characterized that prayer. He prayed as a work-pressed farmer would plead with a new found friend, "God, you know I have to finish this plowing today... You kin see that these mules are balking. God, I can't beat em up or cuss 'em like I use to, because I'm your child now. God, I've got to have help! Would you please make these mules go? Amen!"

John watched papa stand up, pick up the reins, and say one word, "Giddap!" The mules went!

Years later when John was an old man, he told us about it. We lingered around the table where his wife had fed us fried chicken and homemade ice cream. Tears ran down John's cheeks as he said, "Yes, the mules went. I watched a miracle of God's grace and power that day. I knew then that salvation is real.I could no longer hold out against God's love. I got saved too."

But young John held back. In his heart he said, I have to see first if it is real. It it is real, it will work on Papa's temper.

The meetings closed, and winter passed. Spring came on. Young John watched Papa for a display of the old-time rage. He listened from behind the barn. He peeked down from the hayloft. He hung around the toolshed.

In the cow barn he waited for Papa's temper to be triggered by a cow that might happen to step on his foot or switch a rough, hairy tail across his face. Still—no temper.

Give him time, John said to himself.

Time came for spring plowing. John spied on Papa from behind a clump of bushes when it happened.

The mules decided to balk. Several rows around that field needed to be finished that day. Other spring work was waiting to be done. Papa was under tension.

Papa roared at the mules, "Giddap!" They rolled their eyes at him, but did not move. Young John grace and power that day. I knew then that salvation is real.I could no longer hold out against God's love. I got saved too."

Settings are vastly different today. But preachers still uncover sin and offer Christ as savior. Awakened sinners still kneel at altars and surrender to Him. The gospel is still the power of God unto salvation (Rom. 1:16), and those who accept it are translated out of the kingdom of darkness into the kingdom of God's dear Son (Col. 1:13).

The contrary life-situations which those who are new in Christ face today are far different from those Mr. Walgren faced, but God's power has not changed (1 Cor. 10:13).

The God who changed Papa Walgren's life will change the life of anyone who will invite Him to do so.

Waslo a double-threat

By Bob Fretwell
ASSISTANT SPORTS EDITOR

Mark Waslo is Pocahontas County's gift to collegiate football.

Waslo is a double-threat performer on the nationally ranked and undefeated Fairmont State College team.

"He's gone farther than any player we've had," Elmer Friel, Waslo's high school coach, said. Friel is a 22-year veteran of high school coaching at Pocahontas County and at now defunct Marlinton.

Waslo, quarterback, wide receiver and punter on Pocahontas County's 8-2 team during his senior high school season, has continued to sharpen his football skills under Fairmont State's Dave Ritchie.

Ritchie, who has the top winning percentage among active football coaches in the West Virginia Conference, says he can't bring himself to say no to any prospect. He wouldn't have said no, anyway, to the versatile Waslo, one of a group of bright-eyed recruits attracted to the Fighting Falcons' program by Ritchie's quiet Ivy League approach.

Ritchie, former coach at Greenbrier Military School and an assistant at Brown University, and Waslo are in the midst of their fourth seasons at Fairmont.

"This is a great team," Waslo said, after helping the second-ranked (NAIA Division I) Falcons prevail over an aroused West Virginia State team, 26-21, Saturday. It was Fairmont's sixth victory, preserving the Falcons' quest to go undefeated for the first time since 1967 when they captured the NAIA championship.

After the first five victories, Waslo led the Falcons and the conference in pass receiving (26 catches, 552 yards) and in punting (43.6 yard average).

Mrs. J. G. Sharp and Mrs. Mac Ervine visited friends last week.

Mr. Dwoit Wright is at Neola getting out a car load of walnut logs.

Miss Mabel Kincaid and Mrs. D. L. Wright were visitors at Mrs. G. O. Wade's last Sunday.

Herbert Sharp was a welcomed visitor at the home of Mr. S. C. Kincaid's last Sunday.

Isaac Barlow was seen on Douthards Creek.

We are all glad to see Mr. W. W. Wilder, President of the Mt. Timber Corporation, come back to Douthards Creek.

Our neighbor, Mr. S. C. Kincaid, was almost carried away in the wind storm, Monday. He started to the wood shed to get a load of wood, some sixteen feet distance, and on his way back to the house the wind caught him, taking his hat away and left hm dodging splinters and pine needles. The last time the hat was seen it had joined the Aviation Corps going north.

time since 1967 when they captured the NAIA championship.

After the first five victories, Waslo led the Falcons and the conference in pass receiving (26 catches, 552 yards) and in punting (43.6 yard average).

Against the Yellow Jackets, he gave the Falcons a 10-yard advantage on every exchange of punts.

One game back, when the Falcons toppled previously undefeated Concord, 31-14, Walso made five receptions for 95 yards, including a fantastic one-handed catch, and punted seven times for a 45.7 average. His educated foot sent one punt 52 yards and out-of-bounds on the Concord two.

"Waslo is a winner," Friel said. Ritchie said it differently, "Losing is not in his vocabulary. He's a game-breaker."

Waslo is rated by Ritchie as a professional prospect because he can perform two chores extremely well.

The 5-foot-10 engineering major from Arbovale — that's near Green Bank — has the sure hands of a top-notch receiver and 4.5 speed in the 40-yard dash, a standard measuring rod of football talent.

He comes from a punting factory. Friel had a 40-yard average at New Mexico Highlands and he turned out two conference leaders in punting — Harry McCloud at Concord and George Meadows at West Virginia Tech — before Waslo emerged to carry on the tradition.

Waslo, the all-conference punter in 1980, works at his trade every day. He kicks for a half hour following practice. During practice, he is occupied by playing pitch and catch with Fairmont's gifted and strong-armed quarterback, Luc Tousignant, and the other passers and receivers.

That's Mark Waslo, Pocahontas County's best.

PROCLAMATION
FOR NATIONAL BUSINESS WOMEN'S WEEK

WHEREAS working women constitute 43 million of the nation's work force, and are constantly striving to serve their communities, their states and their nation in civic and cultural programs, and

WHEREAS major goals of business and professional women are to help create better conditions for business women through the study of social, educational, economic and political problems; to help them be of greater service to their community; to further friendship with women throughout the world, and

WHEREAS all of us are proud of their leadership in these many fields of endeavor,

NOW, THEREFORE I, DOUGLAS DUNBRACK, MAYOR OF THE TOWN OF MARLINTON, by the authority vested in me, do hereby proclaim October 18, through October 24, 1981,

NATIONAL BUSINESS WOMEN'S WEEK

sponsored by the National Federation of Business and Professional Women's Clubs, Inc., and urge all citizens in Pocahontas County, all civic and fraternal groups, all educational associations, all news media and other community organizations to join in this salute to working women by encouraging and promoting the celebration of the achievements of all business and professional women as they contribute daily to our economic, civic and cultural purposes.

BPW Woman of the Year

October 18th-24th is National Business Women's Week and as a part of this week's recognition Dorothy L. "Dotty" Kellison has been named by the Marlinton Business and Professional Women's Club as Professional Woman of the Year in Pocahontas County.

Dotty is a native of Pocahontas County and a 1954 graduate of Marlinton High School. She is married to Jack Kellison and they are the parents of three children, Ken, Karen and Dan.

Dotty is a member of the Marlinton Presbyterian Church, the Pocahontas Memorial Hospital Auxiliary, and the Marlinton Business and Professional Women's Club. She has served as Secretary-Treasurer of the Virginia-West Virginia Crime Clinic for two years, and as Office Deputy in the Sheriff's Office of Pocahontas County for nine years between 1971 and 1980.

Dotty enjoys working with young people and consequently served as a Cub Scout Den Mother for two years and continues to give time and support to Little League and Midget Football.

Foremost in Dotty's career and the honor for which BPW has chosen her Woman of the Year is the fact that she is the Sheriff of Pocahontas County—one of three female sheriffs in the State of West Virginia.

The Marlinton BPW Club wishes to recognize Dotty not only for her accomplishment as a female sheriff but for the outstanding job she is doing for Pocahontas County.

Marlinton BPW salutes you!

FATAL ACCIDENT

Diana E. Vandevender, 16, of Franklin, was killed in a single car accident on the Snowshoe Road last Thursday, October 15, at 11:30 p. m. She was in a car driven by Gregory I. Fishel, of Harrisonburg, Virginia. The car, a 1979 Renault, was coming down the mountain when Mr. Fishel lost control of it in a curve. The car slid across the road, hit the ditch line and then rolled over on its top. All the occupants were thrown out of the car. Miss Vandevender suffered a broken neck and probably died instantly. Two other passengers, Lanty Marshall and Donna Clower, both of Franklin, were transported to the Pocahontas Memorial Hospital with minor injuries. Mr. Marshall was admitted for observation. The car was a total loss.

Mr. Fishel was arrested and charged under the State's new Driving under

DAVE BARRETT TAKES OWN LIFE; BLOWS BRAINS OUT

Head Almost Amputated; Skull is Found in Rose Bush Nearby

(Special to The Journal)

Hillsboro—Dave Barrett, 63, took his own life by shooting his brains out with a twelve guage shot gun at his home on Droop Mountain about 11:00 A. M. January 2nd.

His body was found by his little grand child at noon on the front porch where the tragedy occurred. The head was mangled and mutilated terribly. There was nothing left of the head except the nose, mouth, and chin, the rest being blown completely from his body. A large piece of the skull was found in a rose bush

Miss Vandevender was the daughter of Nancy Vandevender, of Franklin, and Tracy Vandevender, of Dayton, Virginia. She was a member of the senior class at Franklin High School. Services were held Monday at the Franklin Presbyterian Church with burial in the Cedar Hill Cemetery.

State Police investigated this accident. Several other accidents have also been investigated by the State Police, fortunately none involving as serious results.

The road from Rt. 28 to Cass was the scene of a single vehicle accident at 10 p. m. on October 9. Mark E. Tracy, of Durbin, lost control of a 1979 Jeep near Cass. The vehicle went off the road, hit a sign, then a tree, and finally struck a parked 1977 Plymouth station wagon owned by John

There was nothing left of the head except the nose, mouth, and chin, the rest being blown completely from his body. A large piece of the skull was found in a rose bush near by. Pieces of his brains, and hair was found in various parts of the porch and yard.

No one witnessed the tragedy, nor did the neighbors hear the discharge of the gun. His body was found near the edge of the porch, and the shot gun near by. Neighbors, who arrived later concluded that he had tied a piece of binder twine to the trigger of the gun and to a bench in such a manner as to cause the trigger to snap when the gun was pulled slightly forward. The muzzle was placed near, or at the base of the ear pointing slightly upward. It is evident that the tragedy occurred about 11:00 o'clock because the body was still warm at noon. Number four Three accidents occurred on October 16. The first was at 11:45 a. m. on Price Hill near Marlinton. Karen Howsare, of Marlinton, driving a 1980 Toyota, slid across the road and hit a 1977 International log truck drivn by Marvin L. Dowdy, of White Sulphur Springs. There were no injuries other than cuts and bruises. The car was badly damaged with moderate damage to the truck.

The second accident of the day was at 6:25 p. m. on Rt. 92 north of Minnehaha Springs. Involved were a 1976 Chevrolet LUV truck driven by Kimberly L. Layman, of Marlinton, and a 1980 Oldsmobile driven by Grady E. Mullens, of Marlinton. Mr. Mullens was entering the highway from a driveway and pulled in front of the other vehicle. The final accident involved a 1981 Ford truck driven by Michael Bennett, of Dunmore. He lost control of the truck on Rt. 28 near Huntersville and it went off the road, went along the side of the embankment beside the road and came to rest on its side. He was not injured and the truck suffered moderate damage.

The next accident was at 10:25 a. m. on the 17th on the Brownsburg Road. Sharon E. Goldizen, of Marlinton, driving a 1975 Datsun, slid against a utility pole while attempting to avoid another vehicle No injuries and moderate vehicle damage.

Two Charleston residents came a long way to have an accident on Rt. 39 near Huntersville. Ernest J. Heislop, driving a 1976 Ford, pulled onto the road into the path of a 1977 Ford truck driven by Mark E.

Mr. Barrett lived with his unmarried son Gilbert, who was not at home at that time. On New Year's night the deceased went to the home of his daughter, Mrs. Ken Brown, who lived very near his own residence, and asked to borrow a shot gun, explaining that a weasel was bothering his chickens. Later, near midnight, he returned with the gun, stating that it would not break down for him. He then asked if there was not a better one he could borrow. Returning home with the other gun he was not seen alive again.

It was a habit of Barrett's to visit his daughter and family (Mrs. Ken Brown) every morning and inquire how they were. However, on the fatal morning he did not appear. One of his grand children on his way to school passed through his yard, and saw no signs of him, trying the door he found it locked and no signs of life inside.

The deceased has five sons and daughters to mourn; they are: Holly, of Phillippi; Gilbert, at home; Tom of Spice; Mrs. Ken Brown, of Spice; and one daughter who lives near Edray.

FLU EPIDEMIC REACHES 500

Disease Not in Virulent Form; Claimed as Bad as In 1918.

The flu epidemic has assumed great proportions in Marlinton and surrounding community, according to medical authorities, who report more than five hundred cases in this immediate section. It was hoped that the epidemic would soon reach its zenith, but instead new cases are being added daily.

The local doctors, who are doing everything within their power to relieve the host of sufferers, are experiencing a session of the hardest work since the epidemic of 1918, according to one physician.

Although no deaths have been reported as being directly from the flu, the disease is prevalent in a very bad form, and special precaution is advised by doctors to prevent death from some other malady which might accompany the dreaded disease.

TOWN OFFICIALS RECEIVE 48 VOTES

"Scratching" in Evidence; Man Not On Ticket Gets Two Votes.

Marlinton will be served for the next year by the same mayor and council as during the past year, it was decided Thursday of last week when the city election was held and forty-eight voters went to the polls and cast their ballots in approval of the last year's administration. No other ticket was in the field

No kind of an election, with or without opposition can be held without "scratching", it was revealed when the vote was posted in front of the place of voting. Two of the forty-eight scratched the names of some of those on the ticket and inserted a name of their own choice.

Those elected were:

F. C. Allen, mayor; A. H. McFerrin, recorder; and D. C. Adkison, F. M. Sydnor, Ira D. Brill, C. E. Denison, and D. W. Williams, councilmen. Harlow Waugh, whose name did not appear on the ballot, received two votes.

MRS. URIAH BIRD IS VICTIM OF FLU

Was Ill Only Few Days; Funeral to be held Thursday.

One death resulting from influenza occurred last night when Mrs. Susan Bird, 80, wife of Uriah Bird, passed away after an illness of only a few days. She had been in ill health for several years, and her condition was such that the disease could not be fought by physicians successfully.

Mrs. Bird was a daughter of Elijah Hudson, of Durbin. She was born in this county. Fifty-eight years ago she was married to Uriah Bird, and to this union was born eight children, six of whom survive. The surviving children are J. Howard Bird, of Savage, Md.; Mrs. Lloyd Moore, of Lynchburg, Va.; Mrs. George Spangler, of Macon, Ga.; Mrs. H. R. Terry, of Clifton Forge, Mrs. Ona Vogel, of New Philadelphia, Ohio, and Mrs. Frank King, of this city. The deceased children were Mrs. Henry Gay, of Buckhannon; and Mrs. W. W. Tyree, of Elkins. Besides the children, her husband and one brother, Squire J. L. Hudson, of Durbin, survive.

Marlinton Offered Chance For Great Fame

Inventor of New Cuss Words Will Put Town on Map

There is a wonderful opportunity awaiting someone, somewhere in this country. The man or woman who will be made famous by his or her special ingenuity, may be a resident of Marlinton. The females are included in this opportunity because for the past several years they have been gradually becoming more and more competitors of the men folks in almost every line of endeavor, and it is just possible that some woman may fall heir to this unusual renown and have her name carved in glittering letters on the tablet of fame.

Everyone will admit that this old ball has been twisting at a pretty lively gait for the past quarter of a century. The fellow who permitted himself stand still for a short space

Everyone will admit that this old ball has been twisting at a pretty lively gait for the past quarter of a century. The fellow who permitted himself stand still for a short space of time has discovered that the rest of the world has gone whizzing past him and he is more or less of an old foggy. Everything has been hitting on all six, so to speak, and wonderful progress has been seen in business, literature, art, commerce and invention. After a close check-up, however, it has been discovered by a very learned authority on the subject that the world is somewhat backward in one particular. To say, somewhat backward, is expressing it rather mildly for the gentleman in question, finds that practically no progress has been made in this particular line since the days of Shakespeare, and a few other birds of that type who took a keen delight in setting their thoughts down in writing. This eminent authority has discovered that the whole world is way behind in the matter of new "cuss" words. Stop right here for a minute or two and consider the question yourself. How

To say, somewhat backward, is expressing it rather mildly for the gentleman in question, finds that practically no progress has been made in this particular line since the days of Shakespeare, and a few other birds of that type who took a keen delight in setting their thoughts down in writing. This eminent authority has discovered that the whole world is way behind in the matter of new "cuss" words. Stop right here for a minute or two and consider the question yourself. How many new "cuss" words have you heard of in recent years. For the life of us, we can't muster up a single one. The same old stock has been in use ever since the writer can remember and he can not think of a single new one which has taken the place of the old method of punctuating one's thoughts outwardly.

It has also been found by this same authority that the forcefulness of these old time bits of profanity has vanished. You can listen to a fellow now-a-days let out a string of these "cuss" words and they are just about as meaningless as if he had never employed them at all.

PCHS Homecoming

Friday, October 16, come out and enjoy the 1981 Homecoming Ceremony at Pocahontas County High School. The Warriors of Pocahontas County will host the Hillbillies of Man High School. Game time is 7:00 p. m.

This year's candidates for Homecoming Queen and Escort are: Kim Dean, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Dean, of Huntersville, escorted by Tony Valencia, son of Mrs. Josephine Valencia, of Green Bank; Letitia Cochran, daughter of Mrs. Nancy Curry, of Marlinton, escorted by Steve VanReenen, son of Mr. and Mrs. June McCloud, of Marlinton; Lisa VanReenen, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ivan VanReenen, of Marlinton, escorted by Randy Nottingham, son of Mr. and Mrs. Donald Nottingham, of Dunmore.

The Queen will be crowned by Glen O. Wade, assistant principal of PCHS, and the 1980 Queen, Jetta Cassell, and Escort, Sam Helmick, will aid in the crowning ceremony.

PCHS Band News

The Warrior Marching Band is proud to announce a successful trip to Elkins, where we received an excellent rating in the Mountain State Forest Festival Grand Parade. We were judged on playing, marching fundamentals and general effect.

The Band will receive their new uniforms this week and will be exhibiting them at the Homecoming game on October 16. We would appreciate your support at the game.

We extend our thanks to Frank Burford, of Snowshoe Resort for his great contribution of the new uniforms. We would also like to thank all who made the recent magazine drive a great success.

The band was planning to participate in the First Annual West Virginia Marching Band Festival at Fairlea. Due to low participation of bands in the event, it had to be canceled.

Outstanding Young Men

The Board of Advisors for the Outstanding Young Men of America Awards Program announced today that Walter William Weiford, of Buckeye, David Davisson Curry, and Joseph William Smith, of Marlinton have been selected for inclusion in the 1981 edition of Outstanding Young Men of America.

These men were selected from nominations received from Senators, Congressmen, Governors, Mayors, State Legislators, University and College Presidents and Deans as well as various civic groups, including the United States Jaycees which also endorses the Outstanding Young Men of America program.

In every community there are young men working diligently to make their cities, as well as their country, better places in which to live. These men, having distinguished them-

Nobody would pay the slightest attention to him at all. The only recourse he has today to produce such effects is by the means of whispering.

All of this may be true, and maybe the world is waiting for some genius to gather together the proper means of expression. If it be true, then it is just as likely that somebody here in Marlinton can supply the list of missing words, just as well as a resident of some other town. It might not only bring fame to the individual, but it may be the means of some effective publicity for the town as well.

In every community there are young men working diligently to make their cities, as well as their country, better places in which to live. These men, having distinguished themselves in one or more fields of endeavor, are outstanding and deserve to be recognized for their achievements. The criteria for selection include a man's voluntary service to community, professional leadership, academic achievement, business advancement, cultural accomplishments and civic and political participation.

My plans for succeeding in club work this year are: To write my Illustrated Booklet, write my project circular, and complete my project that I have selected for the year of 1929 and take it to the Pocahontas County fair next fall. I am also going to study my Four-H Suggestions better in the future than I have in the past and try to get every main point in them.

In order to do the following things I must keep healthy. I am trying to keep healthy by obeying the health rules. I have gained three pounds every month since school began.

I have been able to earn all my 4-H's since I joined the Four-H club this year.

What New Ideas

1. The members of our club spread Christmas cheer by singing carols at Christmas time, visiting the poor with presents, and helping with the Christmas program.

2. We discussed the Health Crusaders' Plan and made a list of things to develop our Health H by and organized a club. Each member is supposed to complete each one of these.

3. The main things listed on our club's plan of work for 1929 are: several parties are scheduled for 1929, a health play is to be given and we help with each community program every month.

4. After discussing the Big Brother and Sister Leagues suggested by Sanitary Sam we decided to organize one at our next meeting as every one thought it a very good idea.

FORD PLANS 5-DAY WORK WEEK

Detroit, Mich., Jan. 2.—To maintain a five-day week for employes and at the same time operate factories six days a week an aditional 30,000 men will be employed by the Ford Motor Co., and production increased 20 per cent before March 1, officials of the company announced here today.

Only the factory here will be placed on the six day basis at this time, but it was indicated assembly plants in other cities would be transferred to the same system as production increased.

Employment of the additional men required will bring the Detroit employment roll of the Ford company to 150,000 men. Preference will be given unemployed men now in Detroit, the announcement said, and warned that men coming here from other cities would find little opportunity for employment.

The plan calls for assignment of six men to five jobs, in order that each may have two days' rest a week.

"A six-day week is all right for machines," said Henry Ford in explaining the plan, "but a five-day week is enough for men."

It is estimated that under the plan production can be increased 6,500 cars a week and costs lowered thro' reduction of idle machinery.

Durbin will now have an organized fire department, with 1000 feet of hose and four hose wagons. This is something the town has needed since it became incorporated, but it was impossible to have any protection beyond a "bucket brigade", until last fall when the fine water system was installed.

At the last meeting of the town council, on January 3rd, R. R. Dodd was appointed fire chief with O. P. Slaven as assistant.

The ringing of the First Methodist Church bell, will be the signal, should a fire occur.

Boys In Trouble

A rather deplorable incident occurred on one of our streets Saturday afternoon, when a crowd of younger boys made sport of Sol Rexrode, a Bartow man who is a little deranged mentally

It seems that Rexrode was making imaginary arrests among the boys, and they tormented and taunted him to the extent that he began throwing stones at them to defend himself against their jeers

This started a "battle royal" which ended when a rock thrown by one of the boys cut a bad gash in Rexrode's head.

Rather aghast at what had happened, the boys made themselves scarce, while the injured man looked up a doctor to dress the wound above his left eye, which was bleeding profusely.

He afterwards reported the boys to Mayor H. H. Hudson who held

He afterwards reported the boys to Mayor H. H. Hudson who held them over for the grand jury under $500.00 bond.

The boys, who were chiefly to blame, regret very much what happened, as the stone was not intentionally aimed at Rexrode to injure him. However, what occurred should be a lesson to them, and they should receive a severe enough reprimand to convince them that rock throwing, even on general principles, is a dangerous pastime, especially when the target happens to be a person who should be protected, rather than tormented.

Forest Fire Greatest Threat To Multiple Use

The term multiple use, with the official acceptance of Congress, is a recognized term in Forestry by all forest users.

The term "multiple use" however, may have a particular meaning to each user of our forest resources. To the timber operator the chief use is for lumber, pulp, staves, and other direct products. To the hunter it means a place to harvest squirrel, deer and other animals. To the fisherman it means cool

Entertains With Dance

Misses Mary E. Bartholomew and Catchie Bartholomew gave a dance at their respective home on the evening of January 2. Square dancing was the main feature although there was some round dancing during intermissions. A very large number of young folks were there from different communities, Hillsboro, Huntersville, Frost, and Marlinton. Refreshments which consisted of sandwiches and punch were served at 12:00 o'clock. The music was exceptionally good and the gaiety of the crowd was unsurpassable. This dance was given in the nature of a New Year's dance.

Flu Claims Many Victims

The flu has been raging in and around this community during the latter part of December and the first of January. However, the disease is subsiding somewhat at present and there are few critical cases. Some claim this epidemic to be due to the weather conditions, while others believe it contagious.

Mrs. Bright Has Accident

Mrs. Mattie Bright, a very aged lady of this city had a severe accident on New Years Day, in which she fractured her leg just below the hip bone. The accident occurred when she fell, striking her leg on some object. The local physician, Dr. McNeel attended the patient. A special and trained nurse arrived from Lewisburg on the 2nd to attend her.

Are Victims of Flu

Mr. and Mrs. Albert Covington, who were coming to spend Christmas vacation with Mr. and Mrs. Tom Beard were detained in the Huntington Hospital with the flu, according to reports received here the 2nd. They are recuperating fast, but will not get the opportunity to spend Christmas here.

Marlinton Beats Green Bank

The showdown between the two county football teams took place in Marlinton Saturday night. Marlinton rolled over Green Bank 36 to 0 to rack up a 3—1 record.

Tim Buzzard started things off right by kicking the ball 45 yards in the air on the opening kickoff. In the first series of plays for Green Bank they could not move the ball and they punted to Marlinton. Mike Beverage returned the punt 34 yards to the Green Bank 21 yard line. Tim Buzzard scored on the first play from scrimmage behind the right side of the line's fine block-

Misses Lina and Josephine Browning gave a dance at their home Jan. 4th. It was an old time square dance, and was attended by young men and women from various parts of the county. The figure callers were: Swartz Hill, Tom Yeager, and Phil McComb. The music consisted of a violin, and banjo. Refreshments consisting of sandwiches and punch were served at 12:00 o'clock. The crowd dispersed at 2:00 o'clock.

J. N. Deel To Visit High School

According to reports received here Monday, J. N. Deel, of West Virginia University, acting as state inspector of high schools, will visit the local high school during the latter part of this week. The decision and report of this man will probably determine whether the school will be admitted into the North Central Association of colleges and secondary schools which the high school is trying out for.

Two Prominent Students Are Seriously Ill

Margaret Wallace of the senior class of the local high school is in a critical condition due to the flu. For several days she has been delirious.

Argil Arbogast, freshmen, took the flu which developed into a case of pneumonia last week. Although his condition is serious it is not dangerous.

down, Mike Beverage kept the ball and picked up a first down on the Green Bank 11 yard line. The Copperheads then went to their fullback, Rick Friel, who scored the second touchdown of the game. Friel scored behind the fine blocking on the left side of the line which is composed of Trigger Garretson, Albert Beverage, Erick Jack and Greg Armstrong. The extra point attempt failed, so the score was 14 to 0.

Tim Buzzard kicked off again to Green Bank. On this series Green Bank fumbled the ball away to Marlinton.

The first play was a pass of pneumonia last week. Although his condition is serious it is not dangerous.

Personal Mention

Mrs. H. Carrier is improving after a few week's illness due to an attack of flu and grippe.

Wardell Harper is able to resume his duties as manager of the Little Levels Supply Company. Mr. Harper for a week has been confined to his home on account of illness.

Summers Burr has not as yet returned to school after the holidays, due to illness.

Mrs. Sam Sheets is ill with an attack of the flu.

Mrs. Wm. Browning was confined to her bed the last weekend on account of illness.

Deputy Sheriff R. M. Bruffey, of Lobelia, was a business visitor here Saturday.

Miss Virginia Moore is confined to her bed because of an attack of the flu.

The teachers have returned from to Rick Friel, good for a first down. Rick Friel carried the ball again for a 20 yard run to the two yard line.

Tim Buzzard carried the ball over for his second touch down and the extra point attempt failed with 1.33 left in the first quarter. The score was 20 to 0.

On the next series the Eagles fumbled the ball again, and Marlinton took over on the 15 yard line. Mike Beverage, the talented quarterback for Marlinton, scored the next touchdown and the extra point.

On the next series, Tommie Pritt recovered a fumble on the 20 yard line. The Copperheads used 4 plays to score again. This time it was Rick Friel who took the pigskin in from 21 yards out. Tim Buzzard scored the extra point and the score was 36 to 0 with 6:50 left in the second

GRADED SCHOOLS BEING SCORED

Mr. E. A. Hunt, assistant State Supervisor of Rural Schools; W. E. Buckey, Principal Fairmont High School and Oliver Shurtliff, Dean of Fairmont Teachers College, are in the county this week assisting Supt. Flynn in scoring the grade schools for standardization and checking up the High Schools for membership into the North Central Association. They will remain over for a meeting of County Institute Saturday, and will be the principal speakers at the morning session.

Marlinton substituted freely for the rest of the game and this was the end of the scoring. Mike Beverage was the leading tackler with 11 tackles. Rick Friel and Stacy Shinaberry were next with seven tackles each. Robert Sharp intercepted 2 passes and Mike Beverage intercepted one.

The next game for the Copperheads will be Saturday night at 7:30 on Marlinton's field against the undefeated Tygarts Valley Bulldogs. The Bulldogs in their last outing defeated Elkins 22 to 6. This will be a tremendous matchup which will feature Tygarts Valley size against Marlinton's quickness. Coach Wilburn

The groom wore a light gray 3-piece suit with a white shirt and a tie to match. His boutonniere was a white carnation with a blue rosebud in the center, accented with baby's breath.

The mother of the bride wore a street length dress with a jacket, in purple.

Durbin Tannery Super is Fined for Polluting

Because a bucket of minnows lived only four minutes after being placed in the river opposite the Durbin Tannery, Superintendant H. M. Widney accepted an invitation Friday from State Game Protector Ernest Angelo and District Protector Theodore Moore, to appear before Justice of the Peace J. A. Patterson, at Arbovale, on that day and receive punishment for polluting Greenbrier river to the extent that fish life is endangered.

According to the story of the protectors, they suspicioned that the water opposite the tannery was rank poison, and to verify their suspicion spent an hour or so seigning minnows to give it a trial. After getting a good supply of healthy minnows, they confronted Mr. Widney and invited him to help perform the experiment. He told them where to put the minnows, and four minutes after they were placed in the water all signs of life was exterminated.

Mr. Widney was taken before Justice Patterson, and after much argumentation, the penalty was fixed at $15.00.

Bank of Marlinton Builds $10,000 Vault

With the completion of a new vault, costing in the neighborhood of $10,000, the Bank of Marlinton now offers its customers protection equivalent to that found in any bank in the country. One month ago, a contract was let to A. G. Killingsworth, local contractor, for the construction of the vault, and he immediately set to work renovating the banking room, and constructing the massive fireproof walls of the vault. The huge door at the entrance of the new security chamber is built of two kinds of steel, one layer of which can not be penetrated by the most powerful torch. On the inside is another safe in which money is kept, and it is so uniquely arranged that day-time burglars would find it impossible to gain

Perry Reunion

The descendants of Andrew and Susan Perry held their 9th annual reunion at the Buckskin Scout Camp on August 16, 1981.

Our president, Nellie Wyatt, called the meeting to order. Following welcoming remarks by Mrs. Wyatt, those present bowed their heads in silent prayer for those who were ill and unable to attend. We were sorry to have lost one member of our family in the past year, Mrs. Florina Friel.

A short business session was conducted for the election of officers and our secretary and treasurer reports were given.

Following a bountiful picnic lunch, prizes were awarded to the folowing: Door prize, Brent Moore; Youngest Girl, Janette Joye McLaughlin; Youngest Boy, Sherman Brice Taylor; Oldest Woman, Flora Johnson; Oldest Man, Layton Tharp (not that old); Married the Longest, Kermit and Nellie Wyatt; Largest Family present, Mrs. Madeline McLaughlin;

Merit Semifinalists

Three Pocahontas County High School students have been named by the National Merit Scholarship Corporation as among the 15,000 semifinalists in the competition for about 5,000 Merit Scholarships to be offered in 1982.

The students are Lisa Hogan, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Alvin P. Hogan, of Dunmore; Russell Jessee, son of Mrs. Jane S. Jessee, of Marlinton; and Mark Newkirk, son of Rev. and Mrs. Richard L. Newkirk, of Marlinton.

Over a million high school students entered the 1982 Merit Program. Semifinalists represent the top half of one per cent of the state's high school senior class.

To be considered for Merit Scholarships, the semifinalists must qualify as Finalists by meeting additional requirements.

There will be about 13,500 Finalists, eligible for about 7,000

Blackhurst—Burner Reunion

The Blackhurst—Burner reunion was held August 16, 1981, at the Cass Community Building. Approximately 150 family members from 13 states attended. The morning program featured a solo by Cathy Cree, of Indiana and an inspirational talk by Homer Blackhurst, of Bryan, Texas. Mae Freeland, of Houston, presented an up-date on new family history discoveries made recently in England. Pictures were taken of various family groups following the covered dish dinner at noon. A talent show during the afternoon featured a solo by Juliebeth Blackhurst, of Los Angeles, a dance routine by Jennifer Fauley, of Rockville, Maryland, gymnastics performance by little Shelly O'Brien, of Oswego, New York, a solo by Troy Sheets, of Green Bank, piano solos by Kathleen Shaw and Elaine Friel, of Marlinton, an art display by Rick Friel, of Marlinton, and special music by members of the Doris Blackhurst family from Marlinton. A story-telling hour of recollections was presented by William, Henry, Homer, Harold and Francis Blackhurst. The next reunion will be the first weekend in August, 1983.

Those signing the guest book were: Dean, Polly, Bill and Carol Boss, of Spring Arbor, Michigan; George and Leta Blackhurst, Meadville, Pennsylvania; Bob, Cathy, R. Retires

Doyle Kincaid has retired as rural mail carrier on Rt. 2 out of the Marlinton post office and out of the Buckeye post office. A heart condition and the doctor's orders made the decision for him. His 87 mile route took him up Browns Creek, through the Hill Counrtry, down Knapps Creek, up Sunset road, down to Swago and Spruce Flats, etc. He had 21 years service, 18 carrying mail plus 3 years in Service. He formerly worked for the State Road.

Taking his mail route will be Wilbert Smith, who has had the 60 mile Rt. 1 delivery out of Marlinton. Nannette Beckwith is the substitute carrier on Rt. 1 until an official appointment is made.

Wedding Anniversary

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Tacy, 150 Hillcrest Drive, Circleville, Ohio, were surprised Sunday afternoon, August 16, 1981, when 85 guests arrived to celebrate their twenty-fifth wedding anniversary.

On the dining table was a crocheted lace tablecloth made by Ethel Rae Eye, aunt of Mrs. Tacy, In the center stood a beautifully decorated two-tier cake and bouquets of mums and daisies. Blue bells hung from the chandelier. Punch was served from the same bowl that was used at their wedding, which was August 18, 1956.

The guests were seated on chairs in a circle in the backyard. A niece, LaDonna Brevard, assisted Mr. and Mrs. Tacy in opening and displaying their gifts and cards.

Hosts for the event were Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Brevard, Timothy and Mark Tacy.

Robert (Bob) is the son of Mrs. Dorothy Tacy, of Cass and Mrs. Tacy (Wanda) was the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Claude Tracy, of Arbovale. Both Bob and Wanda are graduates of Green Bank High School.

Mr. and Mrs. Tacy were married at the Arbovale Methodist Church by Rev. and Mrs. Clarence Walker.

First National Bank Donates 4-H Livestock

The First National Bank in Marlinton benefitted two Pocahontas County youth activities by supporting the West Virginia State Fair Junior Livestock Auction. First the First National Bank supported the sale by purchasing three 4-H lambs exhibited by Frosty McNabb, J. L. Clifton and Deborah Kiner and by purchasing a 4-H steer owned by Kenneth Irvine.

The second beneficiary was the Pocahontas County High School Athletic Department. They ware recipients of the subsequent income generated by the resale of these three lambs and steer. This donation to the Athletic Department amounted to $825.66 and will be used to support high school sports activities.

This new curriculum was funded by the Bureau of Vocational, Technical and Adult Education and will be implemented this school year. She taught Adult Education classes in typing, served as FBLA advisor, participated in career Day activities, parents night and craft committee meetings at the Center. In addition, some of her community activity involvement included directing the FBLA Club in raising $1,325 for the American Cancer Society, serving as 4-H Club Project Leader, treasurer of the Pleasant Hill Elementary School P. T. O., Bible School teacher and assistant pianist of the Mt. Zion United Methodist Church.

Earl J. Gainer, Director of the Center, pointed out that this "certainly reflects the caliber of our staff and quality of instruction being offered to our students."

Earl J. Gainer, Director of the Center, pointed out that this "certainly reflects the caliber of our staff and quality of instruction being offered to our students."

Mrs. McCallister was presented a plaque in ceremonies at the West Virginia Vocational Conference attended by approximately 800 educators at West Virginia University in August. Her family includes husband, Larry, who is County Extension Agent of Calhoun County, and daughters, Stacy, who placed second in awards for cheerleader for her Pleasant Hill School, at the cheerleading camp held at Glenville State College, and Kari. Their residence is at Mt. Zion. She has been a teacher for ten years, the last six at the Calhoun-Gilmer Career Center.

Mrs. McCallister is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James McNeill, of Buckeye.

Recreational Facilities

On Thursday, September 3, 1981, Mr. Kent Gandee, representing Gandee Thomas and Sprouse, Architects, conducted a final inspection of construction work involving recreational facilities at the Green Bank Elementary and Hillsboro Elementary-Middle School sites. The construction of the basketball-tennis facilities was made possible through the cooperative efforts of the Pocahontas County Board of Education, Pocahontas County Commission, the Pocahontas County Parks and Recreation Board and the Governor's Office of Economic and Community Development. In addition, a grand award in the amount of forty thousand dollars ($40,000) from the Federal Land and Water Conservation Fund provided valuable support for the construction of these facilities.

The contractors for the project were E. R. Totten, of Hillsboro, and McNeil Fence of Charleston. Mr. Totten's firm was responsible for the preparation and construction of each site. McNeil Fence provided the fence installation.

Accompanying Mr. Gandee on the inspection were E. R. Totten, Contractor, Leonard Howell, President of the Pocahontas County Board of Education, Harlan Kinnison, Board member, B. R. Bailey, Superintendent of Schools, and Roger Trusler, Director of Federal Programs and Chairman of the Parks and Recreation Board.

Tailgate Market A Success

The first season for the Pocahontas Tailgate Market has been called very successful by both sellers and buyers alike, according to Bob Keller, WVU County Extension Agent. Now that gardeners have generally passed their peak production the market will probably operate for three or four more weeks.

Sellers are reminded that although state law exempts the sale of agricultural products produced and sold by the producer from sales tax and business and occupation tax and franchise license and tax, sellers should report their income and expenses for federal and state tax purposes on their income tax. There has been some discussion about this among sellers, but as long as you are selling vegetables, fruits and other produce that you produce yourself, sales tax, business and occupation, and franchise tax do not apply. If you have questions about this, please contact Bob Keller, County Agent at the Court House.

Wilfong Reunion

The 29th gathering of the Wilfong family was held at Central Union Community Center on August 16, 1981. Each person who registered received a souvenir ballpoint pen and a "Hello" name tag. Over 135 relatives and friends enjoyed the love and fellowship of being together again.

After a bountiful dinner was served, we were honored to have Rev. Chuck Davis as our speaker, who

Depot Idea

On a recent Saturday morning, over a Dutch Treat cup of coffee, seventeen community-minded citizens, men and women, listened intently to an idea of a longtime resident that had been proposed to the Railroad Depot Board of Directors to make the Railroad Station a real community asset.

That proposal embodies space for railroad memorabilia and a visitors information center; a unique craft gift shop of planned and selected handcrafted items, that could be a source of additional income for quality workmanship, with one room for a workroom, demonstrations, and craft classes, the possibilities are many. The proposed idea struck an unusually responsive chord in those attending, and with many others upon hearing of it.

An enthusiastic discussion made it most evident that community-minded citizens are very much interested in the depot being properly renovated and restored, and, in its becoming a community-oriented place; the entire grounds developed for attractiveness from a long-range plan; an area that would reflect a sense of community "togetherness" accomplishment. And as such would convey to visitors and tourists, in mute but vibrant language, that we, as citizens, can make things happen, if we "put our hand to the plow!" Perhaps "Project Bootstrap" would be a good slogan to adopt!

The proposal awaits action of the Board of Directors of Railroad Depot, Inc.

DALE CURRY MEMORIAL FUND

On Wednesday, August 19, 1981, the Town of Marlinton along with people from throughout the County lost a very dear friend when Dale Curry passed away.

Dale was a long-time businessman and community leader. He was involved in many community projects that were for the betterment and enjoyment of all. One of these was the Christmas lights in Marlinton. He was instrumental in their purchase and put in many long hours every year to see that they were put up, the bulbs replaced, and finally taken down. It is felt that Dale worked so hard on the Christmas lights because it brought enjoyment to young and old alike, and impressed visitors to our Town.

For these reasons a Memorial Fund has been established to keep the Christmas spirit alive in the memory of Dale Curry.

This fund will be used to purchase additional lights, replace bulbs, or pay for any repairs which may arise in years to come.

Accidents

A motorcyle and car accident on August 24 sent David Warner, of Bartow, to the Davis Memorial Hospital with multiple injuries. Mr. Warner was riding a 1981 Honda motorcycle on the Back Mountain Road near Durbin when the cycle went left of center and struck a 1981 Chevrolet Blazer driven by Buddy Gregg, of Durbin. He suffered injury to both legs, a broken wrist, and a broken nose. The accident happened about 11:45 a. m. State Police investigated.

Other accidents investigated recently by State Police fortunately had less serious results in terms of injury.

A 1980 Chevrolet was a total loss as the result of a single vehicle accident at 4:45 p. m., August 12, on Rt. 219 near Buckeye. Everette Dunbrack, of Marlinton, was coming down Fleming Hill when he lost control of the car in a curve. It hit the guard rail and went over the bank. Mr. Dunbrack was not injured.

Another single vehicle wreck happened on the 21st at 11:15 p. m. on the Jacox Road near Jacox. Irma Vaughan, of Hillsboro, lost control of a 1980 Dodge in gravel and the car went over the bank. She was not injured and the car was moderately damaged.

A cow caused moderate damage to a 1980 Chevrolet owned by William Moore, Hillsboro. The animal was struck on Rt. 219 near Droop about 9:30 p. m. on the 23rd.

SCS

Madeline and Bernie Galford, of Dunmore, have been selected Pocahontas County Conservation Farmers for 1981. This selection was announced jointly by Neal Kellison, L. E. Montgomery, and Dewey Sharp, Pocahontas County supervisors for the Greenbrier Valley Soil Conservation District.

In October of 1966, Bernard Galford became a cooperator with the Greenbrier Valley SCD on a farm they had just acquired. Over the next two years, with the assistance of Soil Conservation Service Technicians, the Galfords developed a conservation plan. At that time their 263 acre farm was in very poor condition as far as buildings and fences, brush on the pastures, and fertility levels were concerned.

Since that time, they built 1,000 rods of fence, cleaned the brush from 40 acres of pasture, and greatly increased the fertility level and productivity of the hay fields and pastures. The fields have been limed twice, and treated according to soil test recommendations by West Virginia University. Generally the pastures are clipped twice a year.

The 19 acres of hayland and 99 acres of pasture, along with other land rented on a year to year basis, provide for a stocking rate of 48 cows, 2 bulls, 35 ewes, and 2 rams. Because of improved quality of forage, and the use of high quality registered bulls, the calf weaning rate has improved steadily. Last year, steer calves averaged 555 pounds at weaning. All lambs that were sold graded blue, which is the top grade.

Until last year, Bernie was a rural mail carrier. Because he was gone every day, Madeline had to take a lot of responsibility for the farm operation. She worked in the field and did whatever had to be done. She actually did the work to develop a spring which now provides water for a precast concrete trough.

Some 20 acres of the less productive shale land was converted to Christmas tree production. Madeline did most of the tree planting and pruning for this enterprise. The ed is now second cro trees.

While accomplishing all of this, Madeline and Bernie Galford have built a beautiful new home, and reared a family. This truly is an example of what foresight, proper planning, and hard work can accomplish.

William P. Moore

Retired Army Colonel William P. Moore, 77, a 35-year veteran of World War II and the Korean conflict, died Friday, August 7, 1981, of arteriosclerosis at Walter Reed Army Hospital. He had lived in Washington since 1955.

Col. Moore was a native of Huntersville, born July 5, 1904, the son of Peyton and Maude Jordan Moore. He joined the Army about 1920. During World War II he was stationed in both the European and Pacific Theaters, and served in Seoul, South Korea, during the Korean conflict. He also spent a tour as an adviser in South Vietnam before retiring from active duty in 1955.

His decorations included the Legion of Merit. He was a 32nd degree Mason and a Shriner.

Survivors include his wife of thirty years, Conchita L. Moore, of Washington; a daughter, Reta Lee Quave, of Covington, Louisiana, and a brother, Hugh B., of Beckley; and three grandsons, Matthew, Brett and Wesley Quave, all of Covington, Louisiana.

Funeral services were conducted at 11:00 A. M. Wednesday in Fort Myer Chapel with the Army Chaplain officiating. Burial followed in Arlington National Cemetery with full military honors.

The Pocahontas Memorial Hospital Board of Trustees met with the Commission. Pursuant to their meeting of last Thursday, the Board wanted to present the Health Committee's proposals and the Hospital's proposal for alternative developments and involve the public. A general discussion followed.

At the request of Robert Martin, the Commission went into executive session to examine an estate.

Law Enforcement Course

Local officers from the Sheriff's Department, Snowshoe Security, and the Marlinton Police Department are presently taking a course in Law Enforcement being offered by the Region IV Education Service Agency.

The course is 90 hours long and is being taught in Marlinton three days a week. Different people are instructing; this week the Chief of the Beckley Police Department is the instructor.

Accidents

The Sheriff's Department has investigated a number of accidents in the past several weeks.

Only one accident involved injuries. It occurred on Monday, August 10, on the Back Mountain Road about 0.7 miles south of Cass between 10:30 and 11 p. m. The vehicle was an Oldsmobile driven by Mark Roberts, of Cass. He lost control and the car went off the road to the right, back onto the road, across the road and into the bank. Mark and two passengers, Billy Gum and Kemper Gum were taken to the Memorial General Hospital at Elkins by the Cass Ambulance Squad suffering with cuts and possible internal injuries. The car

To People of Pocahontas:

I believe that Pocahontas County needs a land preservation program. At the current rate that we are developing our land, there won't be enough left by the year 2,000 to produce our food and we will become dependent on other countries for food.

We are steadily doing this. In 1960 we imported only 5% of our food; we currently are importing 20%.

This is how the agricultural preservation districts would work. There would be a five member advisory board in each district on a committee to decide what the land would be used for. The program would be completely voluntary. Farmland owners would be allowed to farm agricultural preservation districts in which they would agree not to develop their land for at least five years. A district would involve several landowners. Once the land is in an agricultural district, it is protected from encroachment by urban and industrial development.

I appeared before the Pocahontas County Commission on August 4 concerning this issue. The Commission would like the public to express its viewpoint on this subject.

Feel free to write the Pocahontas Times your personal opinion of this subject. Preservation is planning for the future.

Sincerely,
Farrell Kelley

The loss figure also is subject to Medicare and Medicare determinations as to what they will pay; the amount is set later this year and is paid at a still later date.

He said the C.P.A.'s report was that the balance sheet was not unfavorable, no long term debts, etc.

Mr. Aiken, of Memorial General, said the Clinic will operate with the present two physicians until further need is demonstrated. His only advice was to cut expenses, increase rates where necessary, and increase services to answer needs.

Dr. Bill Kissic, of Philadelphia, who teaches both medical and business sides, reported inability to solve these health service problems in bigger cities with more resources. In 1966 he helped set policies when they thought the United States, the wealthiest nation in the world, could attain the highest level of health care for every individual; now they are finding it almost impossible.

Raymond Gibson spoke as representative of the Marlinton Lions Club, expressing the Club's interest in support of the Hospital.

The Board continued its regular business meeting with reports and plans to help emergency room coverage.

50 Years of Service

Another honor came to Beatrice "Bee" Gladwell during the recent 4-H Volunteer Leaders' Weekend at Jackson's Mill State 4-H Camp, Weston. She drew praise for her 50 years of service to the 4-H Program in her home county of Pocahontas and at statewide events. As a leader of Buckeye Winners, she has the responsibility of working with the fifth oldest continuously existing 4-H club in the nation. The club is the oldest in the state. She's discussing her 50 years of service with Ed Rapking, who heads the statewide 4-H Youth Development Division for West Virginia University's Center for Extension and Continuing Education.

Dear Editor:

I am sure that by now almost everyone is aware that Pocahontas County is about to have a community broadcast facility. I am not so sure that most people are aware of the conflicts and mis-management that have plagued the project from its inception. WVMR is described as a non-commercial broadcast station, designed solely as a non-profit service to the community it is supposed to serve. In my opinion, the board of directors and staff should reflect and be more representative of the people in the community. This is not now the case. When the County Commission and County Board of Education withdrew their respective representatives and the so-called "volunteer" election placed sev-spective representatives and the so-called "volunteer" election placed several members on the board under questionable circumstances, community representation was a definite minority. Much of the business of the present board has been conducted with only four or five members present. Instead of setting policy the Board of Directors has attempted routine operation of the station, with disastrous results. Why does the Board insist on hiring staff people with little or no cultural or ethnic relationship to Pocahontas County? Indeed, why does the Board get involved in hiring staff members other than the station manager?

I had hoped that WVMR could be a true community station, operated by and for the people it is supposed to serve.

As the engineer responsible for construction and testing, my task is complete and WVMR should be on the air. Effective August Enjoying the family reunion with loved ones were: Mr. and Mrs. Sterl Shinaberry, Sr., their daughter, Mrs. Vincent Harper, and grandchildren, Mrs. Candace Harper McLaughlin and Bradley Harper, all of Marlinton, Mr. and Mrs. Lynn McLaughlin, their daughter, Mrs. William Campbell, and granddaughter, Renea, and Elizabeth Campbell, all of Dunmore, Mr. and Mrs. Harold Johnson, of Dunbar, and their son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Eddie Johnson, of South Charleston, Mr. and Mrs. Dale Sharp, their daughter and son-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Jerry Warren, and granddaughters, Jere and Julia Warren, all of Huntington, Mr. and Mrs. Sterl McLaughlin, of Warm Springs, Virginia, Mr. and Mrs. Charles McLaughlin, and daughter, Jeanie, of Huntersville, Mr. and Mrs. Grady McLaughlin, of Roanoke, Texas, and Mr. and Mrs. Harvey Hamrick, of Marlinton.

After refreshments everyone enjoyed a fun-time of games and singing, with a special treat of hymn singing and guitar music, by Jeanie McLaughlin.

PANTHER

Would you believe it? Some people do not. But I surely do believe this is true.

For the past month my children have been bringing me first one story and then another about a panther. For a while I did not pay any attention to the stories, until this one made me sit up and take notice.

One night about two weeks ago Mrs Ebb Green and her little daughter were coming home from the meeting being held in the Fowler school house down on Laurel Creek. All the way home they heard little sticks and leaves cracking in the bushes, but they paid no attention. Just when they got in their house Mr Bill VanBeemen came along in his car. As the lights flashed on the road the panther crouched down and then sprang up and in three jumps was across the road and out of sight.

That same night several CCC boys from Camp Black Mountain heard the panther scream.

One of the panther's dens is in a cave back on Williams River, but at the present time this animal is living in the Tea Creek Mountrin.

Those who have seen the panther say it is about six feet long. The color being a little bit darker than that of a deer. It has a large, broad head, and a comparatively slender, remarkably lithe powerful body.

The track I saw resembles that of a cat except it is as large as the palm of your hand. This was on level ground. A few feet farther up a little bank we found the track again. This time the claws had come out in order to help climb. There were five claws and the whole track was as large as your hand from wrist to finger tip. So bring your gun if you come out in these mountains.

PANTHER

Would you believe it? Some people do not. But I surely do believe this is true.

For the past month my children have been bringing me first one story and then another about a panther. For a while I did not pay any atten tion to the stories, until this one made me sit up and take notice.

One night about two weeks ago Mrs Ebb Green and her little daugh- ter were coming home from the meet ing being held in the Fowler school house down on Laurel Creek All the way home they heard little sticks and leaves cracking in the bushes. but they paid no attention Just when they got in their house Mr Bill VanReenen came along in his car As the lights flashed on the road the panther crouched down and then sprang up and in three jumps was across the road and out of sight.

That same night several CCC boys from Camp Black Mountain heard the panther scream.

One of the panther's dens is in a cave back on Williams River, but at the present time this animal is living in the Tea Creek Mountrin

Those who have seen the panther say it is about six feet long. The color being a little bit darker than that of a deer. It has a large, broad head, and a comparatively slender, remarkably lithe powerful body.

The track I saw resembles that of a cat except it is as large as the palm of your hand. This was on level ground. A few feet farther up a lit- tle bank we found the track again. This time the claws had come out in order to help climb. There were five claws and the whole track was as large as your hand from wrist to finger tip. So bring your gun if you come out in these mountains

The other Sunday night Mrs Green and children of Woodrow, were followed home by a panther. They thought they heard something following them but supposed it was a neighbor's dog, and they paid no mind. Just as they were going into their house, William VanReenan drove by in his automobile, and the lights of his car plainly showed the great cat crouched by the roadside. The varment gave a great leap as it made off toward the forest, and it was plainly seen as it crossed the road in the light by Mr Green, who was on his porch.

The next day Fred Galford brought his bear dogs to put on the tracks. However, they do say those bear fighting dogs evidenced but little interest. Mr Galford followed on but the snow had melted too fast.

Darnell and Buzzard Reunion

The 1981 Darnell and Buzzard Reunion was called to order by the chairman, William D. Buzzard. A prayer was given by our chaplain, Joe Darnell. The minutes and financial report were then read by Mary Jane Cain, Secretary - Treasurer.

It was voted to keep the history book ordered on Pocahontas County History with the reunion records and paid for out of the donations of persons at the reunion for all persons to read and see. It was brought to vote whether to split the Darnell and Buzzard reunion, but a de-split the Darnell and Buzzard reunion, but a decision could not be made, so it was decided to wait one more year, and in the meantime the Darnells would contact relatives to get their opinions for voting, or be in attendance next year on this issue.

Reservation of the shelter at Watoga for next year was passed, (August 8, 1982) but the reunion date was changed to the second Sunday in August of 1982. A motion was passed to send letters to members to notify of the reunion along with a notice in the Times. Everyone was asked to sign the attendance book and give addresses. Thirty-nine members of the GBHS of 1941 attended their first reunion at Arbovale Community Center on July 11, 1981. Teachers attending were Bardon Harper (Seneca Rocks), Swartz Hill and wife (Durbin), and Alfred Hull and wife (Greenville, Pennsylvania.)

Guy Cassell, of Nitro, acted as master of ceremonies during the program hour which followed a social hour and covered dish dinner. Each teacher and class member gave an account of their last 40 years, and recalled old memories. Members of the class traveled from Ohio, Pennsylvania, Maryland, Nevada, Virginia, New York, New Jersey, Delaware, North Carolina and West Virginia to attend, and all reported enjoying the evening very much. The next reunion will be in 1984.

Thank You

The PCHS Band Boosters would like to express their thanks and gratitude to the following people and businesses for making their drawing on July 18th a big success. Your support and generosity is greatly appreciated. A big "WARRIOR YELL" goes to one and all.

A special thanks goes to Marlinton Floral for the lovely flower arrangement they donated for our use.

In an unprecedented move, Mr. Frank Burford of Snowshoe Resort decided to donate the uniforms for the Pocahontas High School Warrior Band. Because of his benevolence, we are now able to use the money earned from the drawing for support equipment, badly needed new instruments and the necessities to access the new uniforms. Our deepest thanks and full appreciation is extended to Mr. Burford for this full expression of support.

I would like to give my personal thanks to all of the Band Booster members, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Fauber, Band kids, and friends for their help and kindness. Without the support from each and every one of you, our success would not have been as great.

$6,000 Winner: William Moore, Jr., of Moore's Ready Mix.

Three people were arrested and an half-acre of marijuana pulled up in a raid on a farm near Stony Bottom on Saturday afternoon.

Arrested were Richard Scott Judy, 22, from Upper Tract in Pendleton County, Kimberly Anne Spangler, 23, of Richmond, Virginia, and Claude Vernon Goodwin, from Sandston, Virginia. They were charged with the manufacture of a controlled substance, a felony charge. Bond was set Saturday at $50,000 and later reduced to $25,000 each. All three were released on bail Monday afternoon. Bail was provided by a professional bailbondsman from Morgantown. A preliminary hearing will be held on September 9.

The raid followed several weeks of surveillance by State Police and the Sheriff's Department. The raid was led by State Police Trooper Earl Boylan, assisted by Troopers Perry Baker and J. S. Powers, Sheriff Dezzy Kellison, and Prosecuting Attorney Steve Hunter.

The half acre of well-tended marijuana was pulled up and made three pickup truck loads. The plants ranged in height from two to about seven feet. At the jail the plants filled three rooms in the basement. They were taken to the Huntersville dump Monday evening and burned. A sufficient sample was kept for trial purposes.

In addition, the officers found small plants waiting to be planted as well as stakes that had been painted green ready to be used to support the plants. Marijuana plants grow to over ten feet in height. What appeared to be drying racks were also observed. The street value of the marijuana destroyed has been estimated from $250,000 to $500,000.

The property involved was recently purchased from Peter Beutell by a Charles Gordon, who has a New York address. Police are attempting to get in touch with Mr. Gordon. No charges have been placed against him.

In addition to the marijuana plants, a car, pickup truck, and tractor were confiscated.

Greenbrier River Study

A well attended public meeting was held on the Greenbrier River Wild and Scenic River Study at the Courthouse July 13. The meeting was conducted by John Hazel, of the U. S. Forest Service. The Forest Service was designated as the agency to make the study to determine if the river qualifies to be included in the National Wild and Scenic River System. The study team, headed by Mr. Hazel, includes representatives not only from the Forest Service but also other federal and state agencies.

As reported several weeks ago the study team has determined that the entire length of the Greenbrier River does qualify for inclusion in the system.

Mr. Hazel reviewed the qualities that are looked at in order to determine if ments for inclusion. These qualities are recreational, scenic, geological, fish and wildlife, historical, water volume, water quality, length and whether the stream is free flowing. It was determined that the Greenbrier River is good to outstanding in all these categories with only minor non-qualifying features.

Within the wild and scenic river systems, streams or portions of streams are classified as either wild, scenic or recreational. No part of the Greenbrier meets the standards for a wild river but portions were found by the study team to be suitable for scenic or recreational designations. Scenic sections are the East Fork from its head to about Camp Pocahontas and the mainstem from Durbin to Caldwell. Segments classified as recreational are the entire West Fork, the East Fork from Camp Pocahon-

Pocahontas County Girls are Runner-up in Tournament

The Pocahontas County girls' basketball team finished their season Saturday night in a very hard fought game with Braxton County in which Pocahontas was defeated by three points in an overtime.

Pocahontas advanced to the finals by defeating Clay County on Friday night with a score of 33 to 28. Susan Kershner speared the scoring attack with 16 points, aided by the rebounding of Kathy Burks and a tremendous defensive effort by Lottie Buzzard.

Braxton County advanced to the finals by defeating Gilmer County who had beaten them twice during the regular season.

Pocahontas took an early lead in the Pocahontas-Braxton game which they held throughout the third quarter to show a score of 20 to 14 at the end of third. Pocahontas' offense was unable to maintain their momentum and the regular game ended in a 21-21 point tie. Braxton scored 6 points to Pocahontas' 3 in the overtime to give the final score of 27 to 24, Braxton favor. Susan Kershner and Cathy Patton each scored 8 points and Kathy Burks pulled down 9 rebounds. Lottie Buzzard again turned in a tremendous defensive effort along with 4 points.

In addition the study team has indicated some alternatives for the river ranging from doing nothing, including the entire river in the system, or parts of it in the system.

Following public response to this preliminary report, the Draft Environmental Impact statement will be prepared by spring of next year. Following public reaction to the Draft EIS, the final EIS will be written containing the study team's final recommendation to the President and Congress on the future of the Greenbrier. The ultimate decision on the inclusion of the Greenbrier into the system is made by Congress.

If the river becomes a part of the system, a managing agency will be selected. This could be a federal, state, or local agency. The managing agency would then have a year to develop the management plan for the river.

Mr. Hazel stressed that the idea behind the Wild and Scenic River System is preservation and that existing uses of land along the river would not be affected. However, there will be some restrictions on future land use along the river, particularly in the scenic classification segments.

For example, normal farming, non-clear cut timbering and additions to existing structures would be allowed but new structures and activities would be restricted, depending

Warriors Basketball

The PCHS Warriors Basketball Team has been victorious by decisive margins in its first two games of the season. Bath County fell by a score of 81 to 55 on Friday and Tuesday Elkins was defeated, 92 to 76.

In the Elkins game all five PCHS starters scored in double figures. Timmy Cutlip had 35 points, Jim Ryder 16, Ricky Doyle 14, David Jonese 13, and Albert Pondexter 10. Pondexter's skilled hands were responsible for 5 steals and [illegible] Doyle [illegible] in assists with 5 and Cutlip had 7 steals and blocked 2 shots. In rebounds Ryder got 12 and Jonese 10. Overall PCHS made 47 per cent of their shots.

In both games the team played well together and showed a lot of hustle.

The next three games for PCHS are all away. The squad travels to Richwood on the 16th, then to Union on the 19th, and finally to Highland County on the 23rd for the last game until January.

existing structures would be allowed but new structures and activities would be restricted, depending upon their visibility from the river.

What is actually included in the system is a corridor that encompasses the river and a certain amount of land on either side. On the Greenbrier the preliminary corridor averages about 1000 feet on each side of the river. The width of the corridor fluctuates depending upon how far visibility extends from the river.

Mr. Hazel also stressed that land acquisition is not a major objective once a river is in the Wild and Scenic River System. The Greenbrier Study to date indicates only minor land acquisition for access points to the river or the development of recreation sites. It would be hoped that land purchase could be done on a willing seller basis although the managing agency would have the power to condemn the land.

(It was not mentioned in the meeting, but was pointed out to this writer that in the acts including other rivers in the system, a clause was included prohibiting condemnation once public ownership reached 50 per cent. Along the river public ownership amounts to 31 per cent of the land involved in the corridor at the present time. In the section from Anthony north, public ownership is now 48 per cent).

Although Mr. Hazel pointed out several times that the possibility of a dry dam on the Greenbrier above Marlinton for flood control, purposes was not part of the Forest Service river study, the subject kept coming up. A dry dam on the Greenbrier is part of a study now being conducted by the Army Corps of Engineers. One item being studied is using the Bluestone Dam at Hinton to generate electric power. If this was done the normal pool level at Bluestone would have to be raised and thus the reservoir would lose some of its flood control capacity. To compensate for their lost capacity, one idea under study is the dry dam above Marlinton. This dam would be a large structure, some 1100 feet long and 124 feet high. The dam would have culverts through it and normally the river would

It was obvious from the questions that the main concern of those present was what control there would be of land along the river if it is included in the system. In response to one question, Mr. Hazel stated that private landowners will still be able to post their land along the river even if the river does become part of the system of Wild and Scenic Rivers.

It was obvious from the questions that the main concern of those present was what control there would be of land along the river if it is included in the system. In response to one question, Mr. Hazel stated that private landowners will still be able to post their land along the river even if the river does become part of the system of Wild and Scenic Rivers.

As this was not a public hearing there were only a few statements of support or opposition to the Greenbrier becoming part of the Wild and Scenic River system. Speaking in

Black Mountain Bluegrass Boys

Appearing this weekend at the 1981 Pocahontas County Mountain Music and Bluegrass Festival will be the Black Mountain Bluegrass Boys. The band consists of four members, all of whom are residents of Pocahontas County. The Members are: Richard Hefner, banjo and tenor vocal; Dave Buck, guitar and lead vocal; Ron Parks, harmonica and vocal; Johnny Burks, bass and vocal.

Richard is a native of Pocahontas County and has been playing traditional bluegrass since the late sixties. Richard comes from a musical background where his grandfather was a fiddler and his grandmother played the banjo. He has many banjo championships to his credit, including two time Maryland State Champion and Virginia State Champion. Richard has played with such bluegrass greats as Lester Flatt, Ralph Stanley, Everett Lilly, Jim and Jesse and Del McCoury, and as a member of Bill Monroe and The Blue Grass Boys. Richard resides in Mill Point.

Dave is the guitarist and lead vocalist for the group. Dave is originally from Bradford, Pennsylvania, and has been playing music all his life. He started playing bluegrass in 1963. Dave has been a resident of Clover Lick for 5 years.

Ron Parks, harmonica player, was born and raised in Fairfax County, Virginia. He became interested in bluegrass music in the late sixties and early seventies after hearing Bill Monroe, Ralph Stanley, the Black Mountain Bluegrass Boys, and Stompin Crick. Ron has been a member of Stompin Crick since 1975 and has just recently been playing with the Black Mountain Bluegrass Boys.

Johnny Burks, bass player, is a native of Pocahontas County and is a newcomer to bluegrass music. He became interested in bluegrass only 8 months ago and, at that time, decided to learn to play the bass and he has been playing ever since.

The Black Mountain Bluegrass Boys would like to invite you to come see their shows at 10:30 p. m. Friday; 4:00 p. m. and 11:45 p. m. on Saturday.

Dear one, if we could call you back
From yonder's distant shore
That you might live down here again
As you did once before
We would think and think and think again
Ere making such request
For He who called you to that shore
Always knows what's best

Your stay with us was all too short
So far as we are concerned
But thinking of that place and this
We would not have you returned
For while that place is filled with bliss
This one is filled with sin
So we will be striving day by day
Up there to enter in

'Twas nice to have you come along
And let us know your love
And leave with us that welcome note
To meet you above
Of course, it's so lonesome like
Since you moved away
But all our loneliness will flee
One glad reunion day

May you always walk in sunshine
God's love around you glow

worker at Watoga State Park, on June 4. Hauer was last seen the following Monday. Smith's body, with three bullet holes in the head, was found on Wednesday, June 11, in the Lobelia Saltpeter Cave, right close to Hauer's home, after a last will and testament paper of Hauer's was found in his house telling of the murder and where Smith's body was and that his own body would eventually be found in a cave, hence the exhaustive search of caves in the area that followed.

Permission to print the paper was denied Monday as it is part of criminal evidence but it evidently will have to be recorded to effect the transfer of the 28 acre farm which Hauer wanted to go to the Nature Conservancy, a national group dedicated to preserving areas in their natural state. The typed will was signed but not witnessed.

Hauer had been indicted for Smith's murder at the October Term of Court and so the case is judged a murder-suicide and the case considered closed.

worker at Watoga State Park, on June 4. Hauer was last seen the following Monday. Smith's body, with three bullet holes in the head, was found on Wednesday, June 11, in the Lobelia Saltpeter Cave, right close to Hauer's home, after a last will and testament paper of Hauer's was found in his house telling of the murder and where Smith's body was and that his own body would eventually be found in a cave, hence the exhaustive search of caves in the area that followed.

Permission to print the paper was denied Monday as it is part of criminal evidence but it evidently will have to be recorded to effect the transfer of the 28 acre farm which Hauer wanted to go to the Nature Conservancy, a national group dedicated to preserving areas in their natural state. The typed will was signed but not witnessed.

Hauer had been indicted for Smith's murder at the October Term of Court and so the case is judged a murder-suicide and the case considered closed.

The lady soon afterwards moved away but she left us christened with a new name. About twenty years ago the town almost unanimously petitioned Washington to change the name to MeGraw. This change of name was refused because there was a postoffice in West Virginia by the name of McGraws. And so the name continues to be Marlinton, and it would be a bold bad citizen who would suggest a change of name now that a large and important town has developed under it, and has succeeded in acquiring more "good will" than any of the impor-

The first business of any kind established here was a combined sawmill and carding mill built by James A. Price before the Civil war and which was located in the low place called the slough along the boulevard leading to Campbelltown, just opposite the home of A. C. Pifer.

It was run by water power, and the water came from Stony Creek. An effort to augment this power by water from the Greenbrier River from an intake just below the mouth of Stony Creek failed, and the plant itself was washed away in the flood of 1877, which is the highest water of which

Elected Chairman of Faculty Assembly

James Samuel Brill, a native of Marlinton, has been elected chairman of the Faculty Assembly at West Virginia Tech.

The Assembly, composed of all full-time faculty members and some administrators, is the basic legislative body of the college. It deals with all matters of academic policies and standards.

Dr. Brill was band director at Marlinton High School from 1950-67 and director of the Center for Instructional Technology at Tech from 1968-77. Dr. Brill holds bachelors and masters degrees in music education from West Virginia University and an Ed. D in instructional technology from the University of Southern California.

His wife, the former Peggy Coleman of Mount Hope, taught at Hillsboro and Marlinton High Schools. She now teaches business at Valley High School in Smithers.

Okolona's Primitive Painter

By Wade Hall

Mrs. Bryant is the former Blanche Oscar. She will have a display of her paintings in Marlinton during Pioneer Days. The article is from the May 1977 issue of Louisville (Ky) magazine.

Blanche Bryant admits that when people started calling her 'Grandma Moses,' "at first I didn't know who they were talking about, and it made me mad." Although she does have six grandchildren, she's only in her mid-40s. But since she began painting about six years ago, she has developed a style similar to that of primitive

He died of cancer in 1966, leaving her with eight children who now range in age from 15 to 26.

In 1969 she married Lucien Bryant, a native of Bagdad, Ky., and an assistant foreman at Kurfee's Coatings. They live on Blue Lick Road in Okolona in a comfortable, well-kept brick home. Three of her children live with them. "Next to my husband," she says, "my children are the most important thing in my life."

Most of Blanche Bryant's pictures are landscapes. "I like to paint the outdoors," she explains. "When I was a kid I was always outdoors." As a girl she picked wild strawberries and raspberries, caught crickets to feed the fish in a nearby pond, gathered wildflowers in the woods and climbed trees.

Predictably, there is nothing unpleasant in her paintings. "I paint only what I like, and I don't like ugly things." Indeed, there is no hint of sadness or disease or violence in Blanche Bryant's ideal world. Humans and animals alike are beautiful, strong and healthy. Children play joyously. Animals look out unafraid from safe, idyllic settings. Houses are freshly painted. Smoke rises soothingly from chimneys. Well-dressed families go to picturesque churches. Evil is banished; God is in His heaven, and all's right with the world.

Mrs. Bryant has the primitive painter's fondness for stylized detail. Her pictures must be closely

The next was the present graded school building, a substantial brick, which has become too small though augmented by a still finer high school property. We had a great time building that eight roomed brick graded school, and there were many that predicted that there never would be a time when there was need of one half such a building. Blanche Bryant admits that when people started calling her 'Grandma Moses,' "at first I didn't know who they were talking about, and it made me mad." Although she does have six grandchildren, she's only in her mid-40s. But since she began painting about six years ago, she has developed a style similar to that of primitive painters like Grandma Moses.

Her family encourages her painting. Mrs. Bryant gives her husband much of the credit for her reputation. He insists that she exhibit her works in art shows and fairs. In fact, she started oil painting because of him. She used to do their interior house-painting in order to keep him from doing it. "When he paints, he drops paint on the floor," she alleges.

One day her husband came in from work, watched her for a while as she painted the walls of a room, and observed, "Blanche, you know, you're a good painter." After that, she kidded him about having married an artist. Finally, she decided she should find out if she could paint a canvas as well as she could paint a wall. "I just went out to the store and got me some oil paints and started."

Like other primitive painters, she has had very little formal instruction. About four years ago, she attended several night classes taught by Catherine Crabtree at the Louisville YWCA. After she started exhibiting, she considered taking lessons from an artist she met at a show. "But he told me he couldn't teach me anything because I had my own style of painting and for me to go on like I was doing," she recalls. His opinion has since been corroborated by other artists and art critics, who have identified her pleasant ill her only what I like, and I don't like ugly things." Indeed, there is no hint of sadness or disease or violence in Blanche Bryant's ideal world. Humans and animals alike are beautiful, strong and healthy. Children play joyously. Animals look out unafraid from safe, idyllic settings. Houses are freshly painted. Smoke rises soothingly from chimneys. Well-dressed families go to picturesque churches. Evil is banished; God is in His heaven, and all's right with the world.

Mrs. Bryant has the primitive painter's fondness for stylized detail. Her pictures must be closely examined to reveal the numerous tiny lines and specks of color. One of her works-in-progress is a small landscape that may look complete to the casual observer. Actually Mrs. Bryant isn't quite finished with it. She has painted a well, several evergreens and many yellow flowers, and has placed two cardinals on a nest. But she still has some work to do, she says, on the blades of grass near the well and the beak on one of the cardinals.

Although many of her paintings are owned by friends and members of her family, serious collectors have begun buying her works. Her paintings have been shown in many places in Kentucky. In addition, she has exhibited at a museum in Marlinton, W. Va., and she once had an impromptu show at a lake resort in Colorado, where she and her husband were on vacation. Her paintings are also on exhibit in the Rental and Purchase Gallery at the J. B. Speed Art Museum.

She enjoys meeting people and talking to other artists—"I've never met an artist who didn't like to talk."

Painting does not occupy all her time. "I've been what I'd say was a good mother and a good cook. At least, my husband's plenty fat. But there's just something about the house that I'm not exactly crazy about," she confesses. "I do housework but I don't Like other primitive painters, she has had very little formal instruction. About four years ago, she attended several night classes taught by Catherine Crabtree at the Louisville YWCA. After she started exhibiting, she considered taking lessons from an artist she met at a show. "But he told me he couldn't teach me anything because I had my own style of painting and for me to go on like I was doing," she recalls. His opinion has since been corroborated by other artists and art critics, who have identified her talent as natural and instinctive.

She paints because "it's something I like to do," usually starting a picture with a single idea or image. "I see something in my head I want to paint; then I sketch and I build around it as I go." One of her colorful fall landscapes started with a white fox, which she painted in the center of the canvas. When she finished with the fox, she began to fill in with trees, flowers and a waterfall. The completed picture shows the fox very much at home in a lush forest setting.

Although Mrs. Bryant maintains that she "paints what I see in my head," it's apparent that much of the imagery comes from her girlhood in West Virginia. She was born in 1930 on Stephen Hole Run in Pocahontas County, W. Va. Growing up in the mountains during the Depression was not easy. She lived with her mother and her stepfather until her mother died, when Blanche was only nine. After that, she lived in a succession of foster homes. It was a hard life, but she believes that "God provides a way for everybody." It taught her self-sufficiency. "I always helped myself."

Mrs. Bryant moved to Louisville in 1949 to look for work. She found employment at a series of restaurants, including several Howard Johnson's, and was working in a local cafeteria when she married her first husband.

she and her husband were on vacation. Her paintings are also on exhibit in the Rental and Purchase Gallery at the J. B. Speed Art Museum.

She enjoys meeting people and talking to other artists—"I've never met an artist who didn't like to talk."

Painting does not occupy all her time. "I've been what I'd say was a good mother and a good cook. At least, my husband's plenty fat. But there's just something about the house that I'm not exactly crazy about," she confesses. "I do housework but I don't like to. I love to go out fishing—sick or well, anywhere and everywhere." She and her husband have fished in several states and almost everywhere in Kentucky, except Lake Cumberland, where they're planning to go this summer.

Mrs. Bryant also plays the guitar and the harmonica a little, but only for herself. And she occasionally writes verses to accompany her paintings. The first painting she did was a poem/painting for her husband that is also a tribute to her adopted state of Kentucky. It is a blue skyscape with a border of tobacco plants, goldenrods and cardinals. Reaching out from the borders are boughs of dogwood or cherry or holly (take your pick, she says) heavily laden with berries for the cardinals. Painted over this scene are the following words:

Keep the blue grass growing green;
Everywhere beauty to be seen.
Near to nature you will be.
Tobacco blooming in the field.
Underneath a sky so blue,
Cardinals singing to me and you.
Kentucky's land will yield;
You will share it too.

The first letters of all the lines, she points out, spell Kentucky.

Blanche Bryant evidently always knew what she wanted to be—deep down. She remembers that when she was 10, back in West Virginia, her

Pioneer Days

The banners are going up, flags are flying, and everybody is busy.

There will be all kinds of food, from corn dogs to pit barbecued beef, and continuous activities.

Please buy a badge. The Marlinton Rotary Club has kindly assumed the responsibility of selling badges. The badges are red with a replica of the old McNeel Mill at Mill Point. This provides the foundation money for Pioneer Days.

May people have the complete set of badges displayed on a velvet ribbon and it makes a beautiful display.

The first entertainment will ne next Wednesday night at the First National Bank. George Daugherty and the Sweeney Brothers will perofrm. Bring a lawn chair and enjoy the evening. The Square Dance

1926 Class Holds Reunion

The Green Bank High School Class of 1926 held a reunion June 13, 1981, marking the 55th anniversary of their graduation. Of the 25 original class members, eight attended. Seven are deceased and two are in nursing homes. Others not attending live in Arizona, Florida, Pennsylvania, Virginia and Ohio.

The group met at Green Bank School where a plaque, that had been placed on the grounds, was dedicated. The plaque was in memory of Green Bank High School which had closed in 1970 after serving the community for over half a century.

Glenn Tracy, class chairman, welcomed class members and visitors. The invocation was given by Rev. Dave Rittenhouse. Songs were led by Mrs. Laura Jean Rittenhouse. Mr. Mack Brooks, a 1924 graduate of the school, a former teacher, principal and County Superintendent of Pocahontas County was the guest speaker. He gave the early history of the school stating that Cass, Durbin, Dunmore and Green Bank citizens each wanted the school in their community with the Green Bank site being chosen. During the early years of the school transportation was not provided. Students walked or rode horseback. A barn was built at the lower end of the school lot where the horses spent the day. Mr. Brooks mentioned some of the important positions held by many of the Green Bank graduates. It is believed that all are out in the world trying to make it a better place in which to

New Attraction

A Tractor and 4x4 Pull has been added to the Saturday's events of Pioneer Days. Scheduled for 4 p. m. on Saturday, at the Horsemen's Arena at the old Fairgrounds, the event will feature two classes, 5,000 and 6,000 pounds, for stock 4x4 trucks, and four classes for non-turbo tractors (farm and stock), 5,000, 6,500, 8,000 and 10,000 pounds. Pioneer Days and the Pocahontas County Horsemen's Association will sponsor the pull and John Moyers, Jr., and Bob McCray, of Highland County, will provide the equipment and run the show.

The Horse Pull will be held Saturday morning and will be sponsored by the West Virginia Draft Horse and Mule Association. Robert McLaughlin will help organize this event.

There will be no Pony Pull this year.

OPEN LETTER
To The Citizens of Pocahontas County From Earl Harris, WVMR Manager/Administrator

I am taking this opportunity to briefly share with you my thoughts and feelings after one short week here at WVMR.

First, I am delighted to have been given the opportunity to participate in this very exciting project. WVMR will have a key role in shaping the future of this area. What makes WVMR so unique and so exciting is that it belongs to you—the listening public. It is your tool for shaping the quality of life in Pocahontas County and surrounding areas.

What makes WVMR so unique and so exciting is that it belongs to you—the listening public. It is your tool for shaping the quality of life in Pocahontas County and surrounding areas. Every effort has been expended to insure that everyone who will hear this station can have a voice in guiding its use. You can decide who serves on our Board of Directors! You can decide what kinds of programs will be heard! You control the tool of radio in Pocahontas County.

How often have you or someone you know complained about the quality of TV or radio programs heard on commercial stations, and yet felt powerless to do anything about it? Now you have that chance.

I hope each of you will come to appreciate the unique opportunity that is yours and will choose to make your voice heard on the air, in our surveys, on our Board of Directors, on our Community Advisory Board, or by simply calling the station and telling me directly what is on your mind.

Pocahontas Belle

Mrs. Emma Beard was chosen to represent Pocahontas County at the West Virginia Folk Festival, June 18-21. As our local "Belle," Mrs. Beard carries on a twenty year tradition of helping to remind all those attending the festival of West Virginia's heritage while taking part in all the festival activities.

Some of the highlights of this whirlwind weekend included an Old Time Fiddler's Contest and riding on the Belles' Float in Saturday's Lion's Club Parade.

Each Belle represents one of West Virginia's fifty-five counties and is at least seventy years young.

Mrs. Beard said the highlight of her visit at the West Virginia Folk Festival was supper Saturday evening with Senator Robert Byrd, who sat at her right and discussed his family

Mrs. Diana Barton, of Slatyfork, the reigning Miss Wheelchair West Virginia, will be present at the Lewisburg Vocational Rehabilitation office on the afternoon of Monday, June 22, 1981. Mrs. Barton will appear in connection with an "Open House" at the Lewisburg office, 106 South Court Street. The "Open House" is being sponsored jointly by the Greenbrier County Committee for Disabled persons and the West Virginia Rehabilitation Association.

In addition to Mrs. Barton, representatives from most public agencies in the community providing services for disabled persons will be present from 1:30 to 3:30 to explain their programs and answer questions concerning availability of services. Agencies expected to be represented include Department of Welfare, Handicapped Children Services, Canaumount, Southeastern Regional Sheltered Workshop, Greenbrier Valley Mental Health Center, Greenbrier Center, Greenbrier County Board of Education Special Education, Regional Education Service Area Personnel, Department of Veterans Affairs and others working in the field of services for the disabled.

Slide presentations of the services of the West Virginia Rehabilitation Center will be shown continuously. Many types of aids for the blind, deaf and the disabled homemaker will be on display. There have been many developments in the field of aids to the handicapped in recent years and it is the purpose of the "Open House" to share these new concepts with the public.

United Nations General Assembly has designated 1981 as the international year for disabled persons. It is worldwide in scope and attempts to call to the attention of the general public problems disabled

Mrs. Diana Barton, of Slatyfork, was crowned Miss Wheelchair West Virginia on June 6 at the Rehabilitation Center at Insitute. She was chosen from among seven contestants by three judges. First runner-up was Dinah "Libby" Washington, now training as a data-computer processor. A banquet and reception were held honoring the contestants and they received many gifts and were later guests of honor at the Ramada Inn.

Pictured with Mrs. Barton are her daughter, Jeanette. Her escort was Roger Parsons, of the National Guard. Her mother, Mrs. Josephine Wooddell also attended the festivities. Mrs. Barton and her husband, John, also have three other children.

The contest for Miss Wheelchair U. S. A. will be held in Columbus August 12-16.

Coach Brooks Coach of Year

First year football coach Harold Brooks has been named the recipient of the initial NRVC Coach Of The Year Award. By the recommendation of former NCHS Coach, Daryl Bennett, the NRVC will select a Coach Of The Year in both football and basketball. Coach Brooks inherited a group of inexperienced and extremely small young men and quickly turned them around. The Grizzlies responded to his tutoring, winning the NRVC football championship.

The Coach Of The Year Award is selected by a secret ballot of the twelve member schools; however, no school may vote on a member of its coaching staff. In completely reversing the record of a year ago. Coach Brooks was an obvious choice to those of Summersville.

Paul McKown, secretary of the NRVC made the announcement official with a letter to Coach Brooks on Friday. Being selected as Coach Of The Year is nothing new to Coach Brooks as he was selected Track Coach Of The Year in the Big 10 Conference while coaching at Elkins High School. Many coaches may coach for an entire career without receiving the recognition they richly deserve. At the young age of 29, Coach Brooks has been selected twice for this distinguished honor. Everyone hopes for recognition by their peers. Coach Brooks is most deserving of the award and although it will be difficult for him to improve on his first year at NCHS, you can bet he'll be working harder than ever.

Coach Brooks' wife ... are both from Dunmore. Mrs. Brooks is also teaching at Nicholas County High School in the business education department.

attempts to call to the attention of the general public problems disabled people face throughout the world, despite the ability and the capacity of most disabled people to function in the mainstream of society.

Randolph Bourne once wrote "The Doors of the handicapped are always locked and the key is on the other side. He may have treasures of charm inside but they will never be revealed unless the person outside cooperates with him in unlocking the door." The International Year of Disabled Persons is an attempt by society to unlock those doors to the handicapped.

Along with the educational programs of IYDP for the year is the opportunity for permanent license plates for disabled persons.

OIL & GAS LEASING

All landowners, whether they have leased their land or may be thinking about leasing for oil and gas rights will want to attend the upcoming educational meeting on Oil and Gas Leasing and Drilling. This meeting is arranged by the Pocahontas Mountaineers for Rural Progress and the WVU Extension Service and will deal with legal, tax, geological, regulatory, and reclamation concerns of leasing your land.

The meeting will be held on Wednesday, June 17, at 7:30 pm at the Court House. A panel of speakers will deal with the various areas and will include W. Va. Oil and Gas Conservation Commission, W. Va. Geological Survey, Soil Conservation District, Attorney, Assessor, and Industry representatives.

Similar meetings in other counties have been well attended and very useful to landowners. Plan to attend. For further information contact Bob Keller, County Extension Agent.

Letter

To the Editor:

We the young people of Pocahontas County, face the same problem year after year. In order to better our future we must leave this county to go to school or to find a decent job. We would like to be able to stay here in Pocahontas County to be near our friends and families, but with the situation of jobs this has become impossible. As children we attend school here until the time graduation arrives, at this time we realize we have to leave. A lot of us don't want to leave. The jobs that we have been trained to do at the High School don't exist here in this county. Why can't Pocahontas County offer employment to its young people opposed to no employment for 90 per cent of us, forcing us to leave our loved ones and our homes? Most of us think it would be nice to be given the chance to make a decision about leaving rather than to be forced to do so to become a successful part of life in the future.

Thank you,
Some of the Young People of Pocahontas County.

Letter to Editor

A few months ago the news media said Social Security has been funded and protected until the year 2000. Now we hear the song and dance story that the Social Security system will be bankrupt in late 1982. This is a typical case of how the Government runs things, in fact, the Government can't run anything but a red ink factory, and they use all the ink. You can be sure of one thing, Social Security will be paid if anything is paid. This is the people's money that Congress has frittered away not the government money. The politicians can't stand to see a dollar lying around, they find a way to spend or throw it away a some quack ideas, that is why we have a trillion dollar national debt that takes 90 billion dollars of taxes per year to pay the interest on it. This is one big reason industry doesn't have money for jobs. It is why we have high inflation. We have to find ways to stop this insanity. We have to get things back to the local level so they can be done efficiently and serve the best interest

Fowler-:-Walton

On May 2, 1981, at 2 P. M., Donna I. Walton and Michael H. Fowler were united in holy matrimony in the Wesley Chapel Methodist Church in Hillsboro.

Traditional wedding music was played by Candy Sampson. Rev. Verlin Butcher performed the double ring ceremony.

The bride wore an ivory embroidered satin over lace wedding gown, long sleeves with scalloped cuffs, neckline and hemline and matching mantilla. She carried a bouquet of pink and white rosebuds with cascades of pink ribbon. She was escorted and given in marriage by her father.

Maid of honor was Cynthia Clutter, friend of the bride. She wore a floor length dress of blue.

Bridesmaids were Tonja Wiley, friend of the bride; Robyn Walton, sister of the bride,, Whitney McClendon, of Orange, Virginia, niece of the groom, and Sheila Blake. They wore differnet shades of green dresses with green ribbons

I've joined with many of my House colleagues in asking President Reagan to protect the jobs of 2,300 West Virginians who are employed by shoe companies in the state.

These plants are located in more than a half dozen towns and cities in the state and they make a significant contribution to our economy. More importantly, they provide steady employment for West Virginians.

My request to the President asks that he approve the International Trade Commission's recommendation that quotas on shoe imports from Korea and Taiwan be continued for three more years.

In recent years, imports from those and other countries have captured nearly half of the shoe market in the United States. For instance, in 1980, 48.9 per cent of all shoes sold in the United States were imported.

Bear Killed

A 364 pound, sheep killing bear was killed Sunday on a hunt authorized by the Department of Natural Resources in northern Pocahontas County.

The bear was the largest recorded by the DNR since it began keeping records in 1971 of bears trapped either as sheep killers or for installation of radio transmitters to follow their movements and enable game biologists to gain information on the animals.

The one killed Sunday was trapped on August 8, 1975, and fitted with a transmitter collar. At that time, it weighed 160 pounds and was estimated to be 3½ years old. The 1975 trapping and release occurred less than two miles from where it was killed Sunday.

Dick Hall said the largest bear in DNR annals was "Old Tobe," a resident of the French Creek State Game Farm who died a few years ago of bone cancer. "Old Tobe" weighed more than 600 pounds. But Hall said bears in captivity and fed a regular diet grow fatter than bears in the wild.

Pocahontas County Conservation Officer Gerald Morton said the bear had killed five sheep on the farm of Buddy Greathouse on Back Mountain Road between Durbin and Cass and two sheep on an adjoining farm.

The one killed Sunday was trapped on August 8, 1975, and fitted with a transmitter collar. At that time, it weighed 160 pounds and was estimated to be 3½ years old. The 1975 trapping and release occurred less than two miles from where it was killed Sunday.

Dick Hall said the largest bear in DNR annals was "Old Tobe," a resident of the French Creek State Game Farm who died a few years ago of bone cancer. "Old Tobe" weighed more than 600 pounds. But Hall said bears in captivity and fed a regular diet grow fatter than bears in the wild.

Pocahontas County Conservation Officer Gerald Morton said the bear had killed five sheep on the farm of Buddy Greathouse on Back Mountain Road between Durbin and Cass and two sheep on an adjoining farm.

The first school taught at Cove Hill near Frost was approximately in 1894 by J. M. Barnett.

Douthards Creek schoolhouse was built in 1910. It has also been used for preaching services and Sunday School.

A one-room building was first at Minnehaha Springs. It was probably erected twenty-five years ago. The two-roomed building was put up in 1915. W. L. Herold was the contractor.

Homes—The pioneer homes have mostly been replaced by new modern buildings. A telephone line reaches nearly every one. Many of the houses have been provided with water system and light plants.

The only brick residence in the valley is the one where I. B. Moore dwells. Mr. Moore's father had this house built. The man who had the contract burned the brick and did all the work for the consideration of two sorrel horses. The home has been well preserved to this day.

Conclusion—In conclusion I wish to say that Knapp's Creek Community has furnished to the world ministers, college professors, a judge, doctors, lawyers, civil engineers, teachers and people of many professions. Seven teachers have come from Douthard's Creek School alone since 1910.

We are all very much indebted to Rev. Wm. T. Price for the history he recorded and left us. It is to be hoped that the people of each neighborhood will follow his example and keep a record of future events in a more accurate manner than they have in the days past.

Dog Problems

Each year, especially in the spring of the year, reports of dog damage in sheep flocks and home gardens reach epidemic proportions, according to Bob Keller, County Agent. The amount of death and destruction even one dog can do in a short time is alarming especially to the farmer. The major reason for decline of sheep numbers here is dog damage. Not only is this a loss to that farmer but also, it is a loss to the county tax base, and the other business that farmers income generates.

Pocahontas County has an excellent dog catcher. Floyd Walton of Hillsboro. During his three years in that job he has removed over 7,000 dogs from the Pocahontas countryside. And there is still plenty more out there. Many of them are stray and abandoned dogs but many that do damage are also pets and hunting dogs.

Mr. Walton can use your help. If you have an unwanted dog, call him. Don't throw it out down some back road. If you have dog problems on your farm or home, call him. He'll get to work on the problem. His phone number is 653-4863. Laws of West Virginia pertaining to dogs are very

History of Knapps Creek Community

Consisting of "The Hills," Frost, Knapp's Creek, and Minnehaha Neighborhoods

Written by Enid Harper, In 1924

In the eastern part of Pocahontas County, West Virginia, is Knapps Creek which has its source in the Alleghany Mountains about five miles above Frost. Its two branches unite at Frost from which place it continues to flow along the base of the mountains to the place where it empties into the Greenbrier River at Marlinton, a distance of almost twenty miles from Frost. The East fork of the creek is fed by a stream which comes forth out of the rugged mountain side near Paddys Knob, a peak with an elevation of 4450 feet.

One of the principal tributaries of Knapps Creek of the Minnehaha neighborhood is Douthards Creek which carries with it the waters of Cochrans and Laurel Creeks. At Huntersville Knapps Creek receives two other streams, Browns Creek from one side and Cummings Creek from the other.

Springs.—Along the valley are numerous limestone springs, the waters of which are cold, an indication of purity. These help to make the creek larger. The first of them is a bold spring gushing out from under a hill near the fine home of S. Gibson. Further down the valley we find the stream called Hill Run near I.B. Moore's which receives water from a number of springs within a half mile. Next is the Mill Run at D.W. Dever's flowing through his farm where fine cattle graze. From here we go on to W. G. Ruckman's where there is another stream of about equal volume. The source of it is also a magnificent never-failing stream.

Last but not least is the famous Minnehaha Spring on the Lockridge property. The crystal water of this spring is of a healing and medical nature. It has been shipped to various parts of the country.

Origin of Names.—"The Hills" is the hilly region on the northwest of the valley. These are very productive lands and are excellent for fruit and grazing. They were at one time heavily timbered but now only small tracts remain uncut.

The creek from which our good community takes its name was known as Ewings Creek in the earliest land papers but was soon changed to Knapps Creek in honor of a man by the name of Knapp who came into the

The Pearl S. Buck Birthplace was entered last Thursday night. The person or persons involved forced open a window to gain entry. Merchandise with a total value of $67 was taken as well as $1.50 in cash. Also a soft drink machine was destroyed in a futile attempt to get money from it. The Sheriff's Department is investigating. Due to tips from citizens about $55 worth of the stolen items have been recovered.

This was the second break-in there last month. On May 13 the building was entered and $67 in cash and a $50 check taken from a safe. State Police are investigating this break-in.

While here Knapp lived in a cabin on the west side of the creek about opposite the place where Mrs. P.L. Cleek now resides. It is not definitely known what became of him.

Indians.—There are evidences that the Indians once roamed through the thick forests which covered what is now our beautiful section of country. Pieces of flint have been found by our citizens which were no doubt used by the Red Race. There was an Indian burial ground on a flat above the road a short distance up the valley from I.B. Moore's dwelling. Indications were to the older people that several Indians had been buried here. It has been said that a few relics were found in later years when some excavations were made.

Early Settlers.—Michael Dougherty, a native of Ireland, settled in our valley near where W. G. Ruckman lives about the year of 1770. He was one of the first to occupy the Knapps Creek Region.

The same year Moses Moore of Virginia, came to Knapps Creek. It is interesting to note that he bought the land extending from J. L. Herold's to D.

with the grist mill Mr. Harper had a sawmill which has already been mentioned, a tan yard, and one of the old fashioned tilt-hammer blacksmith shops. The tilt-hammer was run by waterpower. The mill for grinding grain crushed the kernels between two large revolving stones which were brought from Rockbridge County, Virginia. It was not used longer than 1896.

A mill of later years was the one built by Wellington G. Ruckman on the same stream where Michael Daugherty had the first one. Mr. Ruckman did grinding on this mill for a period of eleven years, discontinuing the industry probably twelve or fifteen years ago.

Offices—A postoffice was established at the village of Frost in 1853. Francis Dever was the first postmaster. In conversing with the oldest person in the community, Mrs. Ellen Buzzard, who was ninety-nine years of age on June 23, 1924, she says she does not remember how the name originated, but the presumption is that the name Frost was given to the office on account of the high altitude. Early storekeepers were Francis Dever, Stuart Wade, Samuel Gibson, and J. B. Hannah.

Before "Uncle Sam" favored the people with a Rural Free Delivery Route there was a post office on Knapps Creek near the Mt. Carmel and Westminster Churches known as Sunset. Someone suggested this VanReenen. After their return home, the Van Reenens had her son-in-law and daughter, Mr. an Mrs. Frank Meadows, Pasadena, Maryland, visiting here for the weekend.

Ft. A.P. Hill honored two of its most outstanding employees in a recent ceremony at post headquarters.

Warehouseman Oliver H. Tacy of Bowling Green was presented a Sustained Superior Performance award for his outstanding work from March, 1980, to March, 1981. During that period, Tacy assisted in issuing supplied to military units training at Hill.

Tacy

A veteran of three wars, Tacy served as an Army cook in the United States and Europe during the Second World War. Mustered out after the war, he re-entered the Army as a supply sergeant in 1951 during the Korean War, and served 16 months in Korea. He also served a year in Vietnam before retiring from the Army in 1969. He began working at A.P. Hill in 1971.

A native of West Virginia, Tacy and his wife Anna have six grown children.

A certificate for 35 years of federal service was also presented to Clifton G. Bryant, chief of Hill's Direct Support Maintenance Division.

Also a veteran of World War II, Bryant served in the Navy from 1939 to 1945. He served as a motor master aboard three different submarines, and aboard the battleship Texas, all in the Pacific theater. After the war, he worked as a jet engine technician at a General Electric plant in Massachusetts. He was hired as a heavy equipment mechanic at A.P. Hill in 1960. He became chief of direct support maintenance in 1966.

Lockridge, deceased, a nice hotel was built for the accommodation of tourists and all those seeking a pleasant summer resort surrounded by beautiful mountain scenery. The next year the Allegheny Club House was built. It is also a magnificent building, well located on a hill overlooking Knapps Valley. When these improvements were made the name of the place was changed from Driscol to Minnehaha Springs, an Indian name signifying "Laughing Water."

When mail was first carried to the early established offices it was only brought on Wednesdays and Saturdays. One of the early mail routes was Huntersville to Mill Gap in Virginia.

When mail was first carried to the early established offices it was only brought on Wednesdays and Saturdays. One of the early mail routes was Huntersville to Mill Gap in Virginia.

Roads—The people were very much handicapped in their efforts to travel. Like Daniel Boone when he went to Kentucky they had to make the roads when they came to the country. The first known road leading from what is now Virginia into the Knapps Creek Valley came across the Allegheny Mountains just opposite the old Harper Mill. We find from the old land grants made by governors of Virginia where corners were called for on this road which was then known as Knapp's Spur, or the Spur Road. This name was likely given it because it was the road traveled by Mr. Knapp

The first wagon brought to Pocahontas County was brought over Knapp's Spur Road and was taken up the hollow where Westminster Church now stands and which was known as Ervine Hollow at that time, and on to Clover Lick where it was used.

As the valley improved and fields fenced the road was kept on the Allegheny side the greater part of the way. On account of the shade and ice there in winter parts of it were changed from time to time until the entire road was made on the opposite side of the valley. The last change was made about forty years ago by two colored men, Jacob Kernel and Andrew Daughterty of Frost.

The State re-graded the road in 1923, making it much wider to accommodate the increased traffic.

Buzzard Family History

A small book on the Buzzard Family in America is presently being prepared by Monte Buzzard. Although mainly covering the descendants of Henry Buzzard, information on the origina of the Buzzard name, the family coat of arms, and other branches of the Buzzard family will be included. Also, part of the book will be data from computer files on the Buzzard name in England and names of people doing research on the branches of the Buzzard family.

This book will contain over 100 pages and should cost in the $5—$8 range. It is to be sold on a pre-order basis.

For more information on this project, contact Mrs. Ruth Horner, Dunmore, 456-4450 or Mark Bussard, P. O. Box 1, Hot Springs, Virginia 24445.

Pearl Buck Birthplace Acquisitions

Visitors to the Pearl S. Buck Birthplace in Hillsboro, this summer will find a new item of interest recently added to the house museum. Hanging on the front hallway wall is a lovely photograph of Pearl S. Buck, which was contributed by Virginia C. Campbell of Sinks Grove in Monroe County.

Virginia Campbell is a native of Beard, the daughter of the late Denny and Rexford Callison. She is a professional photographer and took this portrait at the "Quality of Living" Seminar at Hillsboro in 1971, when Miss Buck was a guest speaker. Mrs. Campbell entered the print in "The Greenbrier Valley Arts and Humanities" juried show in 1972 and it was awarded a special purple rosette. The judge commented that she liked so much the expression of Miss Buck's eyes.

The original photograph-portrait had a table with white tablecloth in front of Miss Buck. This, along with a distracting background, Mrs. Campbell had brush-etched by specialists in this work. It was then sprayed for protection from dust and ultra violet rays. So it is an extra-special and valuable addition to the Birthplace furnishings. It fills a void need since the Foundation does not own many Pearl Buck portraits. (We do have a lovely oil portrait painted and donated by Kay Teal, of Williamstown, West Virginia.)

Anyone having photographs of Miss Buck and or her family who would care to share them with the Foundation should contact the Executive Director, Mrs. C. Hyer, at Box 126, Hillsboro.

Another picture still needed is the "Birth Room" of a sharecropper's cabin, reading a flock of sheep down a road between hills. This was a favorite picture of Pearl Buck's father, Dr. Absalom Sydenstricker) is now almost completed at the Birthplace site, we are needing antique furnishings for the log section, which was built in 1834. The log section will hold household furnishings of the 1834-1880 period, and we especially need Sydenstricker family memorabilia.

Also, we still need some additional items for the Stulting barn, and hope to find someone living in the local area to furnish large pieces of farm equipment that would have been used about 1892, the birth year of Pearl Buck and the date of the restoration period of the Birthplace, maternal home of her grandparents, the Stultings.

Our search continues for out-of-print books written by Pearl Buck, and also books by her sister, Cornelia Spencer.

The first few items have been donated for use in the Sydenstricker House. Mrs. Lucille Zinn of Buckhannon donated a trunk and violin. Mr. and Mrs. Dwight Trushel of Weirton have donated a settee and matching chair, which Miss Julia Price of Marlinton had reupholstered for the Foundation. Mrs. Zinn and Miss Price are on the Foundation's Board of Directors, who along with the other members, donate much time and service, and sometimes money, to support the Birthplace and its projects.

A spool bed and night stand [illegible] for the Sydenstricker house by Mr. and Mrs. Paul A. Horner of Clarksburg. A most attractive and unusual picture made of human hair was also donated recently by Mrs. Harry Dolan and Mrs. J. C. Shanklin of Ronceverte, in memory of Mr. and Mrs. Newton H. Beard.

From Braxton County we have had donations of a rustic, hand-made cradle from Ruth Corena Keith (Mrs. Alvin L.) of Burnsville, and a Bible written in Chinese by Mr. Kenton Meadows of Gassaway.

One major piece of furniture remains to be found for the Girls' Room in the Birthplace—a Secretary in dark wood, walnut or cherry, or mahogany.

If you have any items of furnishings you would like to donate please contact Mrs. Charles Friedman, Furnishings Committee Chairman, Nether Hills Farm, Rt. 2, Ronceverte, or Mr. Hyer, or Mrs. George Holyman, President of the Pearl S. Buck Birthplace Foundation, Inc., 940 Riverside Drive, Gassaway, West Virginia 26624.

The Birthplace Foundation is a tax-exempt, non-profit, educational organization, currently in a three-year Major Funds Campaign, seeking public financial support. We would welcome Memberships, Donations, Donations to the Pearl Buck Birthplace Trust Fund, and any special donations for the Sydenstricker House Fund, to assist in [illegible]

Directors extend an invitation to YOU to visit the Birthplace this summer and fall to see this historic house museum, the restored barn, and the progress on the Sydenstricker House reconstruction. Long-range plans include eventually restoring other farm buildings so that it will be a completely restored farm, and developing the whole farm into a Memorial Garden honoring our famous native daughter, Pearl S. Mrs. Alice Friel

Alice Montgomery Friel, 75, of Clifton Forge, Virginia, died Monday, May 18, 1981, in Greenbrier Manor Nursing Home in Fairlea, following an extended illness.

Mrs. Friel was born January 6, 1906, in Seebert, a daughter of the late E. Auburn and Maggie Stewart Friel.

A resident of Clifton Forge since 1978, she was a member of Central United Methodist Church.

She was a matron at Davis Stuart Presbyterian Home in Lewisburg for some time and was a matron at the Methodist Children's Home in Richmond, Virginia, for a number of years.

Surviving her are two brothers, Dan O. Friel and Robert E. Friel, both of Covington, and two sisters, Mrs. Helen Yeager, Marlinton, and Mrs. Louise Chaplin, of Clifton Forge; also a number of nieces and nephews.

Preceding her in death were three brothers, Glenn Friel, John Friel and Carl Friel.

Funeral services were held at 2 p. m. Wednesday, in the Chapel of Loving Funeral Home in Covington, Rev. Roy Miller officiating. Interment was in Alleghany Memorial Park.

The performance characteristics should be identified during the goal setting conference. The portfolios maintained by the administrator and the supervisor shall be included as part of the evaluation documentation.

F. The administrator's signature on the evaluation form denotes that the supervisor has reviewed the evaluation with the administrator. The administrator's signature does not imply concurrence with the evaluation and/or its rating. The administrator shall receive a copy of the evaluation. The administrator has the right to include a written statement as an addendum to the evaluation. An addendum and the signature of the administrator must be affixed to the evaluation not later than five working days following receipt of the written evaluation.

IMPROVEMENT PLAN FOR ADMINISTRATORS

A. An improvement plan shall be developed by the supervisor and administrator when an administrator's performance is unsatisfactory in any area of responsibility.

B. The improvement plan shall designate how the employee shall meet the performance characteristics.

The improvement plan shall:

1. identify the deficiency(ies)
2. specify the corrective action to remediate the deficiency(ies)
3. contain the time frame for monitoring and deadlines for meeting the performance characteristics, and in no case shall an improvement plan be for more than one semester in length, and
4. describe the resources and assistance available to assist in correcting the deficiency(ies).

C. After an employee has successfully corrected deficiency(ies), the employee must continue to demonstrate improvement.

D. Nothing in this Section shall supersede the provisions of WV Code 18-2E-6, 18-3-4 or 18A-2-8.

ADMINISTRATORS' RESPONSIBILITIES

PERFORMANCE EVALUATION OF SCHOOL PERSONNEL

The Pocahontas County Board of Education is committed to ensuring that school personnel employed in the public schools of this county are evaluated in a fair and equitable manner and within a uniformly applied system. This policy is established to set parameters for observations and evaluations, identify components for improvement plans and improvement teams and identify performance criteria for teachers.

PURPOSE

This evaluation policy has two major purposes:

1. To promote professional growth and development and quality performance, and
2. To provide evaluation data as one basis for sound personnel decisions.

DEFINITIONS

A. Conference: a meeting between the supervisor and employee or among the improvement team and the employee focusing on employee's performance, the employee's performance during an observation, an evaluation or an improvement plan.

B. Evaluation Instruments: the approved evaluation form(s) containing the performance criteria.

C. Performance Criteria: indicators of stated job responsibilities used to evaluate the performance of an employee.

D. Observation: the process of collecting data on the employee's job performance.

E. Rating: an exemplary, exceeds standards, meets standards, or unsatisfactory value assigned to the performance of an employee.

F. Portfolio for Teachers: a collection of materials assembled and selected by the employee to document commendable job performance. The portfolio may be used by the employee during the observation or the evaluation conference. The compilation of this documentation is optional.

G. Portfolio for Administrators/Professional Support Personnel: a collection of materials assembled and selected by the employee to document goal attainment. The portfolio may be used by the employee during the observation or the evaluation conference. The compilation of this documentation is required.

H. Professional Growth and Development Plan: a plan designed and developed by an employee and his/her supervisor for continued professional growth.

I. Classroom Teacher: the professional educator who has direct instructional relationship with pupils.

J. Professional Support Personnel: the professional educator whose title includes but is not limited to the following: athletic trainer, counselor, education audiologist, school nurse, school psychologist, social service and attendance, and speech language pathologist.

TEACHER CODE OF CONDUCT

The Pocahontas County Board of Education recognizes that the capabilities and conduct of teachers greatly affect the quality of education provided students in the public schools. Students deserve, and the general public expects, each teacher to demonstrate a commitment to excellence, equity and effectiveness in performing the role and responsibilities of a teacher. The purpose of the Teacher Code of Conduct is to define appropriate standards of conduct for teachers in the public schools of Pocahontas County.

To provide students with quality educational opportunities which reflect both excellence and equity, every teacher in the public schools of Pocahontas County shall:

1. Demonstrate a belief that all students can learn;
2. Give assignments that make learning relevant;
3. Teach responsible citizenship and life skills;
4. Treat each student fairly;
5. Promote a safe and positive learning environment;
6. Be a good adult role model;
7. Exhibit a caring, honest and professional attitude;
8. Maintain professional growth and development;
9. Communicate with parents;
10. Recognize the community as a partner in educating students;
11. Maintain confidentiality; and
12. Abide by policies and regulations.

A copy of the Teacher Code of Conduct will be provided to all teachers employed in the county, including substitute teachers.

The school principal shall consider the Teacher Code of Conduct in evaluating each teacher's professionalism pursuant to State Board Policy 5310.

SUSPENSION AND DISMISSAL

In accordance with the authority vested in the Board by Chapter 18A of the School Laws of West Virginia, the Board has the right to suspend or dismiss any person in its employment at any time for: immorality, incompetency, cruelty, insubordination, intemperance, willful neglect of duty, reporting to work as identified by job performance-under the influence of alcohol, narcotics or other illegal controlled substances, or distribution of illicit drugs or alcohol by employees on school premises, unsatisfactory performance, the conviction of a felony or a guilty plea or a plea of nolo contendere to a felony charge. A charge of unsatisfactory performance shall not be made except as the result of an employee performance evaluation pursuant to section twelve of this article. The charges shall be stated in writing served upon the employee within two days of presentation of said charges to the board. The employee so affected shall be given an opportunity, within five days of receiving such written notice, to request, in writing, a level four hearing and appeals pursuant to provisions of article twenty-nine, chapter eighteen of the code of West Virginia, except that dismissal for the conviction of a felony or guilty plea or plea of nolo contendere to a felony charge is not by itself a grievable dismissal. An employee charged with commission of felony may be reassigned to duties which do not involve direct interaction with pupils pending final disposition of the charges.

The superintendent has the authority to suspend school personnel for temporary periods of time pending a hearing upon charges filed by the Superintendent with the Board of Education. This temporary period of suspension shall not exceed thirty days unless extended by the Board.

TENURE

Since the State of West Virginia has made it mandatory that all new teachers be employed on probationary contracts, the Board of Education has adopted a policy that no tenure contract be granted to a new employee until said employee shall have held and taught under three probationary contracts, each of which has been granted for the period of one school year.

A teacher's contract, under this section, shall be for a term of not less than one nor more than three years, one of which shall be for completion of a beginning teacher internship pursuant to the provisions of 18A-2-2b of the State Code, if applicable; and if, after three years of such employment, the teacher who holds a professional certificate, based on at least a bachelor's degree, has met the qualifications for the same, and the board of education enter into a new contract of employment, it shall be a continuing contract: Provided, That any teacher holding a valid certificate with less than a bachelor's degree who is employed in a county beyond the said three-year probationary period shall upon qualifying for said professional certificate based upon a bachelor's degree, if reemployed, be granted continuing contract status: Provided, however, that a teacher holding continuing contract status with one county shall be granted continuing contract status with any other county upon completion of one year of acceptable employment if such employment is during the next succeeding school year or immediately following an approved leave of absence extending for more than one year.

Before reemployment for a second or third year or for continuing contract, each probationary teacher shall have received from his/her principal and/or his/her supervisor a recommendation of approval.

Tenure contracts may be awarded to all professional personnel who meet the above requirements.

APPOINTMENT AND TENURE

When the Board of Education has appointed a teacher, it is necessary that the teacher submit to the county superintendent's office any or all of the following materials that have not been submitted prior to the appointment:

a. Application
b. Transcript of College Credit
c. Valid Teacher's Certificate
d. Record of Teaching/Work Experience (when applicable)
e. Teacher's contract, properly executed
f. Withholding Exemption Certificate (with Social Security Number)
g. State Teacher's Retirement Membership Enrollment Form
h. Insurance Forms
i. Criminal History Record Check (Fingerprinting)
j. Copy of Social Security Card
k. Updated Tuberculin Test
l. Employment Eligibility Verification and Proper Identification Documents

Since the State of West Virginia has made it mandatory that all new teachers be employed on probationary contracts, the Board of Education has adopted a policy that no tenure contract shall be granted to a new employee until said employee shall have held and taught under three (3) probationary contracts, each of which has been granted for a period of one (1) full school year.

If the new employee has a continuing contract with any county, continuing contract status shall be granted after the completion of one year of acceptable employment if the employment is during the next succeeding school year or immediately following an approved leave of absence extending no more than one year.

Attainment of tenure as a result of three (3) consecutive years shall be based solely on the interests of the service and not on the interest of the person immediately concerned. Such tenure is based not only on success already achieved, but on evidence of growth warranting the expectation of greater future service to the boys and girls of Pocahontas County.

Pocahontas County History Book

Now that the holiday season is about over and the New Year upon us, the Pocahontas County Historical Society wants to remind everyone of the January 31 deadline for the ordering of copies of the new History of Pocahontas County. This date is also the deadline for the submission of family histories for inclusion in the book.

The number of books printed will be the same as the number of books ordered-if you do not order by January 31 you will not get a book.

There are two reasons for this deadline. Both involve finances. The Historical Society is not in the position to order more books than we know we have orders for and run the risk of having books left over and no money to pay for them. The second reason is to books ordered, the bigger it will be.

The deadline on the family histories is necessary in order to determine the amount of space in the book will be needed for the family history section. Thus on January 31, we will know the number of pages available for county topical history and can plan the length of their articles accordingly (also most of us need to have a deadline or we never get around to getting things done).

Remember each household is invited to submit a 500 word family history and one photo to be used in the book at no charge.

The book will not be complete unless your family is included so start to work now! More information on writing your family history in next week's paper.

special school board meetings.

All delegations or individuals who wish to appear before the Board are encouraged, but not required, to submit their requests to the Superintendent by Monday preceding the regular meeting date, stating what matters they wish to take up with the Board and the approximate time such matter should consume at the meeting. Such items will normally be included under Hear Callers on the agenda of the meeting at which the delegation or individual wishes to appear before the Board. Each delegation appearing before the Board shall select one person in advance as its spokesperson. Although the Board of Education always welcomes and encourages public participation, there may be times when the Board needs to limit the time for individual presentations because of the number of Hear Callers or because of the length of the particular meeting agenda. The Board, therefore, may if necessary place a time limit on each presentation. The Board reserves the option of waiving the time limit. If the presentation may require additional time, the Board may also move the presentation to later in the agenda.

Board Policy Development

It is the intent of the Board to develop policies and put them in writing so that they may serve as guidelines and goals for the successful and efficient functioning of the Public Schools.

The Board considers policy development its chief function, along with providing the wherewithal such as personnel, buildings, materials, and equipment for the successful administration, application, and execution of its policies.

The Board accepts the definition of policy set forth by the National School Boards Association:

> Policies are principles adopted by the School Board to chart a course of action. They tell what is wanted; they may include why and how much. Policies should be broad enough to indicate a line of action to be followed by the administration in meeting a number of problems; narrow enough to give clear guidance. Policies are guides for action by the administration, who then sets the rules and regulations to provide specific directions to school district personnel.

It is the Board's intention that its policies serve as sources of information and guidance for all people who are interested in, or connected with, the Public Schools.

The policies of the Board are framed, and are meant to be interpreted, in terms of West Virginia laws, rules and regulations of the State Board of Education, and all other regulatory agencies within our local, county, state, and federal levels of government. The policies are also framed, and are meant to be interpreted, in terms of those educational objectives, procedures, and practices which are broadly accepted by leaders and authorities in the public education field.

POLICY ADOPTION

Any business which would constitute a change in Board policy shall be referred to the Superintendent for his consideration and recommendation and shall be placed on the agenda for a regular meeting of the Board. A majority vote of the membership shall be required to enact new policy or make policy changes, except as state law or special rules of this Board may require a larger vote.

Policies presented to the Board of Education will have a first reading wherein they are explained. Proposed policies will be made available in the Superintendent's office and at each of the schools for public review/comment. Approximately one month later, the policies will be presented to the Board with a recommendation from the Superintendent for action. The Board of Education may waive the first reading on policies in situations where they feel immediate passage is needed. This would be done only on rare occasions where immediate attention is required. A policy may be amended in the same way that a policy is adopted. Any policies or rules of the Board may be amended, suspended or revoked by a majority vote of the Board.

This photo is of young Randall Grimes, the miracle baby. Randall, five months old Wednesday, weighed only one pound and eight ounces when born on August 21. He now weighs in at about 9½ pounds and is a happy, healthy baby. He has been home with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Terry Grimes, of Dunmore, since early December. Mrs. Grimes reports that Randall is testing normal in all ways and seems to show no ill effects from his premature birth.

THE SUMMER SCHOOL.

What Will You Do About It?

Every well organized and well equipped college is conducting a fourth term, or summer school. Three or four months is too much time for students and teachers to waste. In the Summer School most of the regular courses are offered, some twice a day, six days in a week. For teachers the Summer School is the only chance. It furnishes an excellent opportunity to those who are ambitious to be advanced, especially to those who are striving by means of the Summer School to get credits on college work. This can be easily done. It is perfectly possible to save almost a year in regular college work in three or four summer term sessions.

If you have not already done so, write today to the Elkins Summer School for detailed information as to courses and terms. You can attend school almost as cheap as you can stay at home. Address J. E. Allen, or N Phay Taylor, Manager, Elkins, W. Va.

Water for Durbin-Frank-Bartow

Ten years of hard work to provide adequate water for Frank and Bartow citizens and to bring the present Durbin water system into compliance with State and Federal laws came to a successful conclusion on Tuesday. Sam Jennings, Chairman of the Upper Greenbrier Public Service District (PSD), used a valve in the treatment plant to represent the opening of the valves at the home or business of each PSD customer in Frank and Bartow. The work of turning on the water for these customers was to begin today. The State Public Service Commission has issued the tariff for the PSD and charging will now begin.

The system has 110 customers in Frank and Bartow and about 188 in Durbin. Of the total, about 35 are business. Homes pay a flat rate of $6.90 per month and businesses pay based on usage.

The major source of water for the system is the spring on Back Mountain that has been the water supply for Durbin for years. The Greenbrier River will

Water for Durbin-Frank-Bartow

Ten years of hard work to provide adequate water for Frank and Bartow citizens and to bring the present Durbin water system into compliance with State and Federal laws came to a successful conclusion on Tuesday. Sam Jennings, Chairman of the Upper Greenbrier Public Service District (PSD), used a valve in the treatment plant to represent the opening of the valves at the home or business of each PSD customer in Frank and Bartow. The work of turning on the water for these customers was to begin today. The State Public Service Commission has issued the tariff for the PSD and charging will now begin.

The system has 110 customers in Frank and Bartow and about 188 in Durbin. Of the total, about 35 are business. Homes pay a flat rate of $6.90 per month and businesses pay based on usage.

The major source of water for the system is the spring on Back Mountain that has been the water supply for Durbin for years. The Greenbrier River will

The Greenbrier River will serve as a supplementary source as needed when the flow from the spring is low. Water from the river will be run through the treatment plant at least 8 hours a week to ensure that the equipment is working properly.

The cost of the system was $393,000 for the treatment plant; $461,992 for the distribution system, and $95,555 for the storage tank.

Funding consisted of $788,000 as a Community Development Block Grant from the Department of Housing and Urban Development, $210,600 from the Appalachian Regional Commission, $50,000 in Revenue Sharing Funds from the County Commission, and two loans of $50,000 from the Bank of Marlinton and the First National Bank in Marlinton.

New Postmaster

Eleanor J. Dilley has been appointed postmaster of Slatyfork, WV 26291, it was announced January 15 by the Eastern Regional Headquarters of the United States Postal Service.

Dilley was one of 20 postmasters appointed simultaneously in the states of Maryland, New York, Pennsylvania, Virginia and West Virginia.

The Eastern Region appointments, effective January 10, 1981, add to the increasing number of postmasters named by the U. S. Postal Service under the non-political merit system established by the Postal Reorganization Act of 1970.

Recommendations for appointments of postmaster are submitted by Regional Management Selection Boards, consisting of postal and non-postal members.

Postmaster Dilley has been in the Postal Service since 1970, first serving as a leave replacement and then being converted to a career appointment as a Post Office Clerk in 1972, both at the Slatyfork office.

Prior to her appointment, she had been serving as Officer-in-Charge at Slatyfork.

Congratulations were extended to Postmaster Dilley by Thomas A. Mansmann, Manager, Mountaineer District, and Albert L. Evans, MSC Manager/Postmaster, Clarksburg, MSC.

Mrs. Mary Margaret Wooddell Darby, of McLarenvale, Australia, is visiting her mother, Mrs. Belle Wooddell, and her family at Green Bank this month.

The Pocahontas County Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service (ASCS) is now accepting applications for the Agricultural Conservation Program (ACP). The sign-up period will continue through March 13, 1981.

Farmers are encouraged to sign up as soon as possible because their practices must be approved by the County ASC Committee before the work can begin. Farmers who start practices prior to approval are ineligible for cost-shares.

ACP shares with farmers the cost of meeting their most critical conservation needs. Program funds are available for lime and fertilizer on meadow and pasture; developing springs; constructing ponds; controlling multiflora rose; critical area stabilization; planting forestry trees; and improving existing stands of woodland. These practices are designed to provide enduring solutions to the problems of farmland being a source of agricultural pollution or land affected by wind or water erosion.

For more complete details on specific practices, call or visit the local ASCS Office before March 13.

State Song is Repudiated.

The Dispatch-News of Parkersburg publishes the following:

The state board of control will repudiate the $1,000 song and music recently accepted by the sub-committees of the state centennial commission, by refusing to pay the prize money over to the authors. The accepted song was written by S. E. Kiser. The music was by J. N. Innis.

This information, placed first in the hands of the Dispatch-News, was confirmed by President James S. Lankin, of the board, who was called by the Dispatch-News on the long distance telephone. Mr. Lankin said that the strong sentiment against the committee's selection had been sufficient to convince him that the song would not be generally accepted by the public, that it would therefore fail to fill the purpose and that the people's money would be expended for something which apparently the people did not want.

In 1855 he represented Wood county in the General Assembly of Virginia and by successive elections continued in that capacity until 1860. He became an ardent new State man, and was president of the Second Wheeling Convention which assembled June 11, 1861, and which reorganized the Restored Government of Virginia and prepared the way for the formation of West Virginia. He was elected first Governor of West Virginia; was inaugurated June 20, 1863, and by successive elections served until 1869, when he was elected a member of the United States Senate, in which body he served six years. Thereafter he resumed the practice of law in Parkersburg, where he was later elected Judge of the Circuit Court, and served eight years, his term beginning January 1, 1889. On Sunday, June 14th, there will be afforded to every church, pastor and congregation, regardless of creed, color or belief, color, kith or kin, a splendid opportunity to fervently, patriotically and religiously observe the fiftieth anniversary of the formation of the State of West Virginia and its admission into the Union. Of the hundreds of church edifices in this state which lift their heads heavenward to make appeal of humanity to the Maker, it is to be hoped that not one will be vacant and that there will be in each and every one some special form of service in commemoration of this all important event.

We are all too wont to measure the greatness and standing of our Commonwealth by its commercial activity and the busy hum of industry, when in fact, it lies not there, but in the personnel of the citizen himself. And what has done more, what can do more to cultivate this refining influence, that results in this especially high standard of citizenship, than the church.

While we have grown commercially while our natural resources have been an important factor in our uplift, nothing has done quite as much, not even education, for a man is never truly educated until he has the proper conception of his moral obligations and responsibilities, as has the church and its auxiliaries.

Thus it is mete that this Sabbath should have the special consideration in this connection, of every pastor in every church from Hancock to Wyoming, and from the crest of the Alleghenies to the confluence of the waters of the Ohio and Big Sandy rivers.

No better purpose could be served by the churches on this day than by observing it with a strong, patriotic as well as historical thesis, bearing on the formation, admission into the Union and the subsequent growth and development of our state and its citizens. The evening could well be occupied with a "Song Service," which would prove a pleasant diversion and renew the patriotic zeal of the congregation people regardless of political affiliations, inspire a new sense of patriotism in the young, give us a better knowledge of the state in which we live, make out of us better citizens on account of same and altogether prove a pleasant as well as a profitable occasion.

J. Cliff Matheny, of Monterey, accidentally shot himself with a high powered rifle, last Tuesday, and is in a very critical condition. He was putting a high powered automatic rifle in his automobile and holding it by the muzzle. The gun was accidentally discharged, the bullet entering the lower part of his body, perporating his bowels and smashing his hip bone. It was either a mush room or explosive bullet and made a terrible wound. His condition is critical.

Dr. C. F. McClintic, of Williamsburg, Greenbrier county, was in Marlinton on Tuesday. It is probable that he will be a candidate for the Democratic nomination for Congress in this District composed of Boone, Word was received last week of the death of George L. Hannah, at his home at Kendallsville, Indiana, on Wednesday, April 12, 1922. His age was about 60 years. No particulars have been received. He is survived by his wife, who was Miss Eutaka Hull, and their two children. Also by his daughter, Mrs. Callahan, of Beard. Mr. Hannah was a native of Pocahontas county. A few years ago he moved to New Jersey, and from there to Indiana. His older brother, Andrew Hannah died at his home at Valley Head, Randolph county on Thursday, April 6, 1922.

Attendance at the Methodist Sunday School last Sunday was 202, fifteen less than the Sunday before. At the Presbyterian Sunday school there were 172 which was 30 less than the Sunday before. Jeanne stayed at the hospital two and a half months, when she weighed six pounds and four ounces. The Vivienne in her name comes from Nurse Tenney at the hospital. The little baby became a favorite of the nurses, you know. She had a special formula, directed by a pediatrician in Charleston.

It was several years after Jeanne was born before the medical profession learned that the oxygen used for new born babies could cause eye damage.

This was what happened to Jeanne. However, Jeanne's sight handicap has not hindered her in her quest for knowledge, especially of the Bible, or in giving pleasure to others through her music, and in her Christian witness.

The Marlinton Business and Professional Women's Club met at the "Pines" on Monday evening, January 19, 1981.

The meeting was opened by having the Pledge of Allegiance and the singing of "America the Beautiful."

Richard Barlow, County Director of Defense and Emergency Services, was introduced as the guest speaker. An informative film and a demonstration was had on the importance of CPR.

Announcement was made that our Club is in charge of the Heart Fund.

Plans were made for the State Convention to be held at Pipestem State Park on April 10, 11, 12.

At the February meeting we will have a White Elephant sale.

Those attending the meeting were: Viola Abdella, Ellen Galford, Virginia Haddock, Mildred Hockenberry, Garnet Hoover, De Etta King Hunter, Mary Myers, Vonnie Myers, O'Brien, Laura Pyles, Bettie Clay Sharp, Barbara Jane Shaw, Alice Waugh, Virginia Lou Young, and Mr. and Mrs. Richard Barlow.

Letter

I loved reading your write up on your trip to California, so glad you could go. I chose the great Republican State of Kansas for my Christmas vacation.

My nephew, Mike Crickard, his wife and the pet monkey, Little Albert, and I left Vailley Head December 19, the weather was perfect. It's a 24 hour drive, 500 miles west of Kansas City. Both my great-nephew, Pat and his wife, Elsie, are ministers. Pat (Presbyterian) and Elsie (Methodist). I spent a lot of time in church. Christmas programs, dinners, special services and two weddings. My little great-great nieces, Laurie, 3 and Beth, 6, are adorable. Their maternal grandmother is a Scotch lady. She has a dancing school in Tulsa, Oklahoma. She's a fire ball. She isn't very fond of the Irish. They fight too much for her and she's very pro-English—the Queen Mother being Scotch and a commoner. She informed me that I had been brainwashed by my Irish in-laws—for once I kept still. I didn't offer to sell her an Irish Sweepstakes ticket!

We too, did a bit of sight seeing, Truman Library, Eisenhower Memorial (too grand for words) millions of dollars in stone, the St. Louis Arch, unlighted this year. I didn't ride the elevator—chicken.

B & P W Club

The Marlinton Business and Professional Women's Club met at the "Pines" on Monday evening, January 19, 1981.

The meeting was opened by having the Pledge of Allegiance and the singing of "America the Beautiful."

Richard Barlow, County Director of Defense and Emergency Services, was introduced as the guest speaker. An informative film and a demonstration was had on the importance of CPR.

Announcement was made that our Club is in charge of the Heart Fund.

Plans were made for the State Convention to be held at Pipestem State Park on April 10, 11, 12.

At the February meeting we will have a White Elephant sale.

Those attending the meeting were: Viola Abdella, Ellen Galford, Virginia Haddock, Mildred Hockenberry, Garnet Hoover, De Etta King Hunter, Mary Myers, Vonnie Myers, O'Brien, Laura Pyles, Bettie Clay Sharp, Barbara Jane Shaw, Alice Waugh, Virginia Lou Young, and Mr. and Mrs. Richard Barlow.

Letter

I loved reading your write up on your trip to California, so glad you could go. I chose the great Republican State of Kansas for my Christmas vacation.

My nephew, Mike Crickard, his wife and the pet monkey, Little Albert, and I left Vallley Head December 19, the weather was perfect. It's a 24 hour drive, 500 miles west of Kansas City. Both my great-nephew, Pat and his wife, Elsie, are ministers. Pat (Presbyterian) and Elsie (Methodist). I spent a lot of time in church. Christmas programs, dinners, special services and two weddings. My little great-great nieces, Laurie, 3 and Beth, 6, are adorable. Their maternal grandmother is a Scotch lady. She has a dancing school in Tulsa, Oklahoma. She's a fire ball. She isn't very fond of the Irish. They fight too much for her and she's very pro-English—the Queen Mother being Scotch and a commoner. She informed me that I had been brainwashed by my Irish in-laws—for once I kept still. I didn't offer to sell her an Irish Sweepstakes ticket!

We too, did a bit of sight seeing, Truman Library, Eisenhower Memorial (too grand for words) millions of dollars in stone, the St. Louis Arch, unlighted this year. I didn't ride the elevator—chicken.

31 Years Later

On December 6, 1949, Vivienne Jeanne McLaughlin, of Huntersville, made her entrance into the world three months ahead of time, weighing only one and one half pounds, 13 inches tall.

After the interest in the Grimes baby, Mr. and Mrs. Charles McLaughlin looked up the clipping about their daughter.

She was the first to use the new infant incubator at the Pocahontas Memorial Hospital, purchased by the Business and Professional Women's Club with help from other interested people. Dr. Kermit Dilley was the doctor. It is interesting that his daughter, Martha Kay Mullett, is now a pediatrician at the Medical Center at Morgantown and helps with the premature and problem babies brought there from all over the state.

Jeanne stayed at the hospital two and a half months, when she weighed six pounds and four ounces. The Vivienne in her name comes from Nurse Tenney at the hospital. The little baby became a favorite of the nurses, you know. She had a special formula, directed by a pediatrician in Charleston.

It was several years after Jeanne was born before the medical profession learned that the oxygen used for new born babies could cause eye damage.

This was what happened to Jeanne. However, Jeanne's sight handicap has not hindered her in her quest for knowledge, especially of the Bible, or in giving pleasure to others through her music, and in her Christian witness.

Chamber of Commerce

The Marlinton Chamber of Commerce had "A. E. Cooper" night at its annual banquet on Wednesday, January 21, 1981, as well as hearing State Senator Jae Spears. President Harvey Galford presided over the meeting following a delicious T-bone steak dinner served by Mrs. Louise Barnisky and her helpers.

Senator Jae Spears spoke on Decision Dynamics of the Decade, stressing how important it is that each person become involved in helping make those decisions. She discussed issues to come before the Legislature, taxes, unemployment compensation fund, and other matters of vital interest to business. She explained the terrible stresses of differing interests and power groups. She sees a bright economic future for West Virginia.

Elected to serve as directors for three-year terms were Dale Curry, representing Pocahontas Pharmacy, Walter Jett, and Richard Eddy, representing Monongahela Power.

Mr. Cooper has practiced law in Marlinton since 1929, following his graduation from the Law School of West Virginia University.

He was born at Cass where his parents, Jacob and Maggie Cooper, had a store for thirty years; they also had stores at Green Bank and later at Durbin. Following the Great Depression, they went to College Park, Maryland, where his father died in 1943 and his mother in 1947. There were four other children, a sister, Veda Cooper, and three brothers, Leon, Ted and Lewis, all deceased.

We hold with the old lady of this county who is ninety-eight and who has no patience with her daughter who is eighty when she complains of age.

So while the name "Traveler's Repose," had a familiar sound as that of the famous old tavern in the Upper Tract, we paid no attention to it for some time until we chanced to see that it referred to that identical place now called by the name of Bartow. Then with a sigh of duty we set down to see what the scandal was all about. Knowing the country pretty well, we soon saw that the story was laid on both sides of the Main Alleghany, in Highland and Pocahontas Counties. Instructor June Toney teaches Irene White, Melinda Beverage, Jeanne Stemple, Karen Collins, Kim Burgess, Suzi Fleming, Lori Crist and Toni Beale the fundamentals of singing.

There's more to singing than vibrating your vocal chords! At least this is what girls from the PCHS Pops Group and Choir found out at a recent workshop conducted at the High School.

The workshop took place on January 17 and the instructors were Ms. June Ella Toney (soprano section) and Ms. Debbie Smith (alto section). Both gave excellent demonstrations and valuable tips on the proper technique, tone and style of singing used by most choirs today. The actual instruction took place over a period of several hours with the male section of the choir arriving at 2 p. m. to present a short program.

The soprano instructor, June Toney, graduated from West Virginia Institute of Technology with a B. S. degree in both Music Education and Mathematics. She is currently attending Catholic University of America in Washington, D. C., where she is working on her Master's degree in music. June has musical honors in her favor including:

—soprano soloist for the Sixth Presbyterian Church in Washington, D. C.

—Was a member of the University of Maryland Choir which sang the Brahms' Requiem in London, England, with the Royal Philharmonic Orchestra.

—Also sang with the U.M. Choir in Kennedy Center Concert Hall with the National Symphony Orchestra.

The instructor of the alto section, Debbie Smith, is choral director at Gilbert High School in Mingo County; she graduated from West Virginia Institute of Technology, where she was an alto soloist.

The purpose of this workshop was to prepare the girls for the upcoming State Show Choir Festival competition February 28, and also the performance of "You're a Good Man, Charlie Brown," which will be given in the spring.

A melody of "country style" numbers is being learned and choreographed by the Pops Group for the State Show Choir Festival in Charleston. Gingham material, supplied by The Treasure Chest in Marlinton, is the type of fabric each girl will use to make a square dance outfit to match the theme. This is each girl's responsibility. The male members will also dress to fit the occasion.

The public will have a chance to view individual talents of the choir in a variety show later in the spring. Look for more information on this at a later date.

Also, a special thanks is expressed to Snowshoe Ski Resort for supplying free lift tickets to the two guest instructors.

A group of PCHS music students traveled to George Washington High School on January 10 to try out for All State Band honors.

Those participating were Mark Newkirk, Jack Cummins, Karen Collins, Maria Morgan, Terri Dilley, Kim Burgess, Sean Milliner, and Jetta Cassell.

Dunsinane.

Mr. Helhepper is pleased to observe that in Greenstream county that girls and women were ornamental only when they were very young, not more than fifteen or sixteen, and then only in the hours between their duties in the house and dairy. They married at once, after a few dances, a short courtship, and retired definitely to an existence of utility.

That shows that the famous author is either a chicken fancier, or that he is going blind, and should see either a preacher or a doctor. But then it is to be remembered that when publishers pay twenty-five cents a word for copy, that they are responsible for a lot of twaddle.

The study that the author has made of our country is dealt out by imagining a young man of moonshine blood going to the great war and coming back so far reformed as to abolish the still in his parlor. He is furthermore so impressed with the sin and misery of the world, and so imbued with the peace and content-

We have known a good many, and we have yet to see one who showed that he had any grasp on future events, or any power to project his mind forward. Murderers do not realize that they are going to be hung until they feel the halter draw.

Alberts was found guilty of murder in the first degree and sentenced to life imprisonment. It was impossible to tell whether he was glad or sorry. He did not seem to be intrigued.

The verdict was right in our opinion, but we consider that it was the force of circumstances that got the prisoner into his trouble. Mutt and Jeff, in which Jeff is ill treated with great regularity. He has died a thousand deaths at the hands of Mutt. And it was apparent that this man Alberts had been the underdog for years with a dangerous, overbearing brother-in-law. But when Alberts did the killing, he was so inept about it, that he did about everything that could have been done on the spur of the moment to pull off a killing that would make a hanging matter out of it.

Three woodsmen came to the house of Hinkle and Alberts, where they lived together, after supper one Sunday night in January, and they brought there a half gallon of death and damnation, doubly distilled and dangerous. The occasion of their stopping was that they had walked all the way from Cranberry woods and wanted some supper. The booze was passed around and Alberts took two drinks at least. Now liquor which makes life take on a rosy, hopeful tinge, as a usual thing, may with the innate perversity of inanimates, have just the opposite effect. This time it made Alberts mind spouses welcome.

YES! THERE WILL BE A NEW POCAHONTAS HISTORY BOOK

As of this date we have 450 book orders and 300 family histories have been sent into the committee. We are indeed gratified by the response and want to thank everyone who has contributed. You will be very disappointed when the book comes out if you are not in it. Also, you will want a book when you see the finished edition.

We will extend the time for family histories and book orders until February 9 when the Historical Society will meet at the Marlinton Presbyterian Church at 7:30 pm to make the decisions about the number of pages and the number of books to order. We welcome you to this this meeting if you have questions or to submit histories or book orders.

Remember, each household is entitled to a 500 word family history and one photo free. Black and white photos are preferred and print much better than color photos. Also be reminded that the only way to ensure that you will get a book is to order it NOW! The number of books to be printed will be based on the number oredered so there will be few if any extra book available after the book is printed. We cannot accept orders by phone and payment must accompany the order.

The family history chairman is working day and night typing the histories that are hand written. It would be very helpful if you would try to type your stories if at all possible - double space.

This time it made Alberts mind dwell on murder. It does look like murder pervades the air sometimes.

Hinkle, whose time had come, addressed a remark in friendliness to Alberts, and Alberts replied, "Yes, but—" It was no time for buts. What Alberts then said was apropos of nothing. "But you said you would kill me once." What an answer was that! His mind must have been charged with murder, for Hinkle jumped to his feet and showed a knife. He also seemed to have taken the precaution to put a saw swedge, (band anvil) in his pocket. But the fuss was over in a fleeting moment. Alberts got a rifle and fired it while struggling with one of the woodsmen. And the woodsman got the rifle, emptied the magazine and hid it, and all thought the trouble was over

Mr. Moore first joined the American Legion in Charleston, then returned to Marlinton the third year after he got out of Service in World War I.

He was a Sergeant First Class in the Army and served about fifteen months, most of that time at Camp Lee, in Virginia. He was discharged from Camp Taylor, Kentucky.

After the War, he worked in Virginia and Charleston, for the Federal Board of Vocational Education, before returning to Marlinton.

He retired in 1970 as Assistant Cashier of the First National Bank in Marlinton after working there more than 40 years.

Mrs. Moore is the former Georgia Sharp, whom he married in 1922. They have one son, Richard, who is Lands Officer for the U.S. Forest Service in Asheville, North Carolina. He is married to Laura Lou Fonner, of Middlebourne, and they have two sons, Steve and Dan.

Dear Editor,

I have just completed writing a 703-page genealogical history of the Galford surname. The research into its preparation indicated that many of the descendants of the early Galfords in America, and the families they married into lived (and their descendants still do) in the area covered by your circulation.

Surely some of your audience, whom I have not been able to contact, will be interested to know of its completion.

Your gratitude is appreciated—Thanks, in advance.

Alberts was guilty not only of hard words but the blow, and to add to his offense the wild, insensate attack on the dead body of his victim added to the natural repugnance with which society viewed him. He was no student of murder as a fine art as portrayed by DeQuincy and other writers. He went wild with all the ferocity of a beast, and when he came into court it had passed from him and he sat there blinking through his spectacles listening to the case, and not taking a very intelligent interest in it either, so far as anyone could determine by his indifferent attitude. He went on the stand and testified that he was fighting for his life and that he defended himself with an open knife against a fighter who also had an open knife. But there were so many direct witnesses to disprove his story. He denied going to the neighbor's house, so far as his recollection served, and also denied having mutilated the dead body. The Falcon split end and punter was the Conference punter of the year in W.V.I.A.C. Playing in nine games Mark had 28 catches for 391 yards and averaged 14 yards per catch. He punted 50 times for 1824 yards for an average of 36.48 yards. Waslo also had the team's longest run from scrimmage which was 80 yards for a touchdown against Concord College.

Mark has handled the Falcon's punting chores since arriving at Fairmont State in 1978. He developed into a super receiver in 1979—made numerous key catches in the maroon and white championship drive - great competitor possesses super concentration - a bona fide deep threat with great hands. Fairmont Head Coach, Dave Ritchie, says of "Was," "Mark has matured into a real game breaker. I feel he could be an All American with a good year." He has been honorable mention All WVIAC choice in the previous two years.

Mark is the son of Michael Waslo, of Arbovale. He played under Elmer Friel at Pocahontas County High School, quarterbacked and punted (averaged 46.6 yards) his squad to an 8-2 record as a senior, earned All Conference, All Southern, and All State accolades both his junior and senior seasons.

Mark is presently a junior at Fairmont State College majoring in Engineering.

He denied going to the neighbor's house, so far as his recollection served, and also denied having mutilated the dead body. It is possible that the liquor that he had drunk had brought on a period of forgetfulness. It is a well known fact that a drunken man may engage in many activities of which he remembers nothing when he is sober. But the witness claimed to remember the minutest details of the killing. It would have been better for him if he could have pleaded temporary insanity through the effect of liquor, for that generally reduces the offense to murder in the second degree, dating from the Bible, which declares that wounds without cause come from the use of wine, and if light wines and beer are responsible, there is hardly any length too great to go under the devils aroused in a man's soul after a dose of moonshine liquor.

The Falcon split end and punter was the Conference punter of the year in W.V.I.A.C. Playing in nine games Mark had 28 catches for 391 yards and averaged 14 yards per catch. He punted 50 times for 1824 yards for an average of 36.48 yards. Waslo also had the team's longest run from scrimmage which was 80 yards for a touchdown against Concord College.

Mark has handled the Falcon's punting chores since arriving at Fairmont State in 1978. He developed into a super receiver in 1979—made numerous key catches in the maroon and white championship drive - great competitor possesses super concentration - a bona fide deep threat with great hands. Fairmont Head Coach, Dave Ritchie, says of "Was," "Mark has matured into a real game breaker. I feel he could be an All American with a good year." He has been honorable mention All WVIAC choice in the previous two years.

Mark is the son of Michael Waslo, of Arbovale. He played under Elmer Friel at Pocahontas County High School, quarterbacked and punted (averaged 46.6 yards) his squad to an 8-2 record as a senior, earned All Conference, All Southern, and All State accolades both his junior and senior seasons.

Pocahontas Hospital Has Male Nursing Head

By P. Kay Milam
Staff Writer

Pocahontas Memorial Hospital in Marlinton is one of at least three hospitals in the state to cross the stereotype boundary concerning nursing directors.

The hospital has a man serving in that position.

William Dail, a registered nurse since 1976, has been nursing director since February 1979. Formerly of Cambridge, Md., the 34-year-old nurse began employment at Pocahontas Memorial in Oct. 1978.

Prior to 1978, Dail worked an orderly for four years, then as a licensed practical nurse for nine years.

"I couldn't afford medical school," Dail said when asked the common question of why a man would go into nursing instead of being a doctor.

"I liked the medical field (he volunteered his time to hospital work while in high school), but medical school was too far out of reach financially," Dail said. So, he became a nurse.

Dail said he is "not the first male nurse on staff."

Before becoming the director of nursing, Dail assumed the position of assistant director of nursing because the director was retiring.

"After becoming the assistant, the nursing director left and went to CAMC (Charleston Area Medical Center), so I stepped up," he said.

He has no problems with the nurses under his direction. However, he does have problems with emergency room patients.

Describing his "biggest problem," Dail said because he wears white, very often in the emergency room he is mistaken for a doctor.

"I have to clarify that I am not a doctor, but a nurse," he said.

Dail said his job duties include being in charge of employment orientation, termination of nurses, quality and control insurance of patient care and writing procedure and policy books.

Occasionaly, when patient census is high and nursing staff low, he will work with direct patient care.

Dale particularly likes emergency room nursing because that is an "acute and critical time in which decisions need to be made and you feel needed."

At least two other hospitals in the state have male nursing directors, Cabell – Huntington Hospital and Spencer State Hospital, Dale said.

Joe E. Sharp, 46, died Saturday, February 7, 1981, in a car accident near his home at Lancaster, Virginia. It is believed he had a heart attack.

Joe was retired from the U. S. Army, a First Sergeant and former Green Beret, with service in Vietnam.

Born in Marlinton, February 16, 1934, he was the son of Clara Shearer Sharp, now of Covington, Virginia, and the late Dorsey Sharp.

Surviving him, in addition to his mother, are his wife, Patty Kellison Sharp; three sons, Mack, Jimmy, Joe, Jr., and one daughter, Joanna Lee; three brothers, Harold E., of Ozark, Alabama, Jerry, Covington, Virginia, Roy, of Sweet Springs; four sisters, Mrs. Milburn (Carolyn) Waugh, Mrs. William (Janet) Gurde, Mrs. Susan May, all of Covington, Virginia, and Mrs. Kenneth (Delores) Rose, White Sulphur Springs.

The body was cremated.

matter of accommodation without knowing that there was anything in the packages in the nature of a contraband. And a lot of witnesses swore to it.

But that defense proved to have a weakness, in that the man Weisser came hotfoot to purge himself of the imputation of guilt, and brought a host of witnesses to prove that he was nine miles away that morning That he had got the word in a day or two that the guilt was to be laid on him, and he and his witnesses had fixed the fact indelibly in their minds and he proved an alibi, thereby greatly strenghtening the State's case.

The proceeding was under the habitual criminal part of the act by which a second offense is punishable by a penitentiary sentence, and when the jury brought in a verdict of guilty the court gave him the high limit, three years in the State's prison. The defendant is not a man to show emotion, but we noticed a whole lot of lines wrinkled his forehead in a peculiar way when he was sentenced

Last Monday a large group of interested persons gathered at the Presbyterian Church in Marlinton to take a peek at the Pocahontas County History Book project. Willard Eskridge, Treasurer, reported 570 books had been sold. Jim Wooddell reported that 307 family histories had been turned in. Everyone was excited and grateful at the reports. Then we tested the project and decided that we needed to keep on cookin' a little longer.

We all agreed that we want a quality book, the best in West Virginia. In order to have this, we need more family histories, more special pages, business histories, more time to work on topical history and more books sold.

March 15. We hope you will keep on working and that we can reach our goal. All of our material must be into the printer by June 1 to have our books before Christmas 1981.

If you are finding it hard to write your story in 500 words, let us remind you that you can buy a full page for $150, half page for $80 and quarter page for $45. On these pages you are not limited for works or pictures.

We are beginning our emphases on topical history. On Sunday, February 15, at 2:30 p. m. at Jane Sharp's home, we will work on history of the schools in the lower Pocahontas area. If you have any thing to contribute, please join us. The upper Pocahontas area schools will be worked on the next Sunday.

We unanimously voted at our meeting to dedicate the Pocahontas County History to the Pocahontas Times who has preserved and disseminated the history of our county through the years. Orchids to Jane and Bill, our present editors!

A witness testified that customer bought a bottle of the flavor and poured it in a glass with some near beer and drank it. County Roads

We visited the Marlinton State Road Garage Monday. There have been no lay-offs in the County maintenance employees, of which Tom Wilson is glad for they need every one, he says. No one knows what is coming, though.

The ice has been a terrible problem on the roads this year. Snowfall has not been so heavy.

Several vehicles have been stuck on parts of the Scenic Highway in spite of high snow barriers and signs. They think a 4-wheel drive can go through anything. The State Road goes in to help stranded vehicles only after the Forest Service asks them to. One couple slept in their car and then walked 7 miles the next morning. Another man walked that far also.

The road crews have had to be out every weekend this year.

There was a big tie-up on the Snowshoe road Sunday evening. Sunday morning the road was graveled and then the sun came out and the crews went home. Later a snow storm came up and they were out again. Cars without snow tires cause a lot of the trouble. If they stall, they are often left right there and soon no one can get around.

The number of cars traveling the Snowshoe road has averaged 6,000 a week, with 1800 to 2,000 a day sometimes on weekends.

History

There is more time to work on your family history if you failed to make it this past week. The history bug is contagious and it seems to be spreading. Some people haven't seen the sample histories and don't realize what nice books they are. We hope ours will be the best but we need every one to take part.

The school histories will be tackled next. No one person can compile those. There were over a hundred schools at one time in Pocahontas. If you can write the history of any one school, fine. Write it. If you know just the name and location, or the date it started, or the date it was closed, write that. If you have a picture, send it. If you have some special recollection of an institute, some superintendent, some teacher, write that. Out of the little pieces we will make the quilt.

We will start work on schools this Sunday afternoon at 2:30 at the home of Jane P. Sharp at 1118 Second Avenue, Marlinton —four blocks down from Main Street. The plans are to meet the next Sunday afternoon at Green Bank and then the third week at Hillsboro. Everyone is welcome to come help—no one has been named as a committee.

Send or call your information to the Pocahontas Times Office or come to these work sessions with it.

State Police investigated one accident over the past week.

The accident occurred on

The naming of the Berkeley County Multiple-Resource Area makes it the first such nomination ever to be researched and designated in West Virginia, and one of the first in the nation; the area is considered to be one of the largest such nomination in the country.

Book of Poems

"Memories in Rhyme" is a small book of poems just published by Orda Hill Smith and printed by McClain Printing Company of Parsons.

Mrs. Smith was born, reared and educated in Pocahontas County, the daughter of the late A. W. and Meta Eagle Hill. She has been married to Clarence Smith since 1947; he was a Funeral Director in Marlinton for many years but is now retired.

She is a graduate of Fairmont State College and taught school in Pocahontas County for forty-two years before retiring. Poetry and traveling were hobbies she really enjoyed, and many of these "Rhymes" are about family, friends and her travels.

Mrs. Smith honored us with a copy of her poems and we enjoyed reading

CARPENTERS' FUR POST

Ronnie and Larry Carpenter

Goshen, Virginia

It was in the gold diggings, and men were fond of betting on anything and everything. Seeking a bet one day in a strange camp, a native said he would bet with him if he had a frog. Thereupon the gambler said to the native that if he would take care of the trained frog that he himself would go out in the swamp and catch one. So the gambler caught the frog, and the native in the meantime fed the trained frog a pound of shot. so that when the two frogs were lined up to jump, the wild frog leaped a certain distance, but the trained frog could not rise from the floor.

Is that funny? Yes, in a way. But what did Mark Twain have to do with it. As a historian he recorded the facts in a readable way, and for that he was hailed as a great funny man and went on his way triumphant. Certainly time and chance have much to do with the funny man's career. If the two frogs had not been pitted against each other, Mark Twain would have died unwept, unhonored, and unsung.

And the queer part about the frog

It was in the gold diggings, and men were fond of betting on anything and everything. Seeking a bet one day in a strange camp, a native said he would bet with him if he had a frog. Thereupon the gambler said to the native that if he would take care of the trained frog that he himself would go out in the swamp and catch one. So the gambler caught the frog, and the native in the meantime fed the trained frog a pound of shot. so that when the two frogs were lined up to jump, the wild frog leaped a certain distance, but the trained frog could not rise from the floor.

Is that funny? Yes, in a way. But what did Mark Twain have to do with it. As a historian he recorded the facts in a readable way, and for that he was hailed as a great funny man and went on his way triumphant. Certainly time and chance have much to do with the funny man's career. If the two frogs had not been pitted against each other, Mark Twain would have died unwept, unhonored, and unsung.

And the queer part about the frog story is that it was told with laughter in Athens many years before the birth of Christ, the only material difference being that the frog was filled with small pebbles, shot not having been invented.

Mark Twain's writings are very volumnious and contain much valuable information that has been sicklied over with the pale cast of humour. In the minds of some persons his writings are all right except that he leans to the ridiculous. And you never can tell when a joke is about to be imposed upon you. [illegible] is [illegible] upon you. He [illegible] of the sufferings of the twenty-four men in a car that got snowed in on the railroad in the West. Help did not come for days and the passengers were forced to eat each other. So being trained men they called a convention and appointed nominating committees to see who would be elected to be killed for breakfast, and they had much voting and many contests. The record says that when they had eaten Mr. Harris that they found that they all liked him. Mr. Baker was very good. Mr. Messick agreed with all of them. But there was general dissatisfaction with Mr. Davis. He was too old and tough.

Then you never know when humour and pathos contend whether to laugh or cry. One of the saddest tales we ever heard is recorded by Mark Twain, but he does not say whether it is supposed to be funny or not. He said that a Mrs. Murphy was very rich and very stingy. [illegible] ever heard is recorded by Mark Twain, but he does not say whether it is supposed to be funny or not. He said that a Mrs. Murphy was very rich and very stingy. Her husband died away from home and the undertaker embalmed the body and sent it home and a wake was in progress when the bill from the undertaker came in. The widow read it and gave a wild sad wail: "Sivinty-five dollars for stuffin Dan, blister their sowls! Did thim divils suppose I was goin' to start a Museim, that I'd be dalin' in such expinsive curiassities!" They say that there was not a dry eye in the house.

There is an illustration of Mark Twain that is frequently used in court as an argument against circumstantial evidence: "Look at this pencil that a woman sharpened. We know the facts are that she used her knife, but if circumstantial evidence was received it would indicate that she sharpened it with her teeth."

Kimberly Ann Alderman, daughter of Mrs. Wanda Combs, of Mill Point, and Ralph E. Waugh, son of Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Waugh, of Huntersville,, were united in marriage on November 1, 1980, at 11 a. m. at the United Methodist Church in Huntersville. Rev. Clyde Gum, of Minnehaha Springs, performed the ceremony.

Regina Cain, sister of the groom, of Marlinton, served as matron of honor. Melissa and Teresa Alderman, sisters of the bride, were bridesmaids. Amy Burks, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Earl Burks, Jr. and Donna Meadows, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Meadows, both of Mill Point, were flower girls.

Jeff Combs, brother of the bride, served as ringbearer.

The groom wore a navy blue suit with light blue shirt and contrasting tie.

Ceremony colors were light, royal and navy blue. The bridesmaids were attired in formal light blue gowns with royal blue collars and cuffs. The matron of honor wore a light blue gown with ruffles and trimmed in lace, with a matching hat. The flower girls were dressed in long dark blue gowns, trimmed in white lace.

The ushers were dressed in navy blue suits. The best man also wore a navy blue suit.

The wedding party wore corsages and boutonnieres of blue carnations.

Wedding music was played by Jaynell Tibbs, of Buckeye; Melissa Alderman, sister of the bride, sang.

The bride was given away by Aaron Roberts, of Mill Point, cousin of the bride.

The occasion was the speech that President Roosevelt made at Jamestown in the spring of 1907, opening the Jamestown Fair. A rude grand stand had been built and into this filed a number of distinguished citizens and foreign ambassadors. Roosevelt drove up in a carriage at full speed, waved his hat, jumped to the ground, climbed into the stand, got upon a table, and commenced to speak in a vigorous manner. Fish Hatchery Ponds Drained

In an episode of totally senseless vandalism, 42 ponds at the Edray Fish Hatchery were drained early Saturday morning releasing about 120,000 trout into Big Spring Branch of Stony Creek. The fish were about 14 months old and almost ready to be stocked.

Hatchery employee, Steve Barnisky, checked the pond at 2:30 a. m. Saturday and all was well. When he went out to check at 3:50 the damage had been done. One or more individuals had entered the Hatchery and pulled the standpipes on the ponds. Fortunately the screens around the drainholes had been kicked aside and allowed the fish to drain out with the water, otherwise, the fish would have all died. The value of the fish is about $85,000.

Efforts to empty several earthen ponds, were unsuccessful and so two pumps were tossed into the water

A war on violators of the state game and fish laws is being waged by Deputy State Game and Fish Warden Daniel W. Cunningham. As a result he arrested near Gurthrie in Union district eight men on the charge of seining fish contrary to the state game law. The men were Harrison Payne, Earl Spradling, Sid Cummings, Floyd Cummings, Charles McCracken, Walter Reveal, Cecil Boggess, and Lawrence Thaxton. These men were all taken before Justice of the Peace G. Dayton Acree yesterday who assessed fines of $10 each and costs of cases. William Mathews is also accused of being implicated but has not yet been apprehended.

Efforts to empty several earthen ponds, were unsuccessful and so two pumps were tossed into the water instead.

Department of Natural Resources personnel from around the state as well as local volunteers, were soon on the scene to recover the fish, most of which remained not far below the hatchery. Due to the high water, the job was wet, cold and slow. Electrical shocks were used to stun the fish and bring them to the surface. They were then netted and lugged in buckets to tank trucks for the trip back to the Hatchery.

An estimated 70,000 fish were recovered Saturday and Sunday. Recovery efforts were not held Monday and Tuesday due to cold and wet weather, but a DNR crew was again at work on Wednesday.

Stony Creek is closed to all fishing until farther notice.

Conservation officers and State Police are investigating and a $1000 reward is being offered by the DNR.

A chain link fence to be placed around the hatchery has already been ordered to try to prevent future happenings of this kind.

It is not expected that this event will have a significant impact on the Spring stocking, but fish that had been segregated by size, weight, and species are now all mixed together.

Mrs. Aaron Kee suffered a stroke of appoplexy at her home near Marlinton, Wednesday morning. Her condition is considered critical.

DEATH OF MRS. KERR

Mrs Nancy Jane Kerr died Sunday at the home of her father, David McClure, near Woodrow, from the effects of a poison, self administered either with suicidal intent or by mistake for a medicine.

The poison used was a preparation known as "Salts of Lemon," which contains a large amount of oxalic acid, and which is used as a cleanser and to remove stains.

The accident occurred about 11 a. m. The telephone was not open and a messenger was sent to Marlinton for a doctor. Dr. N. R. Price responded as quickly as possible and saw the patient at 3 p. m, Not much could be done to relieve her sufferings, and death occurred at 5 p. m. Her age was 36 years. Burial Monday at the Cochran graveyard on Stony Creek.

Marine Pvt. Ricky L. Campbell, son of William R. and Mildred M. Campbell of Dunmore, has completed the Infantry Combat training course at the Marine Corps Base, Camp Pendleton, California.

The four-week course was designed to prepare him for future duty with a Marine shore party unit. Shore party units set up beachhead supply areas during amphibious operations.

He received instruction and practical experience in loading and unloading helicopters, vehicles and landing craft; electronic and visual methods for guiding helicopter landings, and preparation of helicopter landing sites.

He joined the Marine Corps in August 1980.

The competition will take place in the Cultural Center in Charleston, and the group plans to leave Friday evening in order to have practice in the Cultural Center before the final contest on Saturday.

Likewise, the members must stay in Charleston Friday night and reservations have already been made in a Holiday Inn. However, money must be raised to pay for these rooms, so a special concert featuring the Pops Group along with the Choir will be presented Thursday, February 26, at 8 p. m.

The Choir will perform first with numbers such as "Ships," by Barry Manilow, "Longer" by Daniel Fogelberg and a special Broadway spectacular featuring such favorites as "Hello Dolly," "Tomorrow," "Kiss Today Goodbye," and "Mame."

The grand finale will be the Pops Group as they present their Show Choir routine. The songs have a country theme and are based on our West Virginia heritage.

"Sourwood Mountain" opens the show with basic square dance movements. Following this is a beautiful love story ballad en-

GREENBANK

We are having fine growing weather and making garden, planting corn and potatoes is the order of our farmers.

Prof. C. E. Flynn, of Durbin, was here last week. He is laying up the rails for a clean sweep into the county Superintendent chair this fall. He is a good man for the position.

Mr. and Mrs. C. O. Arbogast will leave soon for Charlotsville, Va., where they will make their home.

E. F. Arbogast and family have rented the C. O. Arbogast property and will move there soon.

J. Hamed has moved his goods to the new store building on the corner of main street.

Clarence A. Sheets is doing a good business in the garage at this place.

Wm. Geiger is painting his garage on main street.

W. A. Gladwell's team ran away last Friday. No one was hurt.

Strange Diet

Jeanette White, of Cass, has a bird feeder, plastic, with six small holes, and she has had a variety of birds feeding there during the winter. The past week there haven't been any birds but the honey bees have been thick in the holes and all around the feeder. Can bees eat bird feed? They are. The food was gone down to the bottom openings, and her husband put more in and they continued swarming around.

To bear again the burdens of the day.

"DON'T WORRY"---JOHN D.

John D. Rockefeller is 83, thrifty of speech, mentally vigorous and physically fit, and by no means discouraged about the world. "Don't worry," says he, "the darkness is only temporary, and the world is coming out of it all right." Was the younger generation weaker in fiber than his, somebody asked him. "It is in this younger generation," said the oil king, "to succeed just as much as it was in my generation and the generation beyond that. The world today offers better opportunities than ever before. Let the young and ambitious work hard and look forward and they will succeed." Pearls of wisdom are not cast before swine.

TAXATION

"Taxation, without representation is Tyranny," said one of our greatest statesmen.

"Freedom of speech and freedom of the press shall not be denied to any citizen" is what our constitution declares, and what I am going to say may not appeal to some people, but they are undeniable facts. Our taxes are high and still going higher. Why? Simply because we have a bunch of high salaried officers paid more now than they deserve, and who are still clamoring for more. Look, if you please, what it costs the taxpayers of this little mountain state of ours to maintain her government. Take for instance the salaries of the officers from the Governor, down. It represents a ridiculous sum of money: do the people get value received? NO! Seventy-five per cent would pay them well for all they do. Consequently the people would be relieved of apart of their taxes if the salaries were cut twenty-five per cent, and that is what I favor.

Just a word in regard to our new assessment. This is an old farce, "raise the valuation and lower the percent."

We have had experience of this kind in the past; these sayings have proven to be untrue. I have no faith in it. I do not favor the new tax system simply because the law provides that land must be assessed at the price that it was last sold for. Possibly it was sold during the war period when prices were inflated. So the assessment of that land would not be fair and equitable at that kind of price today.

The people have no say as to how their money is to be spent; is that not tyrany? To be sure it is.

I would suggest that the taxpayers hold a meeting at an early date to discuss the situation and to formulate plans whereby our taxes may be lowered.

TAXATION

"Taxation, without representation is Tyrany," said one of our greatest statesmen.

"Freedom of speech and freedom of the press shall not be denied to any citizen" is what our constitution declares, and what I am going to say may not appeal to some people, but they are undeniable facts. Our taxes are high and still going higher. Why? Simply because we have a bunch of high salaried officers paid more now than they deserve, and who are still clamoring for more. Look, if you please, what it costs the taxpayers of this little mountain state of ours to mantain her government. Take for instance the salaries of the officers from the Governor, down. It represents a rediculous sum of money; do the people get value received? NO! Seventy-five per cent would pay them well for all they do. Consequently the people would be relieved of apart of their taxes if the salaries were cut twenty-five per cent, and that is what I favor.

Just a word in regard to our new assessment. This is an old farce, "raise the valuation and lower the percent."

We have had experience of this kind in the past; these sayings have proven to be untrue. I have no faith in it. I do not favor the new tax system simply because the law provides that land must be assessed at the price that it was last sold for. Possibly it was sold during the war period when prices were inflated. So the assessment of that land would not be fair and equitable at that kind of price today.

The people have no say as to how their money is to be spent; is that not tyrany? To be sure it is.

I would suggest that the taxpayers hold a meeting at an early date to discuss the situation and to formulate plans whereby our taxes may be lowered.

I would like to hear from other suits, and should not lose sight of the fact that the little details are the things that really count most.

As far as we are able to figure out the first step that was taken in West Virginia to curtail the liberties of the forest, was in a bill introduced by a Wooddell from Pocahontas County, and which was passed in 1872. About all we saw of the Wild Life League was the banquet and it was a big one. The city people still hang on to the banquet without which they do not seem to be able to make up their minds. It used to be mostly a case of the flowing bowl, and a big drunk. They were easily entertained. The drinks were superb, and the food was indifferent. The old Scotchman asked his guest if he was a teetotaller, and when the man said that he was not, then the host said that being the case he would be contented with water and would not have to have ginger ale or lemonade or some such drink. So that may be the reason that at the modern banquet the main drink is water, with perhaps a cup of coffee at the end of the meal.

And there is another difference. In the old days they started about nine

Joe E. Sharp: American Soldier

I first met Sgt. Joe Sharp in April 1962 while assigned to "A" Company, 1st Special Forces (Green Beret) on Okinawa. Since Joe was a native of Pocahontas County and I always think of Pocahontas as being home, Joe and I became good friends in short order. As Joe appeared to be a well-respected member of "A" Company and a hillbilly, I questioned many of the officers and NCOs as to his performance. Without exception each answered in terms such as: he is a hoss of a man, good soldier, he will do, carries his load, tough ba----, etc. These terms may not mean much to the average civilian but to an old soldier they are all praise.

As I came to know Joe better it was easy to understand why he was held in such esteem. Joe was a commander's dream of a professional combat soldier.

Since reading of his death I have given much thought to a fallen comrade. Joe was born in 1934. Had he been born in 1734 he would have served under Washington because he

St. Patrick's Day

St. Patrick whose feast day is universally, especially by the Irish, celebrated on March 17th, was born around 389 in England. He was the son of a deacon, Calpurnius, and the grandson of a presbyter named Potitus. His father was a middle-class landed proprietor. Patrick was probably educated as a Christian and imbued with the love of the Roman Empire.

When about 16 years of age he was carried off by a band of Irish marauders back to Ireland where he tended sheep as a slave. Before his escape six years later he was subject to numerous visions and religious emotional experiences.

Eventually arriving back home in England his desire to return to Ireland to convert the pagans did in no way diminish. To prepare for his hoped-for mission he went to Gaul where he studied for 14 years or so at the monastery at Auxerre

There is nothing so repulsive to the tenderfoot visitor as rampy milk. To use a vivid illustration, it has a tendency to make a person throw up his toe nails. But they say that if the old cow is brought in from the woods and penned in a cow lot for some hours before she i milked, and digestion allowed to wait on appetite, and health on both, that the milk then obtained is sweet and good, and not the horror that it is when it is prematurely ripped from the inside of the cow.

Patrick was probably educated as a Christian and imbued with the love of the Roman Empire.

When about 16 years of age he was carried off by a band of Irish marauders back to Ireland where he tended sheep as a slave. Before his escape six years later he was subject to numerous visions and religious emotional experiences.

Eventually arriving back home in England his desire to return to Ireland to convert the pagans did in no way diminish. To prepare for his hoped-for mission he went to Gaul where he studied for 14 years or so at the monastery at Auxerre

Had Joe been born in 1834 he would have served in the War Between the States, not because he either opposed or supported the institution of slavery, but just because he liked to fight. Since Pocahontas was a border area it is difficult for me to say on which side he would have served. However, it is much easier for me to picture Joe serving with the Stonewall Brigade or perhaps as a scout during Lee's Cheat Mountain Campaign. I do know he would have been a top-notch soldier and always in the vanguard.

I had opportunity to serve with Joe in Vietnam and can't think of anyone more dedicated to his service. He always carried his load plus just a bit more. Joe had no physical fear of death, yet he could be so gentle to a wounded comrade or a frightened, hungry child.

The Pelagian Heresy (God's grace not necessary for good works nor salvation) had taken root in the Christian communities of Ireland so Pope Germanus consecrated Patrick a Bishop and sent him off to combat the heresy and restore true doctrine. Patrick had many conflicts with the druids also in Ireland but after winning numerous trials of skill he won the admiration and the protection of the local kings who abounded in the land. Under this protection he established many churches especially among the pagans. From this comes the common belief that he converted all of Ireland. The Wild Lifers have undertaken a plenty. What goes on in the woods is past finding out as a general thing. But it does seem that there has come a change over the spirit of the country. Thirty years ago custom decreed it, that it was not wrong to break a game law, and that the only thing required in West Virginia was that you paid the fine if you were found out. That it was a natural business risk that every man took if he killed deer out of season. He should step up and settle promptly, and that was the end of that. He suffered no ignominy. It was not an oboxious crime. That is being chang ed now. More and more the good people of the communities are becom ing more punctilious about the game and fish laws, and the time will soon come when this law must be obeyed or the offender will lose cast, and then the law will be in full force and effect.

We struck a book the other day called "The Eye of the Wift" That is an obscure title. The word wift is the same as our word withe, and the eye is the knot in the withe where it meets around a bundle of poles. Therefore the book is about what the eye of the withe might have seen when it lay in the woods. And that tas been about the only sort of an eye that has been turned on the doings in the woods.

The Wild Lifers are going to see if they cannot bring about public sentiment and sympathy with the work of preserving the wild life, so that West Virginia will be a better place to live in and a more attractive piace for visitors. And no part of the State is quite so vitally interested as Pocahontas county. We have the great-ing more punctilious about the game and fish laws, and the time will soon come when this law must be obeyed or the offender will lose cast, and then the law will be in full force and effect.

We struck a book the other day called "The Eye of the Wift" That is an obscure title. The word wift is the same as our word withe, and the eye is the knot in the withe where it meets around a bundle of poles. Therefore the book is about what the eye of the withe might have seen when it lay in the woods. And that tas been about the only sort of an eye that has been turned on the doings in the woods.

Joe E. Waugh, 66, of Route 1, Marlinton, died Sunday, March 22, 1981, in West Virginia Medical Center at Morgantown.

A farmer, Mr. Waugh was a member of Central Union United Methodist Church and Odd Fellows Lodge. He was a veteran of World War II.

Born near Marlinton December 3, 1914, he was the son of Mrs. Elizabeth Sharp Waugh, of Hillsboro, and the late Tolbert Waugh.

Surviving him are his wife, Ruby Galford Waugh; a daughter, Debra Ann Cassell; one grandchild; a brother, Otis Waugh, Marlinton; three sisters, Mrs. Norma Reed, Mrs. Nellie McKenney, both of Huntersville, and Mrs. Mattie Wilson, of Richwood.

Services were held at Van-Reenen Funeral Home Wednesday afternoon by Rev. B. B. Mitcham, with burial in Mountain View Cemetery.

James Lewis Hollandsworth,

The Wild Lifers are going to see if they cannot bring about public sentiment and sympathy with the work of preserving the wild life, so that West Virginia will be a better place to live in and a more attractive place for visitors. And no part of the State is quite so vitally interested as Pocahontas county. We have the greatest playground in the United States. We ought to keep it in good order.

Another difference in a banquet of today and the banquet of the past is that formerly the banqueter was drunk and dressed up. Now he is neither. In the old days when a banquet was set for a certain day and time, the mountaineer had to lug a black suit of a peculiar cut with him and parade it at the banquet. Now they go to these affairs in citizen's clothing. It is a considerabele relief not to have to pack a dress suit so far for so little use.

Judge Robinson lifted the vail for a moment to refer to the conference of the five Supreme Court Judges, at the time that the case came up [illegible] ten or more years ago when a coal company had been convicted of polluting a stream by allowing drainage from the mine to enter it. He said that Judge Brannon remarked that one statute required the mines to be drained, and the other that the stream should not be polluted, and that he did not see how a mine could be drained unless it was drained into some running water. But after a discussion it was found that the law applied to coal companies as well as to lesser mortals, and the law was so construed and the conviction was sustained. Whereupon the legislature promptly changed the law so the coal companies are not so helpless.

But after a discussion it was found that the law applied to coal companies as well as to lesser mortals, and the law was so construed and the conviction was sustained. Whereupon the legislature promptly changed the law so the coal companies are not so helpless. We can remember the occasion when the drainnge question came up, and how the earth trembled. But it was soon over. We Wild Lifers have to work in pretty narrow limitations, for we cannot make the State desolate and call it perfect. It is a case of compromise.

Where the Wild Lifer is being effective is in kuklexing about and asking fishermen and hunters if they have a license, and this has resulted in much good in the way of contributions to the game and fish funds that arise from the license fees.

But here we are still at the banquet. No progress made towards home. Out of the vasty deep of past days comes an expression something like this. "He went to a banquet and anchored there!"

Dear Editor:

True confessions of a Catholic priest! Before a bungled story makes the rounds, let me openly confess that the spy system at Denmar Hospital dug up the evidence that I succumbed to temptation after three years of weekly visits to your kinfolk and my friends, the patients. It happened thusly:

EIGHTH GRADE COMMENCEMENT EXERCISES

The eighth grade commencement exercises for Edray and Huntersville districts will be held at Marlinton on Wednesday afternoon, May 24th. These exercises will be held in the high school bui ding, and will begin promptly at 1:30 o'clock. People who come from a distance will thus be able to attend, and get back home before dark.

An interesting program in being planned. Geo. M. Ford, State Superintendent of Schools, will deliver the address. Superintendent G. D. McNeill will deliver the diplomas to the graduates. Special music will be furnished by the Marlinton Graded School.

All eighth grade graduates are urged to be present. Parents and patrons of the school are cordially invited to attend.

Did he/she hear the gentle gurgle as the lady drank with gusto the seven ounces in the cup? Did she/he hear the rest being poured out into the sink? No, super-sleuth saw me only leave the room, deposit the evidence in the lounge waste-basket and furtively make my way out the door on to further revelry. office: but did get medical permission from the two doctors. A few evenings later when I thought the coast was clear for this bit of debauchery, I made my way quietly to the lady's room, pulled the curtain and bent over the form lying in the bed finishing supper. Unbeknownst to me my every movement was being watched by super-sleuth! Hearing the pop of the can (as I was told) S-S waited breathlessly for the orgy to assume more interesting aspects. Did he/she hear the gentle gurgle as the lady drank with gusto the seven ounces in the cup? Did she/he hear the rest being poured out into the sink? No, super-sleuth saw me only leave the room, deposit the evidence in the lounge waste-basket and furtively make my way out the door on to further revelry. EIGHTH GRADE COMMENCEMENT EXERCISES

The eighth grade commencement exercises for Edray and Huntersville districts will be held at Marlinton on Wednesday afternoon, May 24th. These exercises will be held in the high school bui ding, and will begin promptly at 1:30 o'clock. People who come from a distance will thus be able to attend, and get back home before dark.

An interesting program in being planned. Geo. M. Ford, State Superintendent of Schools, will deliver the address. Superintendent G. D. McNeill will deliver the diplomas to the graduates. Special music will be furnished by the Marlinton Graded School.

All eighth grade graduates are urged to be present. Parents and patrons of the school are cordially invited to attend.

A somewhat similar deed of awesome proportions occurred some years ago to which I should confess also. I brought to a diabetic patient enough candy for an army for her to offer to the employees as they served her needs through the day and night. Unfortunately the goof began to eat a piece and in nothing flat I was called before an icy eyed critter pointing an accusing finger at my nose as if, like Moses, I, too, had just broken all Ten Commandments! She didn't even listen to my story much less believe it. Like most institutions I think one will be hard put to find anyone at the hospital who really listens.

O. K. So why am I telling you all this? To clear my conscience? Hardly! But if you and I are going to succeed in making the lives of these wonderful folks any happier—and they have so very little left to life as it is—we are going to have to keep the spy-network at the hospital off balance and our necks. One way to do this just might be for you to collect all your liquor bottles, (?), empty pill, medicine, sugar, salt, etc. containers and leave them all over the joint—looking very cunning, and crafty as you

An Open Letter to the Editor:

Some ninety odd years ago a group of folks, old and young, with hearts filled with love of God and their fellowman chose to establish a Presbyterian Congregation and build a substantial place of worship. As the Spirit of the Lord moved over the mountains the little group saw their efforts bear fruit and flourish.

As Euripides said five centuries before Christ "When good men die their goodness does not perish, but lives though they are gone." The children of these wonderful people have memorialized their memory by continuing their love of neighbor and have extended the hospitality of their facilities to feed the hungry and give drink to the thirsty the length and breadth of our county.

The men and women who are utilizing the Senior Citizens Nutrition Program, the daily well-balanced and nutritious meal, at the Church are most grateful to the present members, a century later, for that hospitality and generosity in providing a location for this government program.

DEATH OF MRS. ELIZABETH A. GIBSON

On Thursday, March 9th, shortly afternoon, Mrs. Elizabeth A. Gibson died suddenly and peacefully at her home in Monterey. While in failing health for some time, Mrs. Gibson was active and in full possession of her mind to the time of her death. Death was due to appolexy, and came after only a few moments warning.

This worthy lady's parents were Joseph Seybert and Mrs. Rebecca Seybert, of Pocahontas county, W. Va. She had two brothers—Lanty and Jacob Seybert. Lanty died a prisoner of war at Elmira, N Y. Jacob married Miss Mary Jones, of Greenbrier County, and became a prosperous citizen of Rockbridge county, and was father of Mr Trent Seybert and Mrs Mame Newland, of that county. Mrs. Gibson had but one sister, the late Mrs. Maria Herold near Frost, W Va.

Mrs. Gibson spent much of her girlhood days at the home of her grand-father, Mr. Lanty Lockridge, at Driscol, four miles west of Huntersville, a home noted for hospitality and a place of resort for visiting lawyers to and from Huntersville on public occasions.

Mrs. Gibson received her education at the Richardson School for girls, then conducted at Warm Springs

Mrs. Gibson received her education at the Richardson School for girls, then conducted at Warm Springs.

She was born near Seebert, Pocahontas county, November 15, 1837, and at the time of her death was 84 years, 3 months and 24 days old. She was married to the late Wm. D Gibson, in 1859, and the family home up to the time of her husband's death was between Monterey and Vanderpool. The closing years of her life were spent in Monterey, where she has made a wide circle of friends.

Kemper Gibson, her youngest son, pleasantly remembered by our people, died several years ago. Joseph S. Gibson, of Monterey, and Wm. A. of Charlottesville, are the two living sons. The daughters are Miss Kate and Miss Clara Gibson, at home, Mrs John M. Colaw, of Monterey, and Mrs. D. M. Kyle, of Staunton.

Church of Jesus Christ of Latter Day Saints

Elder and Sister Eldredge, serving as Missionaries of the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter Day Saints, feel it a privilege to labor here in Pocahontas County.

We are from the state of Washington, and leave six children living in Oregon, California and Washington.

Our church services are held Sunday, at 10 a. m. to 1 p. m. We extend a welcome to all who would like to attend.

We are living in Apartment D, 208 Sixth Street. At present we hold our Sunday services in our home.

The Marlinton Presbyterian Church 100th Anniversary

Come celebrate the 100th Anniversary of Marlinton Presbyterian Church, Thursday, Friday, and Sunday, April 23, 24, and 26. Meet former pastors and friends. Let's have a glad reunion, share fond memories, and celebrate as we look to the church's past and future.

Thursday, 23, at 7:30 p. m., former Pastor Fred Walker will preach, our own Adult Choir will lead music, and Mark Newkirk will play the violin. After the service, we'll adjourn to the Fellowship Hall and cut the Birthday Cake.

Friday, 24, at 7:30 p. m., former Pastor "Gene" Pierce will preach. The High School Pops Group directed by Charles Fauber, will have our special music. The Friday service will have a special appeal to youth, but is for everyone. Several of our members are in the Pops Group.

Sunday morning, 26, at 10:30 former Pastor Ernest Flaniken will preach. Our Junior and Adult Choirs will lead our worship. Mary Alice Bowers and Annette Eye will have organ and piano music and prelude beginning at 10:15. We will recognize those who have come back for the celebration during the morn-first day of May, to appoint election registrars and to transact other business.

John S. Jackson died at the home of his brother-in-law, W. H. Cackley, in this city, on Tuesday morning, March 14, 1922, aged 79 years and two days. He had been in failing health for some months. Mr. Jackson had been a resident of the city for about eleven years and was well-known and liked on account of his kind disposition. He was born in Highland county, Va., but spent most of his life in Pocahontas county. He was a brave Confederate soldier, serving in Company F, 19th Virginia Cavalry, under Captain M. L. McNeel- Mr. Jackson is survived by four full brothers, S. L. and A. H. Jackson, of this city, and W. K. and E. H. Jackson, of Cass, and two half brothers, also by three sisters and one half sister. After funeral services at the home of his sister, Mrs. W. H. Cackley, at four o'clock on Wednesday afternoon his body was laid to rest in Riverview cemetery. Rev. W. C. Sponaugle and Rev. R. DUNMORE

There is a lot of plowing being done now. The farmers are busy as bees everywhere.

Lyle McLaughlin left Tuesday for West Liberty where he will finish his Normal work.

We are glad to hear that June McElwee will soon be living in town again.

Grey Grimes, Leta McLaughlin and Mrs. J. A. Pritchard are now going to Greenbank High School from home, in a Ford. They report rough roads and hope for better ones in the near future.

The dwelling of Fred Pritchard on West main street is being painted.

Doc. Sheets is having some work done on his cottage on main street by Mr. Duffey and Austin Little.

The Methodist Sunday School, which was entertained at the home of Mr. and Mrs. E. N. Moore last Friday night, by a big sugar stirring had a wonderful time.

Jane, the little daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. O. Campbell who was very ill is improving slowly.

We are glad to know that Lee Noel is improving. He is at the home of his grand-mother, Mrs. Wm. Smith.

We are anxious to know what has happened to our Bittington friend. He must have gone to "Normalcy."

Mountain Minister of the Year

Rev. Kendall Hatton, pastor of the Beaver Creek Baptist Church, Ferguson, North Carolina, was the recent recipient of the A. S. Petrey Mountain Minister of the Year Award presented by Clear Creek Baptist School president, D. M. Aldridge. The award is given in recognition of outstanding service in the Appalachian Mountain area.

The award was named in honor of the late Rev. A. S. Petrey, formerly of Harvard, who was a pioneer negro minister in Perry County from 1897 to 1952.

Hatton, vigorously mission-minded throughout his ministry, also pioneered Baptist missions and church work in West Virginia, a state adjacent to Kentucky, where Petrey ministered. While pastor in West Virginia, Hatton helped start two missions from his church, then resigned his church to become pastor of one of the missions. It grew into a strong church, and again h began a mission from tha church.

When Hatton applied fo admission to Clear Cree School in 1949, he could n read, but not because h lacked intelligence. Befo the age of six, Hatton b came almost blind follow ing a bout with measle His first grade teacher wa not aware of his hand cap and seated him nea the back of the room be cause he was taller tha most of his classmates Being a smart boy, h would memorize the read ing lesson from hearing th other children read. I have tried to sell my store as a whole, but on account of having too large a stock of goods I could not do so. Now I am going to give all a chance to buy at a price much below wholesale cost.

My store house will be for rent or sale.

Later he graduated from Clarke College, Newton, Mississippi, and Cumberland College, Williamsburg, Kentucky, and also did graduate work at Eastern Kentucky University.

Rev. Floyd Tidsworth, West Virginia Director of Missions, says of Hatton: "He has had significant church growth in the pastorates in West Virginia. He stayed a number of years in each situation, and he certainly was a cooperating Southern Baptist."

On hand for the ceremonies was Dr. Tom Halsell, Executive-Secretary of the West Virginia Baptist Convention.

A native of Centralia, West Virginia, Hatton has pastored churches in Kentucky, West Virginia, and North Carolina. He is married to the former Sarah V. Parman of London, Kentucky, and they have two children.

NNING TO BUILD A HO

Happy Birthday, Johnny
Mom, Ben

In Memory of My Brother,
JOHNNY SHARP, JR.
who passed away, June 17, 1979

It was the month of June
That we stood by his open grave
And watched them lower our darling brother
Whom we would have given our life to save
But we knew we couldn't awaken
That silent soul in clay
So we laid our heart beside him
And sadly walked away
Have you ever lost a brother
Who was so very dear to you
One you loved so very much
And miss him like we do
Have you ever had a heartache
Or ever felt the pain
Or ever shed those bitter tears
That drop like falling rain
If you've never had this feeling
Then I pray you never do
For when God takes your brother
He takes a part of you.

Happy Birthday, Johnny
Patty, Jane, Jackie

May God bless each one of you.

Marlinton Depot

Progress is being made on the project to restore the former C&O station in Marlinton and this should be physically obvious in the next month or two.

Seven contractors submitted bids on the exterior restoration work on the building, to be funded by a $20,000 grant from the West Virginia Department of Culture and History. Bids were opened on March 7. The low bidder was Zimmerman Construction Company, of Renick. As all bids were over the $20,000, the plan to replace the present asphalt platform with a wooden one similar to the original platform had to be deleted from the contract. It is hoped that we can have part of the work needed to restore the platform donated, so this part of the restoration project can be done this spring.

A contract was signed with Mr. Zimmerman for $14,112.25. This amount includes replacing the roof, needed carpentry work, and painting the depot and adjacent office building.

The next major decision to be made within the next few months is the future use of the depot after restoration is done. Anyone with suggestions for the use of the facility or interested in making use of it in some way is asked to attend the next meeting or contact Bill McNeel, President, or Norris Long, Secretary.

The next meeting of the Marlinton Railroad Depot, Inc., will be on May 11. This will be the annual meeting and members of the Board of Directors will be elected for the coming year. The Board of Directors is made up of representatives from various civic groups, the High School, the Town government, and several at large members. The entire Board is elected by the members of the organization. Anyone can become a member of Marlinton Railroad Depot, Inc., by simply expressing an interest in doing so.

The next major decision to be made within the next few months is the future use of the depot after restoration is done. Anyone with suggestions for the use of the facility or interested in making use of it in some way is asked to attend the next meeting or contact Bill McNeel, President, or Norris Long, Secretary.

The next meeting of the Marlinton Railroad Depot, Inc., will be on May 11. This will be the annual meeting and members of the Board of Directors will be elected for the coming year. The Board of Directors is made up of representatives from various civic groups, the High School, the Town government, and several at large members. The entire Board is elected by the members of the organization. Anyone can become a member of Marlinton Railroad Depot, Inc., by simply expressing an interest in doing so.

Connie Miller Feted At Baby Shower

Mrs. Connie Miller was the guest of honor at a surprise baby shower held for her Thursday, April 9th. Linda Martorano and Alesia Wayne were hostesses with Lillian Stack and Judy Fuller assisting. Mrs. Miller was thoroughly surprised and she received many lovely gifts. Those attending were: Anna Mae Booth, Donna Knicely and daughter, Amy, Ruth Jennings, Doris Nelson, Betty Schuhmann, Marilyn Guthrie, Sheila Rexrode, Henrietta Reigel, Diane Stack, the Millers' daughter, Debbie, and husband, Ben.

Mrs. Annie Cromer (l) and Mrs. M. R. Beard from Pocahontas County attended the W. Va. Farm Bureau Annual Women's Committee Conference held at Jackson's Mill on April 8 and 9.

The Annual Women's Committee Conference had guest speakers from the American Farm Bureau, Marsha Herndon, Women's Committee Activities Director, spoke on "Building a Strong County Farm Bureau"; "Recycling, We Can Clean Up and Save Money" was a topic discussed by Jim Nooney, State Affairs Representative: Mary Davidson, Retired County Clerk of Gilmer County, discussed, "Where There Is A Will, There Is A Way;" "Drug Abuse Is Everyone's Problem" was presented by Fred Gaudet, Sheriff of Upshur County; and Bill Aiken, WVFB Field Services Director, presented and discussed a film entitled, "Grab Hold of Today" which was a motivation topic. Aiken also concluded the conference with a wrap-up on "Spring Time is a Good Time to Get New Programs Started."

The conference closed with lunch on Thursday, April 9.

Clarification

Due to the fact there has been some misunderstanding concerning AARP and Senior Citizens we wish to make the following clarification. These are two entirely separate organizations. AARP is a national organization of retired persons with a local chapter with both national and local dues. Senior Citizens is an organization under the Commission on Aging and is open to all Senior Citizens with no dues. Even though the two organizations are closely affiliated with each other it should be understood that any contributions or donations be clearly stated as to which organization they are intended for.

...a tall tale?

Then make a point of coming to the Augusta Heritage Arts Workshop this year where all of these skills, and many more, will be taught.

The program familiarizes interested students with the variety of music which was available in pioneer Appalachia—banjo, fiddles, and hammer dulcimers. This year a special two-week workshop in hammer dulcimer will be taught by Sam Rizetta.

The workshop will allow students to choose classes ranging from two days to the entire five weeks in duration. Featured classes will include musical instrument construction, oral history, woodworking, basketry, herbs, weaving, lace making, papermaking, custom spinning, storytelling, rug hooking, rug braiding, and quilting. Another highlight will be a week of Mountain Dance, with the Easy Street String Band and the Fiddle Puppets in residence.

Weekend workshops will offer students a variety of experiences: applehead and nuthead dollmaking, Tenneriffe embroidery, coiled basketry. During evening workshops students will have the opportunity to learn to play the tinwhistle or the blues harmonica, and to clog.

At night students will be able to enjoy concerts, films, square dances and community sings, all of which will be held on the campus of Davis and Elkins College where the workshop is located.

Registrations for classes are now being accepted. For information concerning costs, housing and camping facilities, teacher certification or college credit for courses write to:

1881 Marlinton Presbyterian Church 1981

On April 23, 1881, the Marlinton Presbyterian Church was organized as the Marlin's Bottom Church. The name was changed in 1900 to conform with the town's name which had been changed in 1886.

The twelve charter members were: A. M. McGlaughlin, Miss M. M. G. McGlaughlin, Mrs. Elizabeth McGlaughlin, Mrs. Lucy Gay, Miss Nancy G. Price, Mrs. Caroline Warwick, Miss Emma Warwick, Mrs. S. M. Apperson, James Cleek, Mrs. A. Cleek, Geo. M. Kee. A. M. McGlaughlin and Geo. M. Kee were elected Elders, Kee was Clerk.

For some time services were held in the school house which was then on Price Run. Dr. D. S. Sydenstricker, pastor of the Oak Grove Church, Hillsboro, preached once a month. In the fall of 1881 the congregation began the erection of a church building, completed the next spring. In September, 1885, Dr. William T. Price was called as first minister and he served until he retired in 1900. Other ministers have been: G. W. Nickell, 1900-1907; A. S. Rachal 1909-1914; J. M. Walker, 1914-1920; H. H. Orr, 1921-1926; K. V. Bowen, 1927-1933; S. B. Lapsley, 1933-1938; J. C. Wood, 1938-1947; Roger P. Melton, 1947-1954; E. H. Flaniken, 1954-1957; W. E. Pierce, 1958-1965; F. W. Walker, 1965-1968; Donald E. Wood, 1968-1973; Richard L. Newkirk, 1974 to present.

The first wooden church building, built on land given by Mr. and Mrs. Andrew McGlaughlin, was torn down and the present brick building erected in 1915.

The first deacons, in 1893, were Walter Mann, Andrew Price, and E. F. McLaughlin.

The Women of the Church were first the Ladies Aid Society and the Women's Missionary Society and then organized as the Women's Auxiliary in 1921.

Four men have gone from this church into the ministry: Henry W. McLaughlin, Ewell V. Wiley, Basil P. Sharp, Clarence Davis, Jr.

There are two chapels—Buckeye and Mary's Chapel—and the Stony Creek Chapel was organized into a Church on May 14, 1967.

OFFICERS GET STILL AND 200 GALLONS OF MASH

State Prohibition Agents and Local Officers Capture 60 Gallon Still and 240 Gallons Mash on Thorny Creek Mountain; Operators Caught and Lodged in Jail

Sheriff Reid Moore, State Patrolman G. W. Busch, Ellis Dean and two State prohibition agents of Charleston, captured one of the largest stills ever captured in this county, last Friday afternoon on Thorny Creek Mountain.

The still was of the capacity of 60 gallons and was made of two large copper kettles, one on top of the other. The officers, when they arrived at the still, found no one near. They stationed themselves at various points around the still to await the arrival of the operators.

Patrolman Busch, who was nearest the still, was almost run over by the two operators, Marion Galford and Renick Waugh, in their attempt to get to the still. They stopped directly behind Busch and discussed their plans and also remarked that it looked as if someone had been around; they proceeded into the vicinity of the still and immediately after the men had passed to the front of Busch, he ordered them to halt.

Waugh and Galford were immediately relieved of their weapon, which was a high powered rifle, and brought to Marlinton where they were lodged in the local jail and then taken on to Bluefield, Monday, to answer in the Federal court, which is in session there, this week.

CLEANING UP CHICAGO

Chicago's Crime Commission which has been studying the gang and racket problem for a long time, has come out with the somewhat amazing suggestion that the quickest way to break up the gang grip upon the community is for the public to boycott the business men, landlords, professional men and bankers, who are found to be paying tribute to the racketeers. The theory behind this is that it will eventually have the effect of cutting off the stream of easy money that is flowing from the legitimate business of the city into gangland. In other words, having failed by the customary methods of preserving the peace it is now proposed that an economic remedy be tried.

Such a proposal is not calculated to increase respect for authority in general, but it probably will provoke a wide variety of emotion in the breasts of the tribute payers. Those who are unwilling victims will feel that they have been abandoned by the very people to whom they have come to look out for help and as a result are between two fires, badly, and those who are more or less in sympathy with the gangsters will be filled with dark anger. It probably is true that in Chicago the latter class is by far the more numerous. It would contain all the grocery proprietors, the keepers of beer flats and more questionable resorts and their army of customers as well as those business men who live upon the patronage of the underworld.

It is not much prospect, therefore, that an economic weapon will prove more effective than the police have been. The latter can be expected to clean up Chicago only when there is a public alliance between the police and the citizens.

That shows that the state prohibition enforcement officials have been even more active than federal officers, which probably will surprise the average West Virginian a great deal.

Made Him Fit.

Up in the "Sinks," which lies partly in Pocahontas and partly in Pendleton counties, in the timber operations the foreign workmen bury their dead without ceremony. A dead Italian was allowed to lie a week in a shanty in which several Italians lived, but when the boss of the camp learned about the matter he made the men make a coffin and inter their companion. After it was made it was found that on account of the cot sagging in the middle the dead man was lying pretty much in shape of a hoop and could not be placed in the box. While they were considing making a larger box one ingenious Italian solved the problem by taking a double-edged axe and preparing the corpse for burial. He first broke the legs and then with a blow in the head drove the body down far enough into the box for the lid to go on.

North-South Rhododendron Classic

Larry Sharp, son of Mr. and Mrs. Dice Sharp, of Clover Lick, has been chosen to play in the North-South All Star Football Classic, sponsored by Charleston Lions Club and West Virginia Coaches Association July 18, at Laidley Field, Charleston, at 8 p. m.

Larry will report to West Virginia State College July 7, nine days prior to the game.

The South Team is coached by Claude Miller, of Huntington High School. Mr. Miller coached at Marlinton High School 1950—51 and 1951—52.

Larry is first team AA All-State punter and will play defensive end. He also is first team all Southern, first team All New River Valley Conference, and starred in basketball at PCHS. Larry is the first player from the Warrior team to play in North-South Game.

The finest grass season for many years, meadows are good but a little leaky for haymaking. Corn is looking fine and promises to be good but huckleberries are awfully scarce and rattlers in abundance.

Ira Gum is off to camp.

Mrs. Ida Sue Rider is confined to her bed with a case of fever.

H. Shearer stopped over here with a drove of cattle from the east.

Rev. Geo. Richardson, of Healing Springs, and Mrs. Morris, of Durbin, were pleasant callers at Rimel last week.

Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Williams, of Hot Springs, Va., called at Rimel for dinner on their way to visit friends and relatives in this county. They returned home Sunday. Mrs. Williams was Miss Julie Seiter, of Veytanx Chillon, Switzerland, and we found her to be a very pleasant lady.

We have a snake story for you but haven't got it together yet.

We notice in the Times some one says the people around Dunmore don't charge for gravel for road purposes. I guess not, if it was as plentiful in this community as around Dunmore we would pay to have it hauled off, especially for road. This would beat grumbling about mud holes.

WANTED—to know how to get rid of elk that are eating ones corn. Please answer this week as something must be done.

Foster Gets Two Years.

Luther Foster, sergeant of the town of Cass, was last week sentenced to two years in the penitentiary by Judge Miller who was presiding over the Pocahontas county circuit court in the absence of Judge Dice. The case attracted more attention than any other at the term held last week. Foster had been a policeman at Cass for a number of years. Several times he has been charged with taking money from prisoners whom he had arrested in a drunken condition. In this particular case he was charged with taking $234.50 from a woodman and only returning $114.61 when he released the prisoner. He was indicted in several cases, we understand, but was only tried on the one indictment. After hearing the evidence, the jury found a verdict of guilty and he received the two year sentence. Foster claims that it is a frame-up job on him. There is a considerable division of opinion among those who are best acquainted with the ex-policeman. He will try to get a new hearing. Foster is originally from Monroe county.

WVSOM

There is much to be gained by looking back to the wisdom of our founders, Clyde B. Jensen, Ph.D., the new president at the West Virginia School of Osteopathic Medicine, believes.

With that in mind, Dr. Jensen traveled the winding road to Green Bank, in Pocahontas County, recently to meet with WVSOM's founding president, Roland P. Sharp, D. O.

The visit took place in Dr. Sharp's small, comfortable office, where WVSOM's first president practices medicine as a family doctor, seeing 30—35 patients each day as he did before he became the WVSOM president in 1974.

"The kindly country doctor," as he is known to several generations of Pocahontas County residents, fondly reminisced about the early days at West Virginia's osteopathic medical school while he talked with Dr. Jensen.

"It was quite an experience in those days," Dr. Sharp recalled. "I was not involved in the preliminary work which actually established the college when the bryology instructor, associate anatomy professor and pathology department acting chairman at the Kirksville College of Osteopathic Medicine, he went to work coordinating the basic science curriculum for West Virginia's first osteopathic medical students who were to enroll in the fall of 1974.

"They also gave me the responsibility of hiring the college's first president," he told Dr. Jensen with a chuckle. "Well, when the deadline for the search came, several candidates had not worked out. I reported to the committee and it was not more than an hour later that they called me back to tell me I was their choice... So, I was surprised to find myself in a position I had not sought."

During those first years, Dr. Sharp served as the president of a young college much different than the one Dr. Jensen found at the first of March when he assumed the WVSOM presidency following an extensive five-month search that attracted candidates from all over the country.

Major Arbogast Dead.

Major J. C. Arbogast, twice elected sheriff of Pocahontas county, died at Greenbank last Saturday morning, of organic heart trouble. He was 76 years of age. At the outbreak of the war between the states he entered the Confederate service and was made captain of the Greenbank company, the crack company of the 31st Va. Infantry. Afterward he was promoted to the rank of major in the same regiment. He was a member of the M. E. Church South, and was considered one of the best citizens of the county. His funeral, which was conducted Sunday afternoon drew a large concourse of sorrowing friends and relatives. He is survived by two sons, Earl and Wardell. A daughter, Mrs. Wm. Gladwell, died a couple of years ago. His wife has been dead several years.

"It was quite an experience in those days," Dr. Sharp recalled. "I was not involved in the preliminary work which actually established the college when the old Greenbrier Military School was purchased to turn it into the Greenbrier College of Osteopathic Medicine. That was done by a group of osteopathic physicians in the state through the West Virginia Society of Osteopathic Medicine...I'll have to admit, I was skeptical at first, but I came to Lewisburg to help with initial federal and state funding efforts and to help with the accreditation process through the American Osteopathic Association."

"When he was appointed executive dean of the small, private college by the state society of osteopathic physicians, Dr. Sharp stayed on to help get the school on its feet, assembling a small team of administrators and professors to work with him.

Using his background as a former histology and emlege much different than the one Dr. Jensen found at the first of March when he assumed the WVSOM presidency following an extensive five-month search that attracted candidates from all over the country.

WVSOM changed from a private to state-support school five years ago. The college's enrollment has grown from its charter class size of 36 in 1974 to its 240 limit by this fall. WVSOM faculty, administration, staff, academic programs and clinical training opportunities have also developed over the years since Dr. Sharp retired.

Some qualities remain unchanged though, the two presidents, past and present, discovered in their conversations.

The same friendly, rural nature of WVSOM, shaped by its location in the small community of Lewisburg, impressed Dr. Sharp when he first visited the campus eight years ago and Dr. Jensen when he saw the school for the first time last fall.

Some of the same dreams for WVSOM's future are still shared.

Sad Drowning of Young Man.

The sad new of the drowning of Charles C. Clark, of Academy, was received here Tuesday of this week. The fatality occurred at Gauley Bridge, where the young man was working, Tuesday morning. The particulars have not been fully learned.

It seems that Mr. Clark was employed at the C. & O. station at Gauley Bridge as assistant to his cousin, Forest Clark, who is agent at that point. He was employed at night and each morning after quitting work would go to the river to take a bath before retiring for the day. On the morning of the drowning he went to the river by himself after eating breakfast and as was his custom went in bathing. He was quite a piece from the shore, when being seized with a cramp, sank before help could reach him. The river was dragged for his body, which was found about twenty minutes after it had sunk beneath the waters of New river. Doctors worked over the body almost a half hour before life was pronounced extinct. The remains were prepared for burial and brought to Academy, his former home, Wednesday. That afternoon he was laid away in the presence of a large assemblage of sorrowing friends and relatives. He was a very popular young man, a son of J. H. Clark, of Academy, who with his family has the most profound sympathy of the entire community. The young man was about 20 years of age.

Born, to Mr. and Mrs. Carl Slaven Saturday night, a son.

Uncle Jack is a mountaineer of a type now rare and rapidly passing away. With his old home rifle as a sole companion he has probably tramped through every mountain gorge and over every spur along the border of the two Virginias, and has won fame both in the still hunt and the chase.

The mule was saddled ready for the trip and Uncle Jack approached with the old home rifle in hand. Placing his foot in the stirrup, he threw his rifle across with his long arm to the other side essaying to mount. In some way the rifle was discharged, the ball cutting the old donkey's right eye completely out. Whether in retaliation or pain, no one knew, but the mule leaped forward, kicked with both feet and removed Uncle Jack's tattered "sky-piece" without a particle of injury to the wearer. They made friends and the two lived to win the prize at the 1912 Stock Show offered for "the oldest mule ridden by the oldest man."

Ten One Legged Witnesses.

Ten one-legged men sat in a row in Judge Hady's courtroom, in Edwardsville, Ill., when the suit of Walter Taylor against the Commonwealth Steel company of Granite City was called. Taylor seeks damage under the workingman's compensation law for the loss of a limb. An offer to settle for $1,700 was made by the company, and the one legged men were in court to testify that a man crippled as Taylor is can find employment which will pay him from $2 and $3 a day. Their testimony was not heard, as the court referred the case to a board of three arbitrators.

Sold His Wife for $4.50.

Nick Cudian is in jail at Wheeling on a charge of white slavery, and his wife, whom he is alleged to have sold a resident of Martins Ferry, Ohio, for $4.50, is being held as a witness. Mrs. Cudian was arrested in a Wheeling resort, it being alleged the husband lives from the profits of her sin. It is charged that Cudian, while a resident of Martins Ferry, was engaged in business of a similar character. It is charged that a foreigner there became infatuated with the woman, that he opened negotiations with Cudian and after much haggling, a price was agreed upon. It is charged Cudian sold his wife to her admirer for $4.50. Later, however, it is said, Cudian took his wife back, but failed to return the purchase money.

Foster Gets Two Years.

Luther Foster, sergeant of the town of Cass, was last week sentenced to two years in the penitentiary by Judge Miller who was presiding over the Pocahontas county circuit court in the absence of Judge Dice. The case attracted more attention than any other at the term held last week. Foster had been a policeman at Cass for a number of years. Several times he has been charged with taking money from prisoners whom he had arrested in a drunken condition. In this particular case he was charged with taking $234.50 from a woodman and only returning $114.61 when he released the prisoner. He was indicted in several cases, we understand, but was only tried on the one indictment. After hearing the evidence, the jury found a verdict of guilty and he received the two year sentence. Foster claims that it is a frame-up job on him. There is a considerable division of opinion among those who are best acquainted with the ex-policeman. He will try to get a new hearing. Foster is originally from Monroe county.

Foster Gets Two Years.

Luther Foster, sergeant of the town of Cass, was last week sentenced to two years in the penitentiary by Judge Miller who was presiding over the Pocahontas county circuit court in the absence of Judge Dice. The case attracted more attention than any other at the term held last week. Foster had been a policeman at Cass for a number of years. Several times he has been charged with taking money from prisoners whom he had arrested in a drunken condition. In this particular case he was charged with taking $234.50 from a woodman and only returning $114.61 when he released the prisoner. He was indicted in several cases, we understand, but was only tried on the one indictment. After hearing the evidence, the jury found a verdict of guilty and he received the two year sentence. Foster claims that it is a frame-up job on him. There is a considerable division of opinion among those who are best acquainted with the ex-policeman. He will try to get a new hearing. Foster is originally from Monroe county.

Ruszin-:-Arbogast

The marriage of Miss Pamela Sue Arbogast, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Richard P. Arbogast, of Baltimore, Maryland, to Paul Matthew Ruszin, Jr., son of Paul Ruszin, Sr. and the late Mildred Ruszin, of Baltimore, Maryland, took place October 27, 1979, at the Patronage a tight cuff, trimmed with lace. Her horsehair picture hat was trimmed with lace and a white denim hat band to match her gown. Her bouquet was of daisies and baby's breath.

Paul Matthew Ruszin, Jr., son of Paul Ruszin, Sr. and the late Mildred Ruszin, of Baltimore, Maryland, took place October 27, 1979, at the Patronage Mother of God Church in Arbutus, Maryland. The Rev. John Danilak performed the ceremony. The Wedding Song and other John Denver selections were provided by guitarist, Larry Joynes.

Attendants to the bride were Miss Joyce Jacobs, maid of honor, and Mrs. Cherie Preston and Miss Janice Ruszin, bridesmaids. The flower girl was Miss Suzanne Wallace.

Best man was Charles Fisher. Ushers were Rick Ruszin, Frank Ruszin, Tom Ruszin, and Rick Arbogast. Ring bearer was Master Keiver Jordan.

The bride's gown was reminiscent of the Victorian era. It was fashioned of white imported denim with pintucked bodice and a mandarin neckline. The skirt and chapel train were completely unadorned except for a Chantilly lace bound hemline. The bishop sleeves billowed softly into daisies and baby's breath.

The bridesmaids wore tangerine checked old fashioned gowns, similar style to the bride's gown, with daisies and baby's breath in their hair.

A reception was held at the Town and Country Club in Arbutus, Maryland. After a wedding trip to New Hampshire, they are residing in Pasadena, Maryland.

The new Mrs. Ruszin is the granddaughter of Mrs. Vera Arbogast and the late Richard Y. Arbogast, of Buckeye, and the late Mr. and Mrs. Dennie Snedegar, of Droop.

Mr. Ruszin is the grandson of Mrs. Mary Ruszin and the late Frank Ruszin of Dunbar, Pennsylvania, and the late Mr. and Mrs. Mike Szpatura of Eastern Europe.

Pam is employed as a lab technician at Regester Photo Services, Inc. and Rusty is Assistant Chief of Park Operations for Maryland Park Service.

Pam is the niece of Mr. and Mrs. Bill McCarty, of Buckeye, who attended this special event.

Scenic Highway Meeting

Over forty persons attended the public meeting in the Marlinton Municipal Auditorium last Thursday concerning the possible extension of the Highland Scenic Highway. About forty had attended a like meeting at Mill Creek the night before.

Robert Williams, study project director, and Richard Koch, both of Gannett Fleming Corddry and Carpenter, Inc., of Harrisburg, Pennsylvania, conducted the meeting. GFCC is a consulting firm and the

Candidate For Circuit Clerk

Earl D. "Butch" Michael announced Saturday his intention to file as a candidate for the Democratic nomination for Circuit Clerk of Pocahontas County Circuit Court. During the legal filing period next month, "Butch" will complete an official filing procedure.

Butch is a native of Pocahontas County and a 1960 graduate of Marlinton High School. He has attended Glenville State College and Indiana University with of Highland Co. Va., passed through this part Saturday to visit Mr. and Mrs. S. R. Hogsett on Browns Creek.

Clay Drepperd and Russell Kelley of Frost were in this part Sunday.

Mrs. Manda Sharp is visiting her daughter Mrs. Hevner Dilley.

Mrs. Newman R. Fertig, and little son of Harter are visiting at N. M. Fertigs.

C. K. Moore returned home for Sunday where he has been working the roads at Rimel.

Robert Williams, study project director, and Richard Koch, both of Gannett Fleming Corddry and Carpenter, Inc., of Harrisburg, Pennsylvania, conducted the meeting. GFCC is a consulting firm and they were hired to make a study of the four proposed routes of an extension of the Highland Scenic Highway from the top of Elk Mountain on Rt. 219 to Rt. 250 as it crosses Cheat Mountain, which study will also include the possibility of not building the road any farther.

They have companies and persons studying the resources—timber, minerals, etc.—, recreation, archeological and soil aspects of the project.

There are four "corridors" to be studied. The first section goes west of Gay Knob and is common to all proposed routes. One route splits off beyond Gibson Knob, goes down the Linwood Road, goes west of Mace Knob, crosses the big cut on the railroad, follows along the ridges of Cheat to Rt. 250 northwest of Barton Knob.

A second corridor goes on through Thorny Flats next month, "Butch" will complete an official filing procedure.

Butch is a native of Pocahontas County and a 1960 graduate of Marlinton High School. He has attended Glenville State College and Indiana University with studies in business administration, majoring in accounting and English.

Butch is married to the former Katherine Vandevender of Mace. They have one son, David, who is a Freshman at Pocahontas County High School.

The Michaels are active members of the Marlinton United Methodist Church where Butch is a Certified Lay Speaker. He is a member of Marlinton Lodge No. 127, A. F. & A. M. and holds the office of Secretary. He is also a life member of the Theta XI Fraternity at Glenville State College. The Michaels live at 716 Eighth Avenue in Marlinton.

On September 1, 1979, Circuit Court Judges Charles M. Lobban and Frank E. Jolliffe, together with several recommendations from the Democratic Executive Committee of Pocahontas County, and others, did appoint

Parties are requested to come out and help clear off the cemetery at Mt. Zion. There has been quite a bit off work done and all parties that have fathers, mothers, brothers, and sisto all proposed routes. One route splits off beyond Gibson Knob, goes down the Linwood Road, goes west of Mace Knob, crosses the big cut on the railroad, follows along the ridges of Cheat to Rt. 250 northwest of Barton Knob.

A second corridor goes on through Thorny Flats and follows Back Allegheny Mountain to the vicinity of Cheat Bridge.

A third route splits off the second route at the headwaters of Shavers Fork and follows the river to Cheat Bridge.

A fourth goes the same route up through Thorny Flats, splits off the third route and takes the railroad grade over to the first route and on up along the ridges of Cheat.

The "impact study" will cost a half million dollars but it is required.

This was just the beginning of a year or more of meetings and studies to get public imput into the project, plus, of course, all the technical data.

Preliminary studies show the Shavers Fork route would have less steep grades but the Cheat Mountain route would be the least expensive.

All the corridors lie mostly Avenue in Marlinton.

On September 1, 1979, Circuit Court Judges Charles M. Lobban and Frank E. Jolliffe, together with several recommendations from the Democratic Executive Committee of Pocahontas County, and others, did appoint Butch as circuit clerk to fulfill the unexpired term of Houstom Simmons who resigned. As circuit clerk, Butch has experienced not only a challenge, but also many rewarding experiences and associations. It is an awesome responsibility to keep and maintain accurate and proper records of the court. Butch feels highly honored to have been given these responsibilities; not only to the court, but also to the citizens of Pocahontas County. He will visit extensively with the people of Pocahontas County between his official filing date and election day.

First Baby Born in 1980

It's a new decade and a new way of life for 17 year old Cindy Brock, of Dunmore, the mother of the first baby born in Randolph County in 1980.

Born at 3:48 a. m. on New Year's Day in Memorial General Hospital, Jason William Brock weighed eight pounds, two and a half ounces.

His father, 22-year old Michael William Brock, is employed as a sawmill worker by Interstate Lumber Company of Bartow. Both parents attended Pocahontas County High School, where the father graduated in 1975.

"Jason seems like a pretty normal baby," his mother says with a laugh. "He's got a little bit of a temper, though. When he's ready to eat, he's ready."

Because she is breastfeeding the baby, she says, "He's here with me quite a bit."

Were she and her husband hoping for a New Year's Day baby? "To tell you the truth," she admits, "we never even thought about it."

Helen and Albert Wilfong of Dunmore Family Receives Master Farmer Award

Master Farmer Award

A Pocahontas farm family has added another honor to its list of high awards.

Albert and Helen Wilfong, who operate a 2,530 acre livestock farm near Dunmore, in partnership with their son, Charles, received a Master Farmer award at the Pennsylvania Farm Show January 9. The award is sponsored by Pennsylvania Farmer Magazine and the Pennsylvania Cooperative Extension Service. Six regional farm operations were cited.

The Wilfongs were nominated by the West Virginia University Cooperative Extension Service and the West Virginia Department of Agriculture.

Accompanying the family to the awards luncheon in Harrisburg, Pennsylvania, was Bob Keller, Pocahontas County Extension crossbreeding program introduced two Angus bulls into the herd.

Using their pastures and winter forage to fullest advantage, the Wilfongs overwinter yearling steers and heifers weighing between 700 to 850 pounds.

Their sheep flock of more than 300 Hampshire and Suffolk breeding ewes provides a consistent income. The Wilfongs utilize the Eastern Lamb Producers Teleauctions for marketing thir lambs and the Pocahontas Wool Pool for selling their wool.

Their cattle are marketed through special graded sales, often to contract buyers from the midwest although they have sold replacement ewes and heifers to their neighbors.

Accompanying the family to the awards luncheon in Harrisburg, Pennsylvania, was Bob Keller, Pocahontas County Extension Agent. Keller gave a 7-minute slide presentation and narration about the Wilfongs' farming partnership. The award winners received a plaque.

Third generation farmers, the Wilfongs rent 250 of the 2,530 acres they operate. Pasture, hay and silage, beef cattle and sheep are the mainstays.

In the past decade they have doubled the acreage of their alfalfa to 130 acres, mixed hay to 90 acres, corn for silage and grain to 35 acres and oats to 20 acres.

The hay crop yields between 10,000 and 15,000 bales annually for sale. The major source of the farm income, however, is the livestock. The beef cattle program, essentially a cow/calf yearling cattle operation, depends on a herd of 185 Hereford cows and 8 purebred bulls. A recent

Marlinton Stockyard Livestock Insurance

Pocahontas Producers Marlinton Stockyard announces that effective April 8th, at the next regular sale all livestock handled by the stockyard will be fully insured from the time it leaves the farm until loaded out to the buyer, according to Donald Vandevender, sales manager.

This new coverage for consignors is provided through the National Livestock Marketing Association which Pocahontas Producers has recently joined. Coverage of this insurance includes accidental death from fire or natural disaster, accidental loss while at the stockyard, theft from the stockyard, mortgage endorsement and most importantly it covers accidental losses to livestock that might occur while livestock is in transit from the farm to the sale.

Market officials and directors are pleased to make this announcement and encourage area farmers to patronize the Marlinton Stockyard where your livestock is protected from the time you leave home.

Candidate for Magistrate

Joseph L. Harrison has announced that he has filed as a Candidate for Magistrate of Pocahontas County on the Democratic ticket.

Joe was born and raised in Arlington, Virginia, and was in the Armed Forces where he served 14 months in Viet Nam. Joe is married to the former Marietta Underwood, daughter of Watson and Grace Underwood, of Huntersville. They have two daughters.

Joe believes that each person is equal and should be treated equally according to the law. As Magistrate of Pocahontas County, Joe would have the opportunity to put into practice his belief that all persons are created equal.

If elected I will be readily available to serve the people.

Your vote and support will be greatly appreciated.

CALVIN W. PRICE, EDITOR.

THURSDAY, JULY 24 1913

Editor Kramer of the Independent wields a facile pen. Than whom a more chaste, pure, and erudite writer never came down the pike. Last week he wrote an able editorial condemning gossip, and in the course of his remarks, he says that someone, presumably a member of the unfair sex had had been placed under a peace bond as the out come of gossip, and yet who continues to besmirch the "fair name of a one time supposed friend." Now we take it that it is very unkind, not to say inhuman, to raise our curiosity concerning a choice bit of gossip like this and not tell us more of the

We call on the editor to elucidate. To let us have more of the facts surrounding this. We do not regard only ourselves. There must be plenty of others who are aroused to a fever pitch to know more about this choice bit of news. To write an editorial concerning and condemning gossip and then to lift the vail for a fleeting moment on a good piece of gossip, and not give us the satisfaction of knowing what it is all about is too bad. "Foul whisperings are abroad," and we cannot help it. So we might as well know what they are. It might ease the anguish of a torturing hour. And further reviewing the editorial on gossip, we will say

And further reviewing the editorial on gossip, we will say that we have no pearls of local history to disclose, but we will raise a few points as we go along. The first is that we do not believe that women are any more addicted to the vice of calumny than men. Wherever men congregate, the latest scandals are given first place in the conversation, and they are discussed in their minutest details and they grow as they are repeated. It may be that it is a wise provision of nature that the very fact of wrong doing may be talked

"Be thou chaste as ice and pure as snow, thou shalt not escape calumny," is what they declaim in Hamlet, but it is far from true, in every instance. And gossip is too broad a term to be condemned by an editor of a country newspaper, for it also includes the innocent and harmless happenings which go to make up the weekly issue. It is the office of the editor to gather up and sort out the week's gossip and publish that which can be printed and reject anything of a nature to hurt the feelings of any individual. If the city bubbles over with gossip, scandal and spite, the editor takes the gossip, and leaves the scandal and spite to go by word of mouth, for that will die a natural death. He should not publish the scandal and spite for his paper is a well nigh imperishable record which will be read a hundred years after,

On the whole, we agree with the editor in condemning harmful gossip, and our main kick is that he will not tell us more about the party who was bound over to keep the peace. He aroused our curiosity and refused to satisfy it and the world knows that is no way to do. "Tell us, and we will never tell a soul!"

G. E. Perca is the name of the dastardly scoundrel responsible for the great decrease in the bass in Greenbrier River. A group of fishermen met on the street corner the other day and discussed the fishing situation in Greenbrier River. One of the fishermen accused the goggle eyed perch, which has recently appeared in these waters, and the clew having been thus secured, a great many things became plain to the naturalists there assembled. In the eighties, men took pains to get extra strong lines woven from native hemp, to go to the Greenbrier and get big cat fish. Then the government let loose the dogs of war in the shape of the small mouthed black bass and the days of the catfish were numbered. The bass endured for about thirty years and the fishing was superb.

brief and [illegible] fish. Then the government let loose the dogs of war in the shape of the small mouthed black bass and the days of the catfish were numbered. The bass endured for about thirty years and the fishing was superb. All that a man needed to do to get all the bass that he wanted was to cast his hook into the water. Then we heard tales of failure to make catches down about Pence Spring, and then Alderson, and then Ronceverte where they took the goggle eyes in great quantities below the dam. Then the dam was so modified that fish could pass easily, and the goggle eyes worked up the river. In 1911 the fishing was not so good at Marlinton, and in 1912 it fell off still more, and this year we we have but a remnant of a pristine glory. It has got so that it is actually uncertain to fish. "What did you get?" is answered by a surley, "Got wet!" Serious

Candidate

BOARD OF EDUCATION
Edray District

My name is Ida H. Pritchard. I am a candidate to be elected to fill one of the two existing positions on the Pocahontas County Board of Education.

I feel that I am well qualified with enough educational background, work experience, and common sense to serve in the best interests of "ALL" the people of "This Great County" of ours.

I graduated from Dunmore Elementary School, Green Bank High School and Glenville College. I taught Mathematics and Science at Hillsboro High for seven years, Marlinton High, three years, and Green Bank High, one year. I was a social worker in Pocahontas County for three years. I feel that I am acquainted with people from all over the county.

I am 52 years old. I have been married to Jim Pritchard for thirty years. He is a beef and sheep producer at Edray. We moved to the farm in Edray on August 28, 1954. We have one son, Jim, II, who is twelve and in the sixth grade at the Marlinton Middle School.

My parents are Bob and Gray Hiner who live at Dunmore.

We are blessed with immense natural beauty in our environment. The greatest beauty to me is the smile on the tiny face of each child as he looks to all of us, parents, teachers, friends, relatives, older youth, and young adults, to teach, guide, protect, and prepare him to face the world.

Plans on paper, to me, are just as good as they are capable of being conveyed to whomever the plans are intended.

A strategy on paper has never won any war unless each man from General to Private is able to carry out his part of the plan. I believe in the education of the "whole child."

Please vote for me if you are concerned about better education for our most valuable resource.

I am available to speak to your club or group. Write me a letter or phone me. Let me know where you stand!

old time fisherman who has fought the lusty bass is full of sadness when he thinks of the condition a few years ago. The perch is of all the fishes the most voracious and dangerous to the more useful and cultivated fish. One of the goggle eyes was opened here in Marlinton and five small bass were found in the maw. The goggle eye watches the nest of the bass and this has been observed in this river this year. They are a shade quicker than the bass and are stronger in proportion to their size. They have far more fin sur face and apparently have plenty of horse power to work them. We are sorry that the bass have fallen on evil times. The best we can do is to fall on the perch and do a little ladylike fishing for this small and undesirable member of the fish tribe, and try to make believe that we are fishing.

Shooting

State Police are calling a shooting on Sunday a case of attempted suicide following their investigation into the incident. The shooting took place about 4:15 p. m. at the Allegheny Lodge in Minnehaha Springs on March 23. The person involved is Garnie Stidham, of Beckley, owner of the Lodge. Mr. Stidham was treated at the Pocahontas Memorial Hospital for a gunshot wound in his left chest. He was then transported to the Greenbrier Valley Hospital at Fairlea by the Marlinton Rescue Squad. His condition is reported to be stable.

Census Day

Your household, and all others in the area, will receive something in the mail this Friday—a questionnaire from the U. S. Bureau of the Census for the 1980 Census of Population and Housing.

Neil McGee, of Elkins, District Manager of the census, urges that you watch for the large white envelope with blue lettering. The census questionnaire for your household will be delivered by address, not on the basis of name. Below the address will be a telephone number to call if help is needed in answering any questions. With the questionnaire will be a yellow instruction guide that gives examples on how to fill it out, and a brown, preaddressed, postage-paid envelope for mailing it back.

The 1980 census symbol—a pencil inscribed "April 1" filling in the zero of "Census '80"—appears on the envelope with this message: "This envelope contains your official census form. Please fill it out and mail it back

History

By Jessie Beard Powell

(Mrs. Powell is working on a series of articles on the history of the Bartow area; we will print them from time to time as she gets them ready. Mrs. Powell lives at Traveller's Repose, which will appear on this year's Pioneer Days Badge.)

From the author—For a long time I have been writing haphazardly about the history of the land and people where I was born and reared—this for my children and grand children.

I find it difficult to determine a beginning and I may have the same difficulty with an ending!

So far, I have been concerned only with subjects dealing with that much named region, Head of the Greenbrier, Upper Tract, Traveller's Repose.

Cub Scout Bake-off

Timothy Williams and his father, David Williams, of Pack 112, Green Bank, were the winners of a trophy in the cake division of the Cub Scout Father-Son Bake-off held March 1, 1980, at the Greenbrier Hotel in White Sulphur Springs. The winning entry was a Mexican Chocolate Cake.

Seneca District was well represented by 11 of the 17 Cub Scout Packs. 53 entries were registered with only 7 to be chosen as winners. Judging was done by the Greenbrier Culinary staff.

Congratulations Tim! Pack 112 is sponsored by the Durbin Lions Club.

Bonnie L. Plyler
Candidate for Magistrate

If elected as one of the two magistrates for Pocahontas County, Bonnie states that she shall, to the best of her ability, be temperate, attentive, patient and impartial. I believe that justice has its beginning in understanding! This can only be accomplished by having an open and independent mind. These qualities I hope to bring to the office.

Bonnie, a native of Pocahontas County, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harlan G. Tallman, of Durbin. She and her husband, Calvin, also reside in Durbin. They own and operate Plylers Gulf Service in Bartow.

A very active individual, Bonnie attends Davis & Elkins College, works daily at her business and is an active member of Greenbrier Fork V. F. W. Auxiliary #3453. Each year she participates in the Voice of Democracy Contest held for the students of Pocahontas County High School. She is currently serving as secre-problems are the same. Government should help, not make laws, rules and regulations then dictate all conditions. A democracy is supposed to be of the people, by the people and for the people. People in Charleston and Washington are finally coming to the sober conclusions that spending piles of the taxpayers money doesn't solve people's problems. We need a solid firm program addressed to local needs. Right now, people who study economic and financial conditions are saying we start right now with a drastic program to turn things around, it will take 6—8 years to make any progress, so it means that everything has to come back down to earth. Common sense must prevail once again or we go down the drain.

As a means of offering a small initiative to communities and things to improve communications and conditions in the County from the salary of the office, if elected, I pledge the following donations yearly to these facilities.

Pocahontas County Rescue Station—$1,200.00

Edmonton, Alberta. Fifteen American buffalo, believed to be part of a large herd, were stampeded by John Ladue, a French Canadian trapper, said to be the first white man to penetrate the Hay river country, in the hinterland of Alberta. He has come to Edmonton with a two years' catch from the territory several hundred miles beyond the Arctic Circle. Ladue's finding ground of the buffalo is said to be as wild as the western plains between the Rocky mountains and the Mackenzie river. The discovery of the animals in that region confirms the theory of hunters of their existence in the Rocky mountains.
